HOUSE APPROVES MEASURE REVIVING OPA

Terminal Pay Bill Clears Senate

House To Vote On Plan To Pay Bulk In Bonds

Dischargees Would Receive Compensation Up To 120 Days Pay

PEPPER AMENDMENTS ARE SHOUTED DOWN

Taft Protests Bill Calls For "Unjustifiable Expenditure"

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed legislation granting an estimated $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 in terminal leave pay to enlisted men in the armed forces and those already discharged.

The Senate approved the measure on a voice vote and returned it to the House—which had passed a similar bill unanimously—for consideration of changes. The chief of these is a plan, sponsored by President Truman, which provides for most of the payments to be made in bonds instead of cash.

Enlisted men now discharged would receive compensation up to 120 days pay, on the basis of 2½ days leave for each month of service. Officers already are entitled to terminal leave pay.

Treasury Urges Bond Plan

Before final action, the Senate shouted down two amendments by Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) which would have made it possible for the veterans to get their payments in cash, or in bonds cashable in six months.

The Senate instead provided for making the bulk of the payments in interest bearing, non-transferrable bonds instead of the cash allotments the House had approved.

Sen. Johnson (D-Colo) said the treasury and budget bureau had urged the bond plan "to prevent inflation."

When Sen. Overton (D-La) observed that the United States "has done more for its veterans than any other nation," Johnson agreed, and added:

"We have the best veterans on earth. We want to reward them generously, for they have performed magnificently for us."

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) protested that the bill calls for 'an utterly unjustifiable expenditure of a huge sum." He argued that the GI Bill of Rights provides "liberal" treatment of former servicemen.

"We've come to the time when we cannot continue to spend federal funds in the way proposed here," he said.

Knowland Takes Issue With Taft

He declared that because lieutenants and captains received both terminal pay and mustering-out pay, the same "mistake" ought not to be made for all servicemen.

But Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), who served in the army as an enlisted man and officer, declared that GIs are entitled to receive the terminal pay to correct an "inequality" with officers.

By a vote of 44 to 33, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Hart (R-Conn) which would have granted automatic promotions to American prisoners of war as well as subsistence allowances during the period of their captivity.

Johnson, opposing the amendment, called attention to the fact that President Truman vetoed similar legislation in the form of a separate bill, and declared there would be no surer way to kill the pending measure.

Defective Shells Killed GIs, Senators Are Told

Gen. Waitt Doubts That Responsibility Could Be Fixed

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical warfare service, grimly acknowledged today that defective mortar shells had killed American soldiers but expressed doubt that the responsibility could be "pinned down" on any particular manufacturer.

His statement came as the Senate War Investigating committee suddenly switched from a review of a munitions combine's parties and Washington influence to an inquiry into its shell-producing costs and efficiency.

It climaxed a day in which:

1. Chairman Mead (D-NY) demanded that the War department "discipline" high-ranking officers who travelled to New York on military orders and attended a gay party at which Rep. May (D-Ky) was embraced by a pretty brunette. Waitt, who was among them, said he did transact official business there the following day.

Secretary Testifies

2. A red-haired secretary, Mrs. Jean Bates, testified that her employers tried to hush her testimony before the committee.

Mead drew from Waitt the story of the defective shells, which the general conceded might never have been made public had it not been for the committee's inquiry.

Mead produced two letters from army officers—"from widely-separated parts of the country"—which reported that the 4.2 shell was so defective that it exploded in the muzzle of the mortars, killing some of the crews. This, they wrote, led to a special order requiring future firing by lanyard from a protected distance.

This, they added, reduced the effectiveness of the weapon, used to drop explosives from a high trajectory behind protective shelter, and cut down the effectiveness and speed of firing. Mead declined to disclose, the officers' names, explaining that they are still in the reserve.

His jaws clamped in obvious recognition of the seriousness of the report, Waitt conceded it was true —"yes, indeed, I sweat blood over this thing. But we don't know whose shell went bad."

Counteracts Ballyhoo

Mead said he was producing the records to counteract the "ballyhoo by witnesses who think that their case is strengthened by the claim: 'We delivered the shells.' "

A big contract for 4.2 mortar shells was held by Erie Basin Metal Products Company, one of the combine which handled in all $78,000,000 worth of war business, and other manufacturers also made the 4.2 shell.

Waitt raised this point, testifying that "it doesn't mean that the defective shell can be tied in with these contracts" held by the combine.

And it doesn't mean that they can be excluded, snapped back Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich).

Waitt did not want to "guess' on the number of GIs killed by the defective shells but estimated "anyway ten or a dozen." He said there apparently were faults in the "specification or design" and that chemi-

Russia Wrecked Manchu Industry, Pauley Reports

U. S. May Withhold German Reparations Deliveries From Reds

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 23. (AP)—Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley reported today that Russia has wrecked the rich industrial economy of Manchuria by removing vast amounts of machinery as war booty.

He also revealed that the United States has considered withholding German reparations deliveries from Russia as compensation.

Pauley, who made a preliminary report to President Truman yesterday on his 49,000-mile tour of Manchuria, Korea and Germany, told a news conference today that the estimated value of plants "incapacitated" by the Manchurian removal was more than $2,000,000,000. Most of the machinery had been put in Manchuria by the Japanese, but some was Chinese.

Mining Centers Are Hit

Two areas put out of production are the Fushun and Fushien coal mining centers, Pauley said. He disclosed that he is urging here the immediate delivery of Japanese steam power plants to the mines to save them from flooding in the September rainy season.

Manchuria today, Pauley declared, has been reduced to an agricultural economy, upsetting the "lives and welfare of 900,000,000 people" throughout the Far East who might otherwise have benefitted from the vast productive capacity of the region. It will be at least a generation, he estimated, before the loss is made up.

With respect to Germany, Pauley warned that the Allies are in danger of "repeating the tragic blunders of World War One" which enabled Germany to recover as a great power. Stating he had in mind Foreign Minister Molotov's claim for $10,000,000,000 of German reparations, which probably would mean a Russian percentage of German production for years to come, Pauley said that any such incentive to build up German production must be avoided.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS, NATIONALIST FORCES WAGE BITTER BATTLES

NANKING, July 23 (AP) — Bitter fighting, nearing the point of full-scale warfare, was waged by Communist and nationalist forces in China's midriff today as Gen. George Marshall and the new United States ambassador, John Leighton Stuart, conferred at length over an elusive peace.

The chief Communist negotiator, Gen. Chou En-Lai, was expected to return tomorrow to the capital from Shanghai to resume peace talks which broke down when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek left Nanking's summer heat for Ku-Ling.

Anti-American pressure was rising once more as the negotiators were about to meet.

Marines in North China stations, who sent detachments searching for seven kidnaped comrades, were accused by the Communists of "invading" Communist-held areas. They were flatly warned that "if conflict occurs," the responsibility will rest with the marines.

Lane And O'Conor Formally Accept Their Nominations At Convention

By RENE J. CAPPON

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP)—William Preston Lane, Jr., and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor formally accepted before the Democratic convention today their nominations for governor and Senate, respectively, Lane stressing party unity in his address and O'Conor dwelling on international affairs.

The convention adjourned at 5:30 p. m., after the state central committee elected Robert B. Ennis, Baltimore, as its chairman, succeeding Truman B. Cash.

A platform pledging support to President Truman, the United Nations, and limitation of successive governors' terms to two was adopted by the assembly without debate.

It adopted as one of its planks a statement recently made by Lane that "we want to keep the Democratic party free from control by any pressure group, capital or labor.

The Democratc party must remain liberal and progressive—but never radical—in its aims and policies."

"It is a happy circumstance that the successful candidates in the recent primaries do not carry the banner of any particular group or faction within the Democratic party, Lane told the delegates.

"The gubernatorial primary was unusually hard-fought," the Hagerstown publisher told the delegates. "The party has carried on its discussions publicly. Today we name our leaders. Today we close ranks."

He said he had been assured of the "Loyal support" of Rep. H. Streett Baldwin and State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, whom he defeated in the primary.

Gov. O'Conor followed Lane to the speaker's rostrum to accept his nomination for the United States Senate—as his defeated opponent, Sen. George L. Radcliffe, listened —in a speech devoted largely to international affairs.

Jew Underground Group Declares It Bombed Hotel

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

JERUSALEM, July 23 (AP) — An announcement purportedly from the underground Irgun Zvai Leumi declared tonight that "soldiers" of that organization had staged the bomb attack on the King Dovid hotel which killed at least 48 persons and injured 55, with 72 others missing.

The statement, however, blamed the British for the loss of life, declaring the British ignored warnings given by telephone and by explosion of a warning bomb before the Irgun attack against "the conquering government."

The typewritten announcement in Hebrew was delivered to the Associated Press by a messenger boy, in the usual fashion of communiques from the underground.

British troops and Palestine police pressed a manhunt through closely-guarded Jerusalem for the attackers, and detained 20 Jews for questioning. Rescuers kept digging in the mass of ruins of the hotel's collapsed east wing, hoping to find more persons entombed alive.

Troops Rescue Man

Digging down more than eight feet, troops rescued Donald C. Thompson, 52, assistant to Chief Palestine Secretary Sir John Shaw, who had been pinned between two huge concrete slabs for 31 hours. Thompson, apparently not severely injured, had directed the diggers, and had said earlier that a man near him still was alive.

An Arab was rescued several hours before. Bodies of two Arab

Egypt Requests U.N. To Consider Palestine Case

Assembly Can Take Action Or Submit Question To Council

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—The Egyptian government, acting in concert with the six other states of the Arab League, has formally requested that the United Nations General Assembly meeting in September consider the Palestinian situation, the United Nations secretariat announced today.

Arkady A. Sobolev, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, made public a letter from the Egyptian foreign minister accompanying text of notes on Palestine handed by Iraq and Egypt to the British ambassadors in Cairo and Bagdad last month.

Up To Assembly

The Egyptian foreign minister, Ahmen Lotfi El Said Pasha, informed the secretariat that the communications were sent "with a view of submitting the proposals therein set fourth to the General Assembly of the United Nations at its next meeting."

It was also requested that the letters be circuiated among the United Nations.

Under the United Nations Charter the general assembly can consider the case and make whatever recommendations it desires. Or it can submit the case to the Security council for such action as the council may think necessary, if it feels that peace is threatened.

Blandy Gives Go-Ahead Signal As Final Preparations Made

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

ABOARD THE USS APPALACHIAN, Wednesday, July 24 (AP)—Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy gave the go-ahead signal today to the earth's first undersea atomic bomb blast as last-hour preparations were made under all the secrecy of wartime.

The task force commander from the USS Mt. McKinley ordered the second atomic bomb explosion in Bikini lagoon as soon as possible after 8:35 a. m., tomorrow (4:35 p. m., Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time.)

Associated Press Correspondent Elton C. Fay reported from the Mt. McKinley that Blandy said the weather forecast was "still moderately optimistic" but he was not completely confident in it.

Therefore, a weather check will continue all day and into the night with a postponement order still possible up until midnight tonight.

A tropical weather front was causing all the trouble, carrying low clouds and shifting winds over the Marshall islands.

The order fixing tomorrow as "B" day was carried to the fleet by radio, signal flags and the hoarse whistle of the Mt. McKinley. The decision was reached after a morning meeting between Blandy, meteorologists and high command chiefs.

Clouds Hide Target Ships

The signal went out under anything but auspicious weather conditions. A gray blanket of clouds and rain squalls drifted across the target ships, frequently hiding them as crews hurried about their decks starting final preparations.

An intertropical front, which, 24 hours ago, had moved south, this morning pushed one edge back over Bikini island.

Meteorologists, however, said the storm was showing signs of moving off to the west under the push of a high pressure area which was hanging nearby.

Blandy, cognizant of all the weather uncertainties, said that he felt he could not miss the opportunity tomorrow of "trying for a hole in the weather."

A small vessel, presumed to be that assigned to lower the bomb into the lagoon, was moved in today. A tug towed it slowly, picking its way through the target craft to the central location.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) —A new group of sun spots—easily visible through dark glasses—was reported today by the naval observatory.

It was not predicted whether the group will produce a magnetic storm such as disrupted radio communications and teletype circuits last year. An official picked Saturday as the day its influence will be felt, if at all.

Pullman Co. Conductors Will Strike

Walkout, Set For August 7, Would Affect 2,700 Workers

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — H. W. Fraser, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said tonight a strike of Pullman system conductors is scheduled for 6 p. m. August 7 because of a dispute over interpretation of wage increases granted in recent arbitration proceedings.

Affecting 2,700 Pullman conductors, the strike will be carried through as scheduled, Fraser said, unless President Truman names an emergency fact-finding board. This action would have the effect of halting the strike for 60 days.

Formula "Changed"

Fraser said Pullman conductors were granted a total wage increase of $1.48 daily in arbitration of the recent railway strike issues.

The union's position, he said, was that Pullman conductors should be granted a monthly increase of 30 times $1.48 but that the Pullman Company insisted on dividing the figure by eight and multiplying that by the number of hours a conductor worked in a month.

"While that beats the conductors out of only eight cents a day and $2.40 a month, it changes the formula for determining wage increases for salaried employes which has been in effect for many years and recognized by the carriers," Fraser said.

Company's View

In Chicago, James M. Carry, vice president of the Pullman Company, said his firm had agreed to submit the issue to arbitration under the Railway Labor act but that the union refused further arbitration. Fraser, however, declared:

"We have arbitrated it."

He said the National Mediation Board had been notified of the strike and that the next step now was up to the board and to President Truman.

Carry said an 18½ cent hourly increase "or the equivalent thereof expressed in daily, weekly or monthly rates" was accepted by all other Pullman employes and that meeting the conductors' demands would mean an hourly increase to them of 19¾ cents.

HOBBS BLOCKS FINAL ACTION BY CONGRESS ON TIDELANDS BILL

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — Rep. Hobbs (D-Ala) late today blocked final congressional action on a bill to give states clear title to oil-rich tidelands.

Chairman Sumners (D-Texas), of the House Judiciary committee, asked the House to agree to a version of the legislation adopted yesterday by the Senate 44 to 34.

But when Hobbs announced he had a "vital amendment' to the measure, Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) asked Sumners to withdraw his request until tomorrow, and he did so.

Hobbs, an opponent of the legislation, told a reporter later his amendment would specify that federal control be retained over all oceanic tideland areas. This would strip the bill of its major provision.

In its present form the measure would apply not only to the shorelands but land covered by navigable streams.

The House earlier passed the bill which the Senate amended.

McCormack Assures Colleagues Truman Will Sign Compromise

SENATE TO CONSIDER BATTERED BILL TODAY

Use Of OPA Money For "Propaganda" Is Outlawed By New Law

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The House passed the new OPA bill, 210 to 142, today after assurances from Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.) that President Truman will sign it.

The Senate plans to take it up tomorrow, with leaders hoping that it may be sent to the White House the same day. With the president's signature, the way would then be open for price ceilings to be restored after a three-week lapse.

In the final House showdown, 157 Democrats, 52 Republicans and one minor party member voted for the bill. Opposing were 119 Republicans, 22 Democrats and one minor party member.

The president meanwhile signed into law a congressional stipulation that no OPA money can be used for "propaganda" in behalf of price controls. The prohibition was put into a bill which cut $26,000,000 off the OPA appropriation for the year, limiting the agency's fund to $75,000,000.

House opponents of the OPA, shouting that its revival would "mean new scarcities and new black markets," put up a last-ditch but losing battle. A motion by Rep. Lea (D-Calif) which would have stricken everything but rent controls was defeated 220 to 135, with some Republicans supporting the administration.

Revives Rent Controls

McCormack told the House Mr. Truman will sign the battered bill, although he vetoed a previous congressional attempt to trim OPA's powers and, moreover, the new compromise measure bans price ceilings on major foods — meat,

Paraguay's President Accepts Resignations Of Cabinet Ministers

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 23 (AP)—President Higimio Morinigo has accepted the resignation of all his cabinet ministers in a move looking toward reorganization of the Paraguayan government, it was announced officially today.

The National Press Bureau said the president had reached an agreement with representatives of the leftist National Republican (Colorado) and the Febrerista parties under which the two parties, recently returned to legal status, would enter the government and collaborate with it.

The president denied earlier reports that he, himself, had resigned along with his cabinet. Morinigo has been president of the country (pop. 1,250,000) since September, 1940.

Highest Building's Suicide Alarm System Keeps Employes On Jump

By HOWARD COWAN

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—"Lady in a flowered dress with a little boy by the hand. Be up in the next car. Watch her."

It was the suicide alarm on the observatory roof of the Empire State building, tallest in the world.

By telephone, well-concealed whisper, wink of the eye and nod of the head, the word spread to guides, guards, elevator operators and even the white-aproned man behind the world's highest bar.

The lady in the flowered dress seemed nervous as she bought the ticket for the observation tower. She talked strangely, the operator said. She would bear watching.

"But we can't let her know we're watching her," said Frank Powell, observatory manager, as he waited calmly at the 86th floor. This is the roof. The tip of the observatory tower is 102 stories high.

"Maybe she's okay," he said. "They usually are. We just can't take chances."

The lady didn't jump. Didn't even try. She didn't get a chance, such attention did she get from guides eager to show her the sights.

Thus they said, was averted potential suicide No. 5 for Empire State.

More than 6,000,000 people have been on top of the 1,250-foot skyscraper since it opened for business May day, 1931. As many as 12,000 have been there in a single day.

Four have climbed over the four-foot, 10-inch guard wall and jumped.

"Rarely a day goes by we don't have one," said Powell, referring to the anti-suicide workout just finished.

"We've taken several off the ledge. But not all were going to jump. Some were just showoffs, or dumb."

He told about a British merchant seaman who used the ledge to show a companion how agile he was on a ship's mast. A middle-aged gent posed, standing on the wall, while his wife focused a camera on him.

One day a man leaped nimbly to the top of the wall and poised.

"You can't run at them and you can't yell at them," Powell said. "That's liable to frighten them and they'll jump sure. I look them right in the eye and talk, fast. 'Hey, I want to talk to you a minute,' I said to this screwball."

Powell pulled the ledge-walker down while women screamed.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed legislation granting an estimated $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 in terminal leave pay to enlisted men in the armed forces and those already discharged.

Gen. Waitt Doubts That Responsibility Could Be Fixed

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical warfare service, grimly acknowledged today that defective mortar shells had killed American soldiers but expressed doubt that the responsibility could be "pinned down" on any particular manufacturer.

His statement came as the Senate War Investigating committee suddenly switched from a review of a munitions combine's parties and Washington influence to an inquiry into its shell-producing costs and efficiency.

It climaxed a day in which:

1. Chairman Mead (D-NY) demanded that the War department "discipline" high-ranking officers who travelled to New York on military orders and attended a gay party at which Rep. May (D-Ky) was embraced by a pretty brunette. Waitt, who was among them, said he did transact official business there the following day.

Secretary Testifies

2. A red-haired secretary, Mrs. Jean Bates, testified that her employers tried to hush her testimony before the committee.

Mead drew from Waitt the story of the defective shells, which the general conceded might never have been made public had it not been for the committee's inquiry.

Mead produced two letters from army officers—"from widely-separated parts of the country"—which reported that the 4.2 shell was so defective that it exploded in the muzzle of the mortars, killing some of the crews. This, they wrote, led to a special order requiring future firing by lanyard from a protected distance.

This, they added, reduced the effectiveness of the weapon, used to drop explosives from a high trajectory behind protective shelter, and cut down the effectiveness and speed of firing. Mead declined to disclose the officers' names, explaining that they are still in the reserve.

His jaws clamped in obvious recognition of the seriousness of the report, Waitt conceded it was true —"yes, indeed, I sweat blood over this thing. But we don't know whose shell went bad."

Counteracts Ballyhoo

Mead said he was producing the records to counteract the "ballyhoo by witnesses who think that their case is strengthened by the claim: 'We delivered the shells.' "

A big contract for 4.2 mortar shells was held by Erie Basin Metal Products Company, one of the combine which handled in all $78,000,000 worth of war business, and other manufacturers also made the 4.2 shell.

Waitt raised this point, testifying that "it doesn't mean that the defective shell can be tied in with these contracts" held by the combine.

And it doesn't mean that they can be excluded, snapped back Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich).

Waitt did not want to "guess' on the number of GIs killed by the defective shells but estimated "anyway ten or a dozen." He said there apparently were faults in the "specification or design" and that chemi-

ARTIST'S CONCEPTION—Based on Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy's advance description of the likely results, this is an artist's conception of the column of water to be blown into the air from the underwater atom bomb blast scheduled to occur at Bikini this afternoon United States time. Adm. Blandy predicted waves as high as 100 feet as a million tons of water rise in a huge column topped by a geyser-like spray. The drawing was made by AP Staff Artist John Carlton.

Pullman Co. Conductors Will Strike

Walkout, Set For August 7, Would Affect 2,700 Workers

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—H. W. Fraser, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said tonight a strike of Pullman system conductors is scheduled for 6 p. m. August 7 because of a dispute over interpretation of wage increases granted in recent arbitration proceedings.

Affecting 2,700 Pullman conductors, the strike will be carried through as scheduled, Fraser said, unless President Truman names an emergency fact-finding board. This action would have the effect of halting the strike for 60 days.

Formula "Changed"

Fraser said Pullman conductors were granted a total wage increase of $1.48 daily in arbitration of the recent railway strike issues.

The union's position, he said, was that Pullman conductors should be granted a monthly increase of 30 times $1.48 but that the Pullman Company insisted on dividing the figure by eight and multiplying that by the number of hours a conductor worked in a month.

"While that beats the conductors out of only eight cents a day and $2.40 a month, it changes the formula for determining wage increases for salaried employes which has been in effect for many years and recognized by the carriers," Fraser said.

Company's View

In Chicago, James M. Carry, vice president of the Pullman Company, said his firm had agreed to submit the issue to arbitration under the Railway Labor act but that the union refused further arbitration. Fraser, however, declared:

"We have arbitrated it."

He said the National Mediation Board had been notified of the strike and that the next step now was up to the board and to President Truman.

Carry said an 18½ cent hourly increase "or the equivalent thereof expressed in daily, weekly or monthly rates" was accepted by all other Pullman employes and that meeting the conductors' demands would mean an hourly increase to them of 19¾ cents.

Legislation Is Passed By 210 To 142 Vote

McCormack Assures Colleagues Truman Will Sign Compromise

Use Of OPA Money For "Propaganda" Is Outlawed By New Law

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The House passed the new OPA bill, 210 to 142, today after assurances from Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.) that President Truman will sign it.

The Senate plans to take it up tomorrow, with leaders hoping that it may be sent to the White House the same day. With the president's signature, the way would then be open for price ceilings to be restored after a three-week lapse.

In the final House showdown, 157 Democrats, 52 Republicans and one minor party member voted for the bill. Opposing were 119 Republicans, 22 Democrats and one minor party member.

The president meanwhile signed into law a congressional stipulation that no OPA money can be used for "propaganda" in behalf of price controls. The prohibition was put into a bill which cut $26,000,000 off the OPA appropriation for the year, limiting the agency's fund to $75,000,000.

House opponents of the OPA, shouting that its revival would "mean new scarcities and new black markets," put up a last-ditch but losing battle. A motion by Rep. Lea (D-Calif) which would have stricken everything but rent controls was defeated 220 to 135, with some Republicans supporting the administration.

Revives Rent Controls

McCormack told the House Mr. Truman will sign the battered bill, although he vetoed a previous congressional attempt to trim OPA's powers and, moreover, the new compromise measure bans price ceilings on major foods — meat,

CHINESE COMMUNISTS, NATIONALIST FORCES WAGE BITTER BATTLES

NANKING, July 23 (AP) — Bitter fighting, nearing the point of full-scale warfare, was waged by Communist and nationalist forces in China's midriff today as Gen. George Marshall and the new United States ambassador, John Leighton Stuart, conferred at length over an elusive peace.

The chief Communist negotiator, Gen. Chou En-Lai, was expected to return tomorrow to the capital from Shanghai to resume peace talks which broke down when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek left Nanking's summer heat for Ku-Ling.

Anti-American pressure was rising once more as the negotiators were about to meet.

Marines in North China stations, who sent detachments searching for seven kidnaped comrades, were accused by the Communists of "invading" Communist-held areas. They were flatly warned that "if conflict occurs," the responsibility will rest with the marines.

Egypt Requests U.N. To Consider Palestine Case

Assembly Can Take Action Or Submit Question To Council

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—The Egyptian government, acting in concert with the six other states of the Arab League, has formally requested that the United Nations General Assembly meeting in September consider the Palestinian situation, the United Nations secretariat announced today.

Arkady A. Sobolev, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, made public a letter from the Egyptian foreign minister accompanying text of notes on Palestine handed by Iraq and Egypt to the British ambassadors in Cairo and Bagdad last month.

Up To Assembly

The Egyptian foreign minister, Ahmen Lotfi El Said Pasha, informed the secretariat that the communications were sent "with a view of submitting the proposals therein set fourth to the General Assembly of the United Nations at its next meeting."

It was also requested that the letters be circulated among the United Nations.

Under the United Nations Charter the general assembly can consider the case and make whatever recommendations it desires. Or it can submit the case to the Security council for such action as the council may think necessary, if it feels that peace is threatened.

Blandy Gives Go-Ahead Signal As Final Preparations Made

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

ABOARD THE USS APPALACHIAN, Wednesday, July 24 (AP)—Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy gave the go-ahead signal today to the earth's first undersea atomic bomb blast as last-hour preparations were made under all the secrecy of wartime.

The task force commander from the USS Mt. McKinley ordered the second atomic bomb explosion in Bikini lagoon as soon as possible after 8:35 a. m., tomorrow (4:35 p. m., Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time.)

Associated Press Correspondent Elton C. Fay reported from the Mt. McKinley that Blandy said the weather forecast was "still moderately optimistic" but he was not completely confident in it.

Therefore, a weather check will continue all day and into the night with a postponement order still possible up until midnight tonight.

A tropical weather front was causing all the trouble, carrying low clouds and shifting winds over the Marshall Islands.

The order fixing tomorrow as "E" day was carried to the fleet by radio, signal flags and the hoarse whistle of the Mt. McKinley. The decision was reached after a morning meeting between Blandy, meteorologists and high command chiefs.

Clouds Hide Target Ships

The signal went out under anything but auspicious weather conditions. A gray blanket of clouds and rain squalls drifted across the target ships, frequently hiding them as crews hurried about their decks starting final preparations.

An intertropical front, which, 24 hours ago, had moved south, this morning pushed one edge back over Bikini island.

Meteorologists, however, said the storm was showing signs of moving off to the west under the push of a high pressure area which was hanging nearby.

Blandy, cognizant of all the weather uncertainties, said that he felt he could not miss the opportunity tomorrow of "trying for a hole in the weather."

A small vessel, presumed to be that assigned to lower the bomb into the lagoon, was moved in today. A tug towed it slowly, picking its way through the target craft to the central location.

Naval Observatory Reports Sun Spots

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) —A new group of sun spots—easily visible through dark glasses—was reported today by the naval observatory.

It was not predicted whether the group will produce a magnetic storm such as disrupted radio communications and teletype circuits last year. An official picked Saturday as the day its influence will be felt, if at all.

HOBBS BLOCKS FINAL ACTION BY CONGRESS ON TIDELANDS BILL

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — Rep. Hobbs (D-Ala) late today blocked final congressional action on a bill to give states clear title to oil-rich tidelands.

Chairman Sumners (D-Texas), of the House Judiciary committee, asked the House to agree to a version of the legislation adopted yesterday by the Senate 44 to 34.

But when Hobbs announced he had a "vital amendment' to the measure, Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) asked Sumners to withdraw his request until tomorrow, and he did so.

Hobbs, an opponent of the legislation, told a reporter later his amendment would specify that federal control be retained over all oceanic tideland areas. This would strip the bill of its major provision.

In its present form the measure would apply not only to the shorelands but land covered by navigable streams.

Paraguay's President Accepts Resignations Of Cabinet Ministers

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 23 (AP)—President Higimio Morinigo has accepted the resignation of all his cabinet ministers in a move looking toward reorganization of the Paraguayan government, it was announced officially today.

The National Press Bureau said the president had reached an agreement with representatives of the leftist National Republican (Colorado) and the Febrerista parties under which the two parties, recently returned to legal status, would enter the government and collaborate with it.

The president denied earlier reports that he, himself, had resigned along with his cabinet. Morinigo has been president of the country (pop. 1,250,000) since September, 1940.

Jew Underground Group Declares It Bombed Hotel

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

JERUSALEM, July 23 (AP) — An announcement purportedly from the underground Irgun Zvai Leumi declared tonight that "soldiers" of that organization had staged the bomb attack on the King Dovid hotel which killed at least 48 persons and injured 55, with 72 others missing.

The statement, however, blamed the British for the loss of life, declaring the British ignored warnings given by telephone and by explosion of a warning bomb before the Irgun attack against "the conquering government."

The typewritten announcement in Hebrew was delivered to the Associated Press by a messenger boy, in the usual fashion of communiques from the underground.

British troops and Palestine police pressed a manhunt through closely-guarded Jerusalem for the attackers, and detained 20 Jews for questioning. Rescuers kept digging in the mass of ruins of the hotel's collapsed east wing, hoping to find more persons entombed alive.

Troops Rescue Man

Digging down more than eight feet, troops rescued Donald C. Thompson, 52, assistant to Chief Palestine Secretary Sir John Shaw, who had been pinned between two huge concrete slabs for 31 hours. Thompson, apparently not severely injured, had directed the diggers, and had said earlier that a man near him still was alive.

An Arab was rescued several hours before. Bodies of two Arab

By RENE J. CAPPON

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP)—William Preston Lane, Jr., and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor formally accepted before the Democratic convention today their nominations for governor and Senate, respectively. Lane stressing party unity in his address and O'Conor dwelling on international affairs.

The convention adjourned at 5:30 p. m., after the state central committee elected Robert B. Ennis, Baltimore, as its chairman, succeeding Truman B. Cash.

A platform pledging support to President Truman, the United Nations, and limitation of successive governors' terms to two was adopted by the assembly without debate.

It adopted as one of its planks a statement recently made by Lane that "we want to keep the Democratic party free from control by any pressure group, capital or labor.

The Democratic party must remain liberal and progressive—but never radical—in its aims and policies."

"It is a happy circumstance that the successful candidates in the recent primaries do not carry the banner of any particular group or faction within the Democratic party, Lane told the delegates.

"The gubernatorial primary was unusually hard-fought," the Hagerstown publisher told the delegates. "The party has carried on its discussions publicly. Today we name our leaders. Today we close ranks."

He said he had been assured of the "Loyal support" of Rep. H. Streett Baldwin and State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, whom he defeated in the primary.

Gov. O'Conor followed Lane to the speaker's rostrum to accept his nomination for the United States Senate—as his defeated opponent, Sen. George L. Radcliffe, listened —in a speech devoted largely to international affairs.

Highest Building's Suicide Alarm System Keeps Employes On Jump

By HOWARD COWAN

NEW YORK, July 23. (AP)—"Lady in a flowered dress with a little boy by the hand. Be up in the next car. Watch her."

It was the suicide alarm on the observatory roof of the Empire State building, tallest in the world.

By telephone, well-concealed whisper, wink of the eye and nod of the head, the word spread to guides, guards, elevator operators and even the white-aproned man behind the world's highest bar.

The lady in the flowered dress seemed nervous as she bought the ticket for the observation tower. She talked strangely, the operator said. She would bear watching.

"But we can't let her know we're watching her," said Frank Powell, observatory manager, as he waited calmly at the 86th floor. This is the roof. The tip of the observatory tower is 102 stories high.

"Maybe she's okay," he said. "They usually are. We just can't take chances."

The lady didn't jump. Didn't even try. She didn't get a chance, such attention did she get from guides eager to show her the sights.

Thus they said, was averted potential suicide No. 5 for Empire State.

More than 6,000,000 people have been on top of the 1,250-foot skyscraper since it opened for business May day, 1931. As many as 12,000 have been there in a single day.

Four have climbed over the four-foot, 10-inch guard wall and jumped.

"Rarely a day goes by we don't have one," said Powell, referring to the anti-suicide workout just finished.

"We've taken several off the ledge. But not all were going to jump. Some were just showoffs, or dumb."

He told about a British merchant seaman who used the ledge to show a companion how agile he was on a ship's mast. A middle-aged gent posed, standing on the wall, while his wife focused a camera on him.

One day a man leaped nimbly to the top of the wall and poised.

"You can't run at them and you can't yell at them," Powell said. "That's liable to frighten them and they'll jump sure. I look them right in the eye and talk, fast. 'Hey, I want to talk to you a minute,' I said to this screwball."

Powell pulled the ledge-walker down while women screamed.

State Democrats Pledge Support To U.N., Truman

Platform Calls For School System And Hospital Improvement

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP) — The state Democratic convention today adopted a platform pledging its candidates to support of the United Nations Organization and President Truman, extension and improvement of the state's school system and hospitals, and the submission to the voters of a proposal to bring the Baltimore police department under city administration.

In the last plank, the Democrats took the same step as had the Republicans in their convention yesterday. Meeting another issue developed by the GOP, the party adopted the following plank on unemployment compensation:

"The party pledges itself to the advocacy of such amendments by the Congress to the unemployment compensation features of the federal Social Security laws and such supplementary amendments of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation act as may be necessary to meet unforeseen conditions which have arisen since the original enactment of such legislation."

The platform approved the appointment of a committee from Baltimore city and the counties to prepare an amendment to the constitution for more equitable representation of Baltimore city and some counties in the Maryland General Assembly.

The platform further: (1) Pledged the party to submit a constitutional amendment to voters limiting governors to two successive terms, (2) favored adoption of legislation to reallocate the state's revenues and appropriations more equitably, (3) promised to lower and "eventually eliminate the state tax on real estate property," (4) pledged itself to complete projects for the Chesapeake bay bridge and the Patapsco river crossing, (5) preserve and extend the state's natural resources, (6) declared that "we believe in the fullest measure of home rule for the several political subdivisions of the state."

A plank identical with a Republican platform proposal that 100,000 Jews be allowed to immigrate into Palestine was also written into the Democratic program.

Lane And O'Conor

"Foremost of all the questions that must be settled by Congress in the months ahead is that of world co-operation and of a lasting peace," the two-term Maryland chief executive said.

"America must approach the discussions of international accord with a willingness to meet every well-intentioned proposal halfway," he said, adding:

"With the whole world in turmoil, and with the threat of communism hanging like a cloud over all nations, I believe that the detection and extinction of subversive and un-American activities in our country also pose a problem for our legislature in Washington."

"It is all too easy, he said, "to dismiss these activities as some are prone to do."

On national affairs, he declared himself "unalterably opposed to such theories and such extension of federal powers" which have grown up "like a barnacle on the federal structure."

On national and state affairs, the senatorial nominee declared himself opposed to a "tendency towards undue encroachment by the federal government upon the proper exercise by the states of their vested rights."

There was little direct reference throughout the convention to the platform and orating at the GOP gathering here yesterday, Lane said, however, that "we do not adopt 52-tag platforms of which the Republicans of this state are so fond."

"Your candidates," he said, "intend to make the most intensive contest of which they are capable. With your active help in acquainting the voters with what we intend to do I am sure we shall succeed."

Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, elected chairman of the convention, delivered a brief keynote address in which he called attention to the Democratic party's national record since 1933.

"We are proud of our record," he said, "and I believe on it we can wage a victorious campaign."

James J. Lacy, nominee for comptroller, and Hall Hammond, for attorney general, also made brief acceptance speeches.

The convention relegated to its resolutions committee the task of threshing out the formal party program. There were no discussions on the floor, which listened to the orations and then carried through the routine balloting for the respective candidates.

Three Democratic Congressmen Lose In Oklahoma Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23 (AP) — Three Democratic congressmen seeking re-nomination were defeated in today's Oklahoma Democratic runoff primary, while Roy J. Turner, Oklahoma city oil man and rancher, held a lead for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Defeated were Reps. Jed Johnson, Sixth district; Victor Wickersham, Seventh, and Lyle Boren, Fourth. All three have conceded.

Johnson, veteran of 20 years in the House, lost to Lawton District Judge Toby Morris.

Wickersham and Boren lost to youthful attorneys and World War II veterans. Wickersham's opponent was Preston E. Peden, Altus, while Boren fell to Glen D. Johnson, Okemah.

Turner maintained a strong lead over Tulsa County Prosecutor Dixie Gilmer in the gubernatorial race.

Legislation Is

poultry, eggs, milk, etc. — for at least 30 days.

But it permits immediate restoration of controls on manufactured products, rents, and on foods not specifically exempted.

OPA could roll back to their June 30 levels any rent increases made by landlords since that date. An official told reporters the OPA plans to re-establish the June 30 ceilings in the areas which were under rent controls then.

The new legislation writes formulas for higher prices in many lines, but OPA is given at least 30 days in which to figure these new prices.

The measure creates a three-man control board, superior to OPA, to determine when various items shall be put under controls and when controls should be dropped.

Price control is banned under any circumstances before August 20 on meats, dairy products, poultry, eggs, grains, cottonseed and soybeans and food and feed products made from them; tobacco and petroleum and their products.

Other Major Provisions

Other major provisions of the bill include:

Agriculture—OPA is stripped of final authority over price controls on agricultural items, and the power is placed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. The control board is superior to the agriculture secretary in determining whether the decontrolled foods are restored to price ceilings.

Manufactured goods—A new formula prescribes that price ceilings must be set high enough for producers, manufacturers and processors to take care of the average increase in costs in their industry since 1940. OPA is given some discretion in granting price increases, if old prices return a "reasonable profit."

Wholesalers and retails — OPA must allow "the current cost of acquisition of any commodity, plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect March 31, 1946." This would stop a large portion of OPA's so-called "cost absorption" program.

Subsidies—The bill cuts in half the administration request for $2,051,000,000 for use largely in holding down food prices.

Bee Bee Washington Beats Ruben Shank

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Bee Bee Washington won a unanimous decision tonight over Ruben Shank, Denver, in a rough 10-round boxing match which saw no knockdowns.

A crowd of 4,251 watched Bee Bee, local Negro who recently lost a bout to Aaron Perry for the D. C. middleweight championship, survive one of the roughest evenings of his career.

The bout was only seconds old when Shank went down on one fist, half slipping under the first flurry of Bee Bee's lefts. But the cowboy was quickly up again, with no count. Late in the first round Shank's knees appeared to buckle momentarily under a long straight left from Washington, but he kept going.

Throughout, Shank rushed the taller and heavier Negro, roughing him as much as possible, considering the weight difference, which was 160 pounds to 150½.

Undersea Atom

ly 200 target and supporting ships apparently did not know what the little vessel was. They accorded it little more than a passing glance.

Some ships started moving out of the lagoon even before the formal order was issued.

The Appalachian sailed out of Bikini lagoon at 6 a. m. today, unexpectedly early. Her move was the last step before the start of secret maneuvers in which the bomb is to be put in place for underwater detonation tomorrow.

Ships Carry Air Bomb Scars

We sailed past the target fleet of 75 ships in the grey of the morning into a line squall coming up from the south toward the lagoon.

The storm did not close down until we had a last view of the fleet of five battleships, two carriers, three cruisers, eight submarines, 11 destroyers and other vessels, some of which may be afloat for the last time.

The array even today constitutes an impressive fleet except for the still unrepaired scars of the air bomb, exploded July 1.

Every sign points to the maintenance of secrecy in this last nuclear explosion of 1946 with wartime rigidity. A canvas shrouding the bomb is to conceal it today even from the eyes of the crew scheduled to submerge it. Only scientists from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory will be permitted to look upon this last bomb.

There is no information whether the bomb is shaped like air bombs. Neither is there definite information whether this first great underwater test will be made with the bomb in contact with the waer inside a caisson.

The observer ship Panamint, with scientists and foreign observers aboard, and Blue Ridge, carrying military observers, did not even come to Bikini this time. They were at Kwajalein, nearly 200 miles distant.

Garment Workers

workers at the plant were present at the meeting yesterday morning in Allegany Trades Council hall, union officials said.

Irwin Jaffee, Lynchburg, Va., assistant regional director, in a statement yesterday stated, "It is the policy of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to live up to its agreements and under no circumstances will we tolerate wildcat strikes."

Jaffee said he was interested in knowing why Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, granted picketing permits after an international official wired police the strike was unauthorized.

Jaffee said last night that he wrote to Chief Eyerman advising the police chief of the local's action and requesting that picketing permits issued to striking workers be revoked.

Chief Eyerman last evening said Jaffee's letter was referred to Charles Z. Heskett, city solicitor, but added the picketing permits had been issued by advice of Heskett and on the basis of the presence of a labor dispute as provided in the city ordinance on picketing.

Jaffee said 12 pickets failed to show up at the meeting yesterday. Members on strike are reported to be insisting on a 20 cent hourly increase and an adjustment in the piece work rates.

A union official said the time set for the resumption of work will probably be tomorrow morning.

AFL To Investigate

An official of the Allegany Trades Council said last evening that a committee of the group will meet today with Irwin Jaffee, Lynchburg, Va., an official of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, concerning the strike at the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant on Gay street.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the council representing the American Federation of Labor in Allegany county, and R. C. Simmons, business agent of the Laborers local union here, were named to the committee to investigate the case.

Simmons said the council wants to be satisfied that the workers are getting their rights since Local 434, Garment Workers Union, is affiliated with the council.

The union official said the committee was also instructed to learn why the international union has called the strike unauthorized.

Combined Business Pleasure

"It might be well to require, hereafter, that the contractor be required to fire a few of these shells before he sends them on to the boys," Mead remarked.

"And the men who design them, too," added Waitt.

Much of Waitt's earlier testimony focused on his attendance at a wedding party in New York January 2, 1944, for Natalie Garsson, daughter of Murray Garsson, one of the combine's promoters. Waitt acknowledged that his hotel bill was paid by Garsson and that he collected travel and subsistance allowance from the War department for the trip.

He declared that he was planning a trip at that time to New York for consultations concerning "construction of the new war gas" and that he was only combining "business with pleasure" by taking in the wedding.

He said he presumed that Murray Garsson had invited him because he wanted to "put on a good show" with "a few generals" present at the wedding. He presumed, too, he added that other generals in chemical warfare service and May, chairman of the House Military committee were invited for the same reason.

tion of the Potsdam agreement," the president's reparations expert declared:

"We must see to it that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder."

Pauley made it clear that the idea of withholding German reparations from Russia so far has only been considered and that no decision has been made. But he said he believed such action could be taken without violating the Potsdam agreement which calls for deliveries of German plants and machinery from the American and British occupation zones in return for Russian-controlled raw materials.

Coroner's Jury Fails To Name George White As Death Car Driver

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 23, (AP)—A coroner's jury at an inquest today failed to name George White, 52, New York and Hollywood producer, as the driver of the car that killed a newlywed couple on the highway north of here Saturday night.

The jury of seven men and one woman further held that there was not sufficient evidence produced to prove the driver criminally negligent.

The verdict of a coroner's jury has no legal binding in California.

The victims of the accident—Claude McLester Lee, 42, and Leona Ann Osborne Lee, 18, Santa Ana, Calif.—were married Saturday at Tijuana, Mex. They were struck as they crossed the highway.

girl secretaries could be seen below the site where Thompson was trapped.

The typewritten message, headed "Notice," declared:

"On July 23, at 12:05 p. m. soldiers of Irgun Zvai Leumi attacked the central British administration, the secretariat of the conquering government, and headquarters of the conquering army.

"The attack was carried out with a fight with army patrols and a British police force.

"According to a plan that was thought out beforehand, the explosive was set to go off only half an hour after it was brought into the building.

"Immediately after the explosive was placed, telephonic warnings were given to the main telephone exchange of the King David hotel, to press bureaus, telegraphic agencies, and to the French consulate which were in the vicinity of the hotel."

Warning Bomb

"In addition to these warnings, a warning bomb (unharmful) was placed in front of the square of the hotel in order to inform residents to remove the public from the surroundings.

"The tragedy which occurred in the civilian offices of the conquering government was done not by Jewish soldiers, who performed their duty with might and self-devotion and who have kept with military strictness the instructions they were given as regards the time required for evacuation of civilian people from the buildings.

"The tragedy was done by the British themselves, who paid no attention to the warning and did not evacuate the building according to military specialists' advice, who had taken upon themselves the task of evacuating the bombing area—an area where the slightest touch might bring an explosion."

A broadcast by another Jewish underground organization, Haganah, condemned yesterday's bombings, and declared Jews would discard such methods in their continuing fight against British policy.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES REACH HIGHEST PEAK IN DOZEN YEARS

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — Infantile paralysis cases have been more numerous so far this year than for any comparable period since 1934, but United States Public Health Service officials offered hope today that the outbreaks would not develop into a major epidemic.

One official who prefers anonymity said that while incidence for the country as a whole is "above normal expectancy" and the number of cases is rather high in many states, "the outbreak can be classed as epidemic only in certain areas of four states."

He listed those states as Florida, Texas, Alabama and Colorado, adding that in the latter, more than half the cases have occurred in Denver.

Up to July 13, there were 2,596 cases throughout the country, compared with 1,679 for the same period last year, 1,752 in 1944 and 1,626 in 1943.

Not since 1934, when the total for a comparable period was 2,695, has the total to July 13 been so high.

Heirens And Lawyers Confer For Five Hours

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—William Heirens, 17, who is under investigation in three brutal killings, conferred with his lawyers for five hours today but the attorneys said nothing was done in the line of a confession.

One of his attorneys, Malachy Coghlan, said they discussed 29 criminal charges already filed against the youth, the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan, the slaying of Frances Brown and the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Josephine Ross.

No charges have been placed against Heirens in any of the slayings.

It also called for a "new regime" in Palestine "inspired by the spirit and principles of the (United Nations) Charter."

The letter called upon the British to enter negotiations as soon as possible so that an agreement could be concluded before the assembly meeting in September and requested Britain "not to take any step which might be contrary to the pledges contained in the white paper regarding the cessation of immigration and legal measures concerning the restriction of land sales."

The "white paper" was the British government declaration in 1939 fixing immigration quotas for a period of five years. The British and United States governments now are considering the report of a joint committee recommending the immigration of 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

Driver Forfeits Bond in Police Court

Roy Edwards, negro, 120 South Lee street forfeited $10 bond in police court yesterday morning on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested yesterday at 3:30 a. m. after the car he was driving crashed against a wooden barrier set up to warn motorists of excavation work the Baltimore-Liberty street intersection.

A careless driving charge against Robert S. Hamilton, Lonaconing, was dismissed in police court yesterday. Officer Curtis Kime, who investigated, said the car Hamilton was driving crashed against the rear of a car stopped in the line of traffic at South Centre and Salem streets, and operated by James Kuhlman, 414 Warnick avenue.

The city officer said Miss Mary Doll, Winifred road, was treated by a local physician for a bruised shoulder suffered in the crash.

Sensabaugh Says

July 15," Sensabaugh said. "No policeman stopped the equipment enroute. All safety precautions were observed, and there was no damage to the streets."

Then, two days later G. C. Sensabaugh was arrested as an individual and posted $50 bond, which the contractor charges was technically an illegal arrest since the equipment which was moved is owned by the corporation of which his father is president.

"The crusher was purchased and is to be operated by four veterans," he added.

The action was also discriminatory, the contractor charged, as other contracting concerns, county, state and city, run vehicles over city streets weighing more than one ton—an example being ten-ton steel wheeled rollers.

Following his arrest, Sensabaugh asked County Engineer John Carscaden to check the route of the crusher for possible damages and said he could observe no damage, the contractor said.

At the hearing this morning, City Engineer Rizer testified that apparently there was no damage to the streets as the result of moving the equipment.

Ordinance Not Inclusive

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, who was present at the hearing, said that since the ordinance does not make provisions for heavy equipment that cannot be moved on trailers with rubber tires, he is of the opinion that business men who have such equipment to be moved should post a bond to cover any damage after receiving permission to move the equipment from both the police chief and the city engineer.

In all the concern has moved 400 tons of equipment to the site on Oldtown Road where it plans to start a stone crushing business, which county officials hope will supply a quantity of crushed stone now brought from more distant points. However, of the 400 tons of equipment moved, the big crusher was the only item that could not be loaded on trailers with the required pneumatic tires.

Attorney Thomas B. Finan represented Sensabaugh at the hearing.

State Democrats Pledge Support To U.N., Truman

Platform Calls For School System And Hospital Improvement

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP) — The state Democratic convention today adopted a platform pledging its candidates to support of the United Nations Organization and President Truman, extension and improvement of the state's school system and hospitals, and the submission to the voters of a proposal to bring the Baltimore police department under city administration.

In the last plank, the Democrats took the same step as had the Republicans in their convention yesterday. Meeting another issue developed by the GOP, the party adopted the following plank on unemployment compensation:

"The party pledges itself to the advocacy of such amendments by the Congress to the unemployment compensation features of the federal Social Security laws and such supplementary amendments of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation act as may be necessary to meet unforeseen conditions which have arisen since the original enactment of such legislation."

The platform approved the appointment of a committee from Baltimore city and the counties to prepare an amendment to the constitution for more equitable representation of Baltimore city and some counties in the Maryland General Assembly.

The platform further: (1) Pledged the party to submit a constitutional amendment to voters limiting governors to two successive terms. (2) favored adoption of legislation to reallocate the state's revenues and appropriations more equitably. (3) promised to lower and "eventually eliminate the state tax on real estate property." (4) pledged itself to complete projects for the Chesapeake bay bridge and the Patapsco river crossing. (5) preserve and extend the state's natural resources. (6) declared that "we believe in the fullest measure of home rule for the several political subdivisions of the state."

A plank identical with a Republican platform proposal that 100,000 Jews be allowed to immigrate into Palestine was also written into the Democratic program.

Lane And O'Conor

"Foremost of all the questions that must be settled by Congress in the months ahead is that of world co-operation and of a lasting peace," the two-term Maryland chief executive said.

"America must approach the discussions of international accord with a willingness to meet every well-intentioned proposal halfway," he said, adding:

"With the whole world in turmoil, and with the threat of communism hanging like a cloud over all nations, I believe that the detection and extinction of subversive and un-American activities in our country also pose a problem for our legislature in Washington."

"It is all too easy, he said, "to dismiss these activities as some are prone to do."

On national affairs, he declared himself "unalterably opposed to such theories and such extension of federal powers" which have grown up "like a barnacle on the federal structure."

On national and state affairs, the senatorial nominee declared himself opposed to a "tendency towards undue encroachment by the federal government upon the proper exercise by the states of their vested rights."

There was little direct reference throughout the convention to the platform and oratins at the GOP gathering here yesterday, Lane said, however, that "We do not adopt 32-tag platforms of which the Republicans of this state are so fond."

"Your candidates," he said, "intend to make the most intensive contest of which they are capable. With your active help in acquainting the voters with what we intend to do I am sure we shall succeed."

Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, elected chairman of the convention, delivered a brief keynote address in which he called attention to the Democratic party's national record since 1933.

"We are proud of our record," he said, "and I believe on it we can wage a victorious campaign."

James J. Lacy, nominee for comptroller, and Hall Hammond, for attorney general, also made brief acceptance speeches.

The convention relegated to its resolutions committee the task of threshing out the formal party program. There were no discussions on the floor, which listened to the orations and than carried through the routine balloting for the respective candidates.

Three Democratic Congressmen Lose In Oklahoma Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23 (AP) — Three Democratic congressmen seeking re-nomination were defeated in today's Oklahoma Democratic runoff primary, while Roy J. Turner, Oklahoma city oil man and rancher, held a lead for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Defeated were Reps. Jed Johnson, Sixth district; Victor Wickersham, Seventh, and Lyle Boren, Fourth. All three have conceded.

Johnson, veteran of 20 years in the House, lost to Lawton District Judge Toby Morris.

Wickersham and Boren lost to youthful attorneys and World War II veterans. Wickersham's opponent was Preston E. Peden, Altus, while Boren fell to Glen D. Johnson, Okemah.

Turner maintained a strong lead over Tulsa County Prosecutor Dixie Gilmer in the gubernatorial race.

Legislation Is

poultry, eggs, milk, etc. — for at least 30 days.

But it permits immediate restoration of controls on manufactured products, rents, and on foods not specifically exempted.

OPA could roll back to their June 30 levels any rent increases made by landlords since that date. An official told reporters the OPA plans to re-establish the June 30 ceilings in the areas which were under rent controls then.

The new legislation writes formulas for higher prices in many lines, but OPA is given at least 30 days in which to figure these new prices.

The measure creates a three-man control board, superior to OPA, to determine when various items shall be put under controls and when controls should be dropped.

Price control is banned under any circumstances before August 20 on meats, dairy products, poultry, eggs, grains, cottonseed and soybeans and food and feed products made from them; tobacco and petroleum and their products.

Other Major Provisions

Other major provisions of the bill include:

Agriculture—OPA is stripped of final authority over price controls on agricultural items, and the power is placed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. The control board is superior to the agriculture secretary in determining whether the decontrolled foods are restored to price ceilings.

Manufactured goods—A new formula prescribes that price ceilings must be set high enough for producers, manufacturers and processors to take care of the average increase in costs in their industry since 1940. OPA is given some discretion in granting price increases, if old prices return a "reasonable profit."

Wholesalers and retails — OPA must allow "the current cost of acquisition of any commodity, plus such average percentage discount or markup as was in effect March 31, 1946." This would stop a large portion of OPA's so-called "cost absorption" program.

Subsidies—The bill cuts in half the administration request for $2,051,000,000 for use largely in holding down food prices.

Bee Bee Washington Beats Ruben Shank

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Bee Bee Washington won a unanimous decision tonight over Ruben Shank, Denver, in a rough 10-round boxing match which saw no knockdowns.

A crowd of 4,251 watched Bee Bee, local Negro who recently lost a bout to Aaron Perry for the D. C. middleweight championship, survive one of the roughest evenings of his career.

The bout was only seconds old when Shank went down on one fist, half slipping under the first flurry of Bee Bee's lefts. But the cowboy was quickly up again, with no count. Late in the first round Shank's knees appeared to buckle momentarily under a long straight left from Washington, but he kept going.

Throughout, Shank rushed the taller and heavier Negro, roughing him as much as possible, considering the weight difference, which was 160 pounds to 150½.

Some ships started moving out of the lagoon even before the formal order was issued.

The Appalachian sailed out of Bikini lagoon at 6 a. m. today, unexpectedly early. Her move was the last step before the start of secret maneuvers in which the bomb is to be put in place for underwater detonation tomorrow.

Ships Carry Air Bomb Scars

We sailed past the target fleet of 75 ships in the grey of the morning into a line squall coming up from the south toward the lagoon.

The storm did not close down until we had a last view of the fleet of five battleships, two carriers, three cruisers, eight submarines, 11 destroyers and other vessels, some of which may be afloat for the last time.

The array even today constitutes an impressive fleet except for the still unrepaired scars of the air bomb, exploded July 1.

Every sign points to the maintenance of secrecy in this last nuclear explosion of 1946 with wartime rigidity. A canvas shrouding the bomb is to conceal it today even from the eyes of the crew scheduled to submerge it. Only scientists from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory will be permitted to look upon this last bomb.

There is no information whether the bomb is shaped like air bombs. Neither is there definite information whether this first great underwater test will be made with the bomb in contact with the waer inside a caisson.

The observer ship Panamint, with scientists and foreign observers aboard, and Blue Ridge, carrying military observers, did not even come to Bikini this time. They were at Kwajalein, nearly 200 miles distant.

Garment Workers

workers at the plant were present at the meeting yesterday morning in Allegany Trades Council hall, union officials said.

Irwin Jaffee, Lynchburg, Va., assistant regional director, in a statement yesterday stated, "It is the policy of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to live up to its agreements and under no circumstances will we tolerate wildcat strikes."

Jaffee said he was interested in knowing why Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, granted picketing permits after an international official wired police the strike was unauthorized.

Jaffee said last night that he wrote to Chief Eyerman advising the police chief of the local's action and requesting that picketing permits issued to striking workers be revoked.

Chief Eyerman last evening said Jaffee's letter was referred to Charles Z. Heskett, city solicitor, but added the picketing permits had been issued by advice of Heskett and on the basis of the presence of a labor dispute as provided in the city ordinance on picketing.

Jaffee said 12 pickets failed to show up at the meeting yesterday. Members on strike are reported to be insisting on a 20 cent hourly increase and an adjustment in the piece work rates.

A union official said the time set for the resumption of work will probably be tomorrow morning.

AFL To Investigate

An official of the Allegany Trades Council said last evening that a committee of the group will meet today with Irwin Jaffee, Lynchburg, Va., an official of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, concerning the strike at the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant on Gay street.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the council representing the American Federation of Labor in Allegany county, and R. C. Simmons, business agent of the Laborers local union here, were named to the committee to investigate the case.

Simmons said the council wants to be satisfied that the workers are getting their rights since Local 434, Garment Workers Union, is affiliated with the council.

The union official said the committee was also instructed to learn why the international union has called the strike unauthorized.

"And the men who design them, too," added Waitt.

Much of Waitt's earlier testimony focused on his attendance at a wedding party in New York January 2, 1944, for Natalie Garsson, daughter of Murray Garsson, one of the combine's promoters. Waitt acknowledged that his hotel bill was paid by Garsson and that he collected travel and subsistance allowance from the War department for the trip.

He declared that he was planning a trip at that time to New York for consultations concerning "construction of the new war gas" and that he was only combining "business with pleasure" by taking in the wedding.

He said he presumed that Murray Garsson had invited him because he wanted to "put on a good show" with "a few generals" present at the wedding. He presumed, too, he added that other generals in chemical warfare service and May, chairman of the House Military committee were invited for the same reason.

tion of the Potsdam agreement," the president's reparations expert declared:

"We must see to it that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder."

Pauley made it clear that the idea of withholding German reparations from Russia so far has only been considered and that no decision has been made. But he said he believed such action could be taken without violating the Potsdam agreement which calls for deliveries of German plants and machinery from the American and British occupation zones in return for Russian-controlled raw materials.

Coroner's Jury Fails To Name George White As Death Car Driver

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 23, (AP)—A coroner's jury at an inquest today failed to name George White, 52, New York and Hollywood producer, as the driver of the car that killed a newlywed couple on the highway north of here Saturday night.

The jury of seven men and one woman further held that there was not sufficient evidence produced to prove the driver criminally negligent.

The verdict of a coroner's jury has no legal binding in California.

The victims of the accident—Claude McLester Lee, 42, and Leona Ann Osborne Lee, 18, Santa Ana, Calif.—were married Saturday at Tijuana, Mex. They were struck as they crossed the highway.

girl secretaries could be seen below the site where Thompson was trapped.

The typewritten message, headed "Notice," declared:

"On July 23, at 12:05 p. m. soldiers of Irgun Zvai Leumi attacked the central British administration, the secretariat of the conquering government, and headquarters of the conquering army.

"The attack was carried out with a fight with army patrols and a British police force.

"According to a plan that was thought out beforehand, the explosive was set to go off only half an hour after it was brought into the building.

"Immediately after the explosive was placed, telephonic warnings were given to the main telephone exchange of the King David hotel, to press bureaus, telegraphic agencies, and to the French consulate which were in the vicinity of the hotel."

Warning Bomb

"In addition to these warnings, a warning bomb (unharmful) was placed in front of the square of the hotel in order to inform residents to remove the public from the surroundings.

"The tragedy which occurred in the civilian offices of the conquering government was done not by Jewish soldiers, who performed their duty with might and self-devotion and who have kept with military strictness the instructions they were given as regards the time required for evacuation of civilian people from the buildings.

"The tragedy was done by the British themselves, who paid no attention to the warning and did not evacuate the building according to military specialists' advice, who had taken upon themselves the task of evacuating the bombing area—an area where the slightest touch might bring an explosion."

A broadcast by another Jewish underground organization, Haganah, condemned yesterday's bombings, and declared Jews would discard such methods in their continuing fight against British policy.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES REACH HIGHEST PEAK IN DOZEN YEARS

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — Infantile paralysis cases have been more numerous so far this year than for any comparable period since 1934, but United States Public Health Service officials offered hope today that the outbreaks would not develop into a major epidemic.

One official who prefers anonymity said that while incidence for the country as a whole is "above normal expectancy" and the number of cases is rather high in many states, "the outbreak can be classed as epidemic only in certain areas of four states."

He listed those states as Florida, Texas, Alabama and Colorado, adding that in the latter, more than half the cases have occurred in Denver.

Up to July 13, there were 2,596 cases throughout the country, compared with 1,679 for the same period last year, 1,752 in 1944 and 1,626 in 1943.

Not since 1934, when the total for a comparable period was 2,695, has the total to July 13 been so high.

Heirens And Lawyers Confer For Five Hours

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—William Heirens, 17, who is under investigation in three brutal killings, conferred with his lawyers for five hours today but the attorneys said nothing was done in the line of a confession.

One of his attorneys, Malachy Coghlan, said they discussed 29 criminal charges already filed against the youth, the kidnap-killing of Suzanne Degnan, the slaying of Frances Brown and the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Josephine Ross.

No charges have been placed against Heirens in any of the slayings.

ambassador in Cairo called upon Britain to put an end to the "existing situation" in Palestine."

"New Regime" Is Asked

It also called for a "new regime" in Palestine "inspired by the spirit and principles of the (United Nations) Charter."

The letter called upon the British to enter negotiations as soon as possible so that an agreement could be concluded before the assembly meeting in September and requested Britain "not to take any step which might be contrary to the pledges contained in the white paper regarding the cessation of immigration and legal measures concerning the restriction of land sales."

The "white paper" was the British government declaration in 1939 fixing immigration quotas for a period of five years. The British and United States governments now are considering the report of a joint committee recommending the immigration of 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

Driver Forfeits Bond in Police Court

Roy Edwards, negro, 120 South Lee street forfeited $10 bond in police court yesterday morning on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested yesterday at 3:30 a. m. after the car he was driving crashed against a wooden barrier set up to warn motorists of excavation work the Baltimore-Liberty street intersection.

A careless driving charge against Robert S. Hamilton, Lonaconing, was dismissed in police court yesterday. Officer Curtis Kime, who investigated, said the car Hamilton was driving crashed against the rear of a car stopped in the line of traffic at South Centre and Salem streets, and operated by James Kuhlman, 414 Warnick avenue.

The city officer said Miss Mary Doll, Winifred road, was treated by a local physician for a bruised shoulder suffered in the crash.

Sensabaugh Says

July 15," Sensabaugh said. "No policeman stopped the equipment enroute. All safety precautions were observed, and there was no damage to the streets."

Then, two days later G. C. Sensabaugh was arrested as an individual and posted $50 bond, which the contractor charges was technically an illegal arrest since the equipment which was moved is owned by the corporation of which his father is president.

"The crusher was purchased and is to be operated by four veterans," he added.

The action was also discriminatory, the contractor charged, as other contracting concerns, county, state and city, run vehicles over city streets weighing more than one ton —an example being ten-ton steel wheeled rollers.

Following his arrest, Sensabaugh asked County Engineer John Caracaden to check the route of the crusher for possible damages and said he could observe no damage, the contractor said.

At the hearing this morning, City Engineer Rizer testified that apparently there was no damage to the streets as the result of moving the equipment.

Ordinance Not Inclusive

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, who was present at the hearing, said that since the ordinance does not make provisions for heavy equipment that cannot be moved on trailers with rubber tires, he is of the opinion that business men who have such equipment to be moved should post a bond to cover any damage after receiving permission to move the equipment from both the police chief and the city engineer.

In all the concern has moved 400 tons of equipment to the site on Oldtown Road where it plans to start a stone crushing business, which county officials hope will supply a quantity of crushed stone now brought from more distant points. However, of the 400 tons of equipment moved, the big crusher was the only item that could not be loaded on trailers with the required pneumatic tires.

Attorney Thomas B. Finan represented Sensabaugh at the hearing.

Young Man Advised To Avoid Flirting With Older Women

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Social timidity and self-consciousness are traitors.

They trap us into doing wild and nasty things that we think will be the answer to our problem and bring us happiness. Then, all of a sudden, we wake up and find ourselves with far worse trouble on our hands than we had in the beginning.

Because a young man was too shy with girls his own age, he sought the company of older women whose response to his attentions made him feel more confident and self-assured. Now he's frantically anxious to be rid of them and doesn't know how to go about it.

Here's what he says:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a man of 27, and have been seeing quite a bit of two women a few years my senior—I should say about 15 years. I have gone out with girls my own age, but I cannot say I have enjoyed myself. I do not smoke or drink, and find it hard to enjoy myself with people my own age.

Both Nice To Him

"Both these women have been nice to me, remembering me on Christmas, Easter and birthdays, but in return I have showered them with gifts, giving one a diamond ring and the other a beautiful watch for the lapel. It took the one with the ring months, and I had to fight all the time, in order to get her to wear it. The one with the watch, wears it on what she calls special occasions. They have loaned me money, and now it seems all we do is quarrel.

"Would it be wrong for me to ask for all I have given them back, and find someone my own age, or just what should I do? They are making me very nervous, almost crazy, you might say.

"LONELY"

There are three things you've learned from this experience, I hope.

First, that it is rarely wise for a young man to make an intimate friend of a woman so much older than himself—and it's hardly necessary to add that when he tries the same thing with two women at the same time, it's just twice as unwise.

Second, you're not going to give women expensive presents again unless it's some young woman you hope to marry.

And third, you're never again going to permit women to lend you money. For when a man borrows money from a woman, that's the exact point from which trouble is sure to start, even though it may not become evident right away.

So now, having made all three of these bad mistakes, how are you going to get out of the mess they've made of your life?

Find Companionship

It seems to me the best thing you can do is to follow the lead of those amateurs who've gambled with their luck in the money market instead of the love market, and that is, take your losses and get out. Let the girls keep the presents you were foolish enough to give them, and charge the expense off to experience. Or did you buy these gifts with money they lent you?

Of course, if you still owe them money, it's not likely you can get them out of your life entirely until you've paid them off. But can't you make some sort of agreement with them to pay so much a month, then send the money to them regularly without fail and have no other dealings with them? If you can prove you're consistently repaying them, in however small amounts, they can't make trouble for you.

And stop telling yourself you can't enjoy girls your own age. You can certainly find congenial companionship if you go about it intelligently. Do you want to write me again, giving me your name and address, and let me give you some suggestions?

Uruguay's Proposal Headed For The Shelf

Uruguay's proposal that the nations of this hemisphere accept the principal of collective intervention in the affairs of any American state violating fundamental human rights or failing to meet its international obligations seems destined for oblivion. At least the first step toward shelving it has been taken.

The governing board of the Pan-American Union has approved and referred to the various governments, by unanimous vote, a "Declaration of the Rights and Duties of American States" that includes these words: "Intervention by any one or more states, directly and indirectly, and for whatever reasons, in the internal or external affairs of another state, is inadmissable." The sweeping nature of that sentence needs no comment.

But this action is not final. The draft declaration is to be transmitted to the governments of the American nations for their "observations and comments." These are to be returned by October 15, and the governing body of the Pan-American Union will then prepare a draft that will be placed before the conference of American states to be held at Bogota, Columbia, next year.

But 11 nations have already expressed opposition to the Uruguayan proposal, despite the support given it by Secretary Byrnes. And since the United States was represented on an eight-nation committee appointed to prepare the draft declaration, it appears that the American government is ready to let collective intervention be pigeonholed.

If so, the decision can be defended on the ground that it was unavoidable when Washington's ill-fated Argentine policy failed. One thing is certain, and that is that Washington can not force South American nations to abandon their independence against their will.

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois, Chairman of the House Rules Committee, explained to the Senate War Profits Investigating Committee that he occasionally called Joseph P. Freeman and Murray Garsson to arrange to play pinochle with them. Next!

Destructive German Weapons Were On Way

The atomic bomb continues to be a subject of atomic discussion, but it is now being revealed that the world escaped a display of death and destruction little short of atomic by the defeat of Germany.

It has been officially announced Hitler scientists were working on super-bombers, designed for the destruction of New York and other American cities. Nor was this all. They were in the process of developing rockets, to travel at tremendous speed and capable of a range of 3,500 miles or more.

The Nazis had made no known progress in development of atomic energy, but they knew of its possibilities and would shortly have been developing it in the interest of the nazi war effort. In all other fields they were far in advance of any other nation, and it is fully realized had they been able to continue the war American cities would have suffered tremendously from air attacks.

It doesn't add much to hopes for world peace to know the atomic bomb is not the only weapon capable of achieving fearsome results. The world appears to be still in a mood for war, conflict so terrible civilization could be wiped out unless there is a drastic change in world leadership.

News edit page—Paragraphs .. ...
There's plenty of life remaining in Supply and Demand.

Dawn of New Air Age To Be Slow

There is apparently a mild difference of opinion over how long it will take a new air age to dawn. A month ago the British government announced that the old, piston-type engine was outmoded and that it was going to convert all its military and civil aviation to jet propulsion.

This was taken by many people, not unnaturally, to mean that the new jet age is already here. But Air Commodore Frank Whittle now says that such a radical change will take "from five to ten years" and his opinion can hardly be disregarded since he is the man who invented the jet power plant.

According to Commodore Whittle, the replacement of conventional engines by the gas turbine power plant will be a step by step affair. He does not look for any change in the low-powered, light aircraft field. Heavy planes flying at speeds up to 350 miles an hour, he believes, will be equipped with propellers driven by gas turbines while aircraft in the 350 to 500-mile-an-hour range will be driven by gas turbine-operated ducted fans.

It is only in planes operating above 500 miles an hour that he expects the pure turbo-jet engines to be used.

To a layman this seems like a sound and moderate appraisal of the prospects. Even aviation, despite its dramatically rapid progress, has a time lag. A new motor, which revolutionizes the art of flying, cannot be installed in all planes overnight. Jet propulsion, despite all its advantages, is not necessarily feasible for planes where economy is more important than speed.

A new age is unquestionably dawning. But it will take years, rather than months, to find out where it is going to lead and in that time other revolutionary developments may be forthcoming.

We will invite agression and encourage war if we do not determine now to make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to hold our full share of military responsibility for world security.—Herschel V. Johnson, Acting U. S. Delegate to UN Security Council.

Atonement Awaits For Ten Million Murders

For the slaughter of 900 American prisoners of war and helpless Belgian civilians caught in the Battle of the Bulge, 42 Nazi elite guardsmen have been sentenced to death by an American military court at Dachau. A grim and terrible story of German mercilessness was unfolded at their trial. Thirty other defendants received lesser sentences.

But these are only the trigger murderers. The men who were ultimately responsible for the German reversion to utter savagery still are being given their "due process of law" at Nuernberg. The testimony, at last, is nearing its end, but it will be September, at the earliest, before the 22 defendants know their fate. Then, after the trial of the Nazi leaders closes, the organizations they created are to go on trial. If the organizations are found guilty of war crimes, then their members may also be tried. One million Germans have a stake in the outcome of the organizational trials.

But justice as yet has only stepped across the threshold of that dark and bloody arena which was Nazi Germany. Only 900 were murdered in cold blood at the Bulge. For the 10,000,000 whom the Nuernberg evidence shows were murdered elsewhere, atonement still awaits.

Give them a chance, says a writer, and the foreign countries will get on their feet. Or ours!

Two Sides of Line In Pricing Situation

That a geographical line can be far more than an imaginary boundary is evident in the pricing situation in British Columbia contrasted with that of the northwestern part of the United States.

According to a news report, first-class restaurant meals in Vancouver, B. C., cost only one-half as much as in the United States. Bread is eight cents a pound, butter 41 cents per pound, milk 12 cents a quart, haircuts 50 cents, etc.

What is responsible for this wide divergence in prices? On one side of the line there is a government debt of 270 billion dollars created by a series of budgetary deficits ranging back to 1930. On the other side of the line government debt is relatively lower and budgets are customarily balanced.

On one side of the line minority groups have been given the power to boost wages to the highest figure on record. It is aided and abetted in every way by the government. On the other side of the line there is a government that does not succumb to minority pressures. When CIO agitators went in to encourage Canadian unions to strike for a 30 per cent increase in wages, the Dominion government requested Washington to keep them out.

Canada has avoided wartime inflation of the degree that is punishing Americans because it has retained fiscal sanity and has not encouraged one group of the population to gouge other groups. The results are apparent in price levels on two sides of the U. S.-Canadian boundary.

Wild Ginger Used Now as Medicine

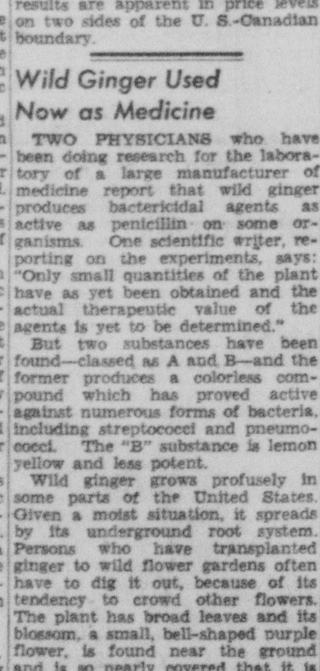
TWO PHYSICIANS who have been doing research for the laboratory of a large manufacturer of medicine report that wild ginger produces bactericidal agents as active as penicillin on some organisms. One scientific writer, reporting on the experiments, says: "Only small quantities of the plant have as yet been obtained and the actual therapeutic value of the agents is yet to be determined."

But two substances have been found—classed as A and B—and the former produces a colorless compound which has proved active against numerous forms of bacteria, including streptococci and pneumococci. The "B" substance is lemon yellow and less potent.

Wild ginger grows profusely in some parts of the United States. Given a moist situation, it spreads by its underground root system. Persons who have transplanted ginger to wild flower gardens often have to dig it out, because of its tendency to crowd other flowers. The plant has broad leaves and its blossom, a small, bell-shaped purple flower, is found near the ground and is so nearly covered that it is rarely seen.

The roots of wild ginger have a faintly aromatic odor and the taste resembles the ordinary ginger used as a condiment. There are traditions that the Indians dug wild ginger roots and concocted medicine from them. Thus it may be that modern research is going back to something the Indians found valuable in the days before the first white settlers arrived.

'TARGET' OF TRUMAN



RENOMINATION of Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (above), Democrat, of Missouri is strongly opposed by President Truman. The congressman told reporters in Kansas City, Mo., that he accepted the challenge. The President said that his opposition to Slaughter was based on his record as a member of the House Rules Committee, on which Slaughter opposed every measure which the Chief Executive has favored.

Talmadge Victory In Georgia Has Hitlerian Earmarks; Big Business Which Backed "Cracker Dictator" Seems To Be Worried Now.

By DREW PEARSON

ATLANTA—The most Hitleresque governor since Huey Long is back in power in Georgia.

Old Gene Talmadge, for three terms virtual dictator of Georgia, is now in the saddle again, looking a little thinner, a little older, but still snapping his red galluses, still able to grandstand his way into the hearts of the rural voters.

He has come back to power with all the earmarks of a Hitlerian victory. In fact, the Georgia election, carefully examined, looks like the most alarming political development in the nation.

In the first place, Talmadge, like Hitler, was elected by a minority of the voters. His opponent, James Carmichael, rolled up a clear majority, but under Georgia's peculiar unit rule, Talmadge won.

Like Hitler also, Talmadge has a great radio technique. Carmichael had none. A total of 125 Georgia newspapers were against Talmadge, while only seven were for him. But his radio appeal won out in the end.

Big Business Backed Talmadge

And just as big business in Germany put up the money to finance Hitler, so the Georgia Power Company and big business generally backed Talmadge. Worried over the CIO drive to organize the South, they knew Talmadge would be anti-labor, keep down taxes, play ball with big business. As governor before, he had put textile strikers behind a barbed-wire concentration camp and if necessary they expect him to do it again.

Now that they have elected their "Cracker dictator" however, some businessmen are already worried for fear they have a bear by the tail. Perhaps they remember how the Thyssens and the Von Schroeders and other German industrialists were kicked out by Hitler shortly after they had financed his way to power.

Finally—and also like Hitler—Talmadge won on the race issue with the help of the revived Ku Klux Klan.

It was the Klan's biggest political victory.

Court Gave Talmadge Break

Talmadge's biggest break came when the Supreme Court handed down its ruling against the Jim Crow law in interstate bus traffic. This played right into the hands of the rootin'-tootin' gentleman from Sugar Creek. From that point on he ran his campaign on the theme of white supremacy.

"A Nigger's place is to come in the back door, hold his hat in his hand, and say 'gee' and 'haw' to a horse," proclaimed red-gallused Gene.

He flayed the negroes as Hitler flayed the Jews. And it was the race issue that really elected him.

Talmadge Merry-Go-Round

Talmadge boasts of having read "Mein Kampf" seven times.

He makes no secret of being a student of Hitlerian methods. During his previous "reigns" as governor, Talmadge called out the militia 17 different times. For a while no one could get into the highway department without a military pass. Talmadge's chief use of the militia was to oust elected officials. It made no difference that the state treasurer had been duly elected by the people of Georgia, Talmadge called out the military and forcibly evicted him from office. When the treasurer locked the vault where state money was kept, Talmadge blew the door off the vault . . . for a while Talmadge spent the state's funds on a cash basis, with no record of expenditures. He employed an ex-racketeer to inspect the books of the universities and if he didn't like them, they were burned. . . Talmadge has promised to run Georgia just the way he did before. Those who know him say he is ruthless enough to do it.

Georgia Fascism

Greatest Hitlerian threat to Georgia's future political system is Talmadge's new plan for abolishing state primaries. Most people haven't examined this scheme carefully. On the surface, many are inclined to welcome it as a move to take the vote away from the negro.

The governor-elect's plan is to get around the Supreme Court edict that negroes have a right to vote in Democratic primaries. To do this he proposes abolishing the state primary. Instead of a primary vote supervised and policed by the state, Talmadge plans to run a private primary policed by his own political organization.

In other words, the Democratic party would become a private club—in this case, the Talmadge club. He would name his own state Democratic executive committee. It would make all the rules governing elections, would specify who was qualified to vote, could abolish all criminal laws governing elections, do away with all rules against fraud.

There would be no control over the ballot boxes, over the counting of the votes, or anything else—except the control laid down by Gene Talmadge. Under such a plan the new governor of Georgia plans to have "free" elections.

In other words, like Hitler, once Talmadge gets into power no opposition party could ever stop him. No better pattern for Fascism ever was devised in the USA.

Already Harman Talmadge, the governor's son, is preparing to run either for the United States Senate or to succeed his father.

And yet Talmadge is elected to office, by a minority vote!

No wonder a lot of people around Atlanta are wearing long faces wondering when the new governor will start retaliating against his enemies.

"Child-Expert" McKellar

75-year old bachelor Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee is a versatile man. In addition to presiding over the Senate, he is an expert on babies.

When Senator Clyde Hoey of North Carolina asked for $344,000 to continue child-care nurseries for working mothers in the District of Columbia, it was defeated inside the Senate Appropriations committee, with Chairman McKellar leading the battle against it.

Later Senator Hoey had the temerity to bring his nursery fight to the Senate floor; whereupon McKellar—almost singlehanded—challenged this threat to the supremacy of his Appropriations committee. This would be "government rearing" of children, he argued. Government aid, proclaimed the senator from Tennessee, "is an injury to the mother and an injury to the child."

This was too much for Florida's alert Senator Claude Pepper.

"Mr. President," he interrupted, all my life I have heard that if you want to find out just exactly how to raise children, ask an old bachelor how to do it."

McKellar then asked the married but childless Pepper regarding his experience in raising children. Pepper replied that he had raised no more than has the bachelor senator from Tennessee.

"So the senator from Florida and I are on an equality," McKellar came back. "I feel very proud of the fact that in one matter at least I am on a basis of equality with the senator from Florida."

"However, I am 30 years under 75," replied Pepper, who entered the Senate as one of the youngest members in history.

"When the senator from Florida grows older he will come to the conclusion, I think, that the national government is not a good mother to rear children," said McKellar.

"It is better than a bachelor," shot back Pepper.

It does not often happen that the Appropriations committee is over ridden by the full Senate, but in this case, government nurseries triumphed over bachelor opposition by the overwhelming vote of 47 to 15.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Little do I know of botany—hardly a scattering knowledge since my early school days—but all flowers have for me an abiding fascination, especially the wild ones that bloom "and blush unseen" by so many of us. So it is a distinct thrill to come across a new variety, and if I do not know its name I give it one!

Wild roses adorn this little island of mine like a beautiful pink collar, and I glory in their length of stay, and the lovely white daisies dot my rough yard, and when the gentle wind moves their heads about they resemble a happy dancing community. Yellow buttercups abound. The lilacs are gone, but their foliage remains, green and inviting, just outside the window where I read and write.

The only domestic breed are my pansies, in a rock-bed before my Lodge, and they are in a glorious riot of colors—yellow, deep blues and purples, white, and greyish purple. To me, these familiar flowers have more personality than any other. My faithful house-lady sees that a fresh cutting is placed in a small, round vase each day, and they smile at me but a few inches from my typewriter.

A most elusive and rare little flower grows along the shore, which I believe is called the maiden's braid, for it winds about its stem and is capped by one of the most delicate and fragrant white flowers I have discovered hereabout. Tiny and exquisite flowers that are like wax creations.

The island is strewn with wintergreen, and the small red and white berries mark each mosey path with beauty. I often chew the tasty leaves, polished a shiny green by God's artist. There are any number of other varieties that bud, bloom, and give forth their silent life, during these summer months. All have a silent voice, and I adore them.

Nature's garden is expansive. One Supreme Gardener looks after it all. The garden's voices are all for peace and contentment! Silent and significant is the message of each. Why should this beautiful garden ever be despoiled by the greed and brutality of man?

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Quiet—Beauty—Movement"

THE UNDEFEATED CHAMPION

Special Senate And House Committee Praised For Its Pearl Harbor Report

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 23 — The American people are indebted to the Special Senate and House committee which investigated the Pearl Harbor disaster. Despite the impressions which the concluding part of the report seeks to establish, the headings of the document fix responsibility as plainly as if names had been called.

The report is ingeniously developed. It states factually what occurred and subdivides each important section with a heading. Future historians cannot fail to read those tell-tale headings, for each one states an impersonal conclusion out of which only one inference can be made — namely, that the persons who had the responsibility for each task and did not perform it efficiently are being blamed.

Headings Are Pertinent

Thus there is language in the conclusion of the report itself, signed by the majority, which absolves certain individuals but there is no such evasiveness in the headings. Here, for instance, are some of the committee's own headings which subdivide the conclusions and recommendations of the report:

"1. Operational and intelligance work requires centralization of authority and clear-cut allocation of responsibility.

"2. Supervisory officials cannot safely take anything for granted in the alerting of subordinates.

"3. Any doubt as to whether outposts should be given information should always be resolved in favor of supplying the information.

"4. The delegation of authority or the issuance of orders entails the duty of inspection to determine that the official mandate is properly exercised.

"5. The implementation of official orders must be followed with closest supervision.

"6. The maintenance of alertness to responsibility must be insured through repetition.

"7. Complacency and procrastination are out of place where sudden and decisive action are of the essence.

"8. The co-ordination and proper evaluation of intelligence in times of stress must be insured by continuity of service and centralization of responsibility in competent officials.

"9. The unapproachable or superior attitude of officials is fatal; there should never be any hesitancy in asking for clarification of instructions or in seeking advice on matters that are in doubt.

"10. There is no substitute for imagination and resourcefulness on the part of supervisory and intelligence officials.

"11. Communications must be characterized by clarity, forthrightness, and appropriateness."

Significant Facts Stated

There are in all 25 of these headings. Particularly significant are Nos. 17, 23, 24 and 25. Here they are:

"17. An official who neglects to familiarize himself in detail with his organization should forfeit his responsibility.

"23. Superiors must at all times keep their subordinates adequately informed and, conversely, subordinates should keep their superiors informed.

"24. The administrative organization of any establishment must be designed to locate failures and to assess responsibility.

"25. In a well-balanced organization there is close correlation of responsibility and authority."

All that the historian of tomorrow needs to do is find out who, on Dec. 7, 1941, was chief of the army, chief of naval operations, and in command of subordinate positions in the War and Navy departments and who was commander-in-chief of the army and navy and then read the main headings of the report on Pearl Harbor. He will find that Republicans and Democrats were unanimous about the headings but politeness, courtesy and deference caused the omission of the names of the personalities involved, in the case of the majority who signed the report, whereas the minority just named those responsible. It's really a unanimous report on what happened.

"IT SAYS HERE"

By Bob Hope

Now that I'm back in Hollywood, I've started work on my new picture. In this one I play the part of a hard-boiled private detective. . . Sort of an Alan Ladd with eggs. They wanted Dick Powell for the part, but my head was harder.

It's a real rough and tough part. In fact, I had to fight the producer to get it! My make-up man worked on me for hours trying to make me look tough but he finally gave up. . . . The silly boy was trying to flatten my nose!

The name of the picture is "My Favorite Brunette". . . And I don't mean my butcher. I play opposite Dorothy Lamour but with her in the picture I don't find much time to follow the criminals. I did some very torrid love scenes with Dotty until she found out I tampered with the script.

I really take a beating in the first scene. I don't mind getting slugged and kicked when the role calls for it. . . But when the director pitches in and helps. . . That's too much.

Naturally, I catch the murderer and it's very exciting when I chase him down a dark alley. It was confusing, though. . . When I had cornered him in the alley, he pulled out a pair of nylons.

You'll see a new Bob Hope in this picture. I play hard to get. It's new to me, but it's easy. . . Lamour doesn't wear a sarong in this one.

Do Recent Defeats Of Senators Mean End Of A Cycle?

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Burton K. Wheeler and Henrik Shipstead both entered the Senate on the same day—March 4, 1923. Only McKellar of Tennessee, Capper of Kansas, and George of Georgia are their seniors in service. Campaigning for a fifth term, both Wheeler and Shipstead have now been defeated for renomination. Do their defeats mark the end of a cycle? Offsetting them, Butler of Nebraska and Langer of North Dakota, equally "isolationist," were renominated.

The word "isolationist" was a misnomer. The true distinction is nationalism or internationalism. The great nationalists, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, were never isolationists in the sense that Japan was a hermit nation for centuries. Both favored commerce with all nations. Washington drew the distinction sharply. "The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible."

Washington's Farewell Address

It has been the practice of the House of Representatives on each February 22nd to read Washington's Farewell Address. How soon this practice will be abandoned as "subversive" or unpatriotic, I do not know, but I venture to quote further:

"Permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular Nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded. . . . The Nation, which indulges towards another an habitual hatred, or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest. . . . The peace often, sometimes perhaps the Liberty, of Nations has been the victim. . . . A passionate attachment of one Nation for another . . . gives to ambitious, corrupted or deluded citizens (who devote themselves to the favourite Nation) facility to betray, or sacrifice the interests of their own country, without odium, sometimes even with popularity.

"Real Patriots, who may resist the intrigues of the favourite, are liable to become suspected and odious; while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests . . .

"Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European Ambition, Rivalship, Interest, Humour or Caprice? . . .

"We may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies."

Although Washington never dreamed of the atomic bomb, these words may be read against the current news of American troops killing and being killed by Yugo-Slavs, supported by Russia, in Trieste; the British proposal to send American troops to Palestine; intervention in Spain; participation in Argentine politics; civil war in China, etc.

Political Wheel Turns

The high point in Senator Wheeler's career, perhaps, was his vindication in Montana in 1940, when having led the fight against the Supreme Court packing bill, he got his largest majority, running far ahead of President Roosevelt.

Now James Roosevelt campaigns against Wheeler, whereas President Truman, faithful to a friend, supported him. Roosevelt and Truman in 1944. Truman versus Roosevelt in 1946. Thus the wheel turns.

Teapot Dome, the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign in 1924, when the two got the largest third party vote in American politics, the Supreme Court fight, and Wheeler's statement that our policies would "plow up every third American boy on the fields of Europe,"—heatedly denied at the time,—are the highlights of the public career of a Senator with high courage. As we have a small quantity of this quality, Wheeler's defeat will be regretted by many with whom he disagreed.

Uruguay's Proposal Headed For The Shelf

Uruguay's proposal that the nations of this hemisphere accept the principal of collective intervention in the affairs of any American state violating fundamental human rights or failing to meet its international obligations seems destined for oblivion. At least the first step toward shelving it has been taken.

The governing board of the Pan-American Union has approved and referred to the various governments, by unanimous vote, a "Declaration of the Rights and Duties of American States" that includes these words: "Intervention by any one or more states, directly and indirectly, and for whatever reasons, in the internal or external affairs of another state, is inadmissable." The sweeping nature of that sentence needs no comment.

But this action is not final. The draft declaration is to be transmitted to the governments of the American nations for their "observations and comments." These are to be returned by October 15, and the governing body of the Pan-American Union will then prepare a draft that will be placed before the conference of American states to be held at Bogota, Columbia, next year.

But 11 nations have already expressed opposition to the Uruguayan proposal, despite the support given it by Secretary Byrnes. And since the United States was represented on an eight-nation committee appointed to prepare the draft declaration, it appears that the American government is ready to let collective intervention be pigeonholed.

If so, the decision can be defended on the ground that it was unavoidable when Washington's ill-fated Argentine policy failed. One thing is certain, and that is that Washington can not force South American nations to abandon their independence against their will.

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois, Chairman of the House Rules Committee, explained to the Senate War Profits Investigating Committee that he occasionally called Joseph P. Freeman and Murray Garsson to arrange to play pinochle with them. Next!

Destructive German Weapons Were On Way

The atomic bomb continues to be a subject of atomic discussion, but it is now being revealed that the world escaped a display of death and destruction little short of atomic by the defeat of Germany.

It has been officially announced Hitler scientists were working on super-bombers, designed for the destruction of New York and other American cities. Nor was this all. They were in the process of developing rockets, to travel at tremendous speed and capable of a range of 3,500 miles or more.

The Nazis had made no known progress in development of atomic energy, but they knew of its possibilities and would shortly have been developing it in the interest of the nazi war effort. In all other fields they were far in advance of any other nation, and it is fully realized had they been able to continue the war American cities would have suffered tremendously from air attacks.

It doesn't add much to hopes for world peace to know the atomic bomb is not the only weapon capable of achieving fearsome results. The world appears to be still in a mood for war, conflict so terrible civilization could be wiped out unless there is a drastic change in world leadership.

News edit page—Paragraphs . . . .

There's plenty of life remaining in Supply and Demand.

Dawn of New Air Age To Be Slow

There is apparently a mild difference of opinion over how long it will take a new air age to dawn. A month ago the British government announced that the old, piston-type engine was outmoded and that it was going to convert all its military and civil aviation to jet propulsion.

This was taken by many people, not unnaturally, to mean that the new jet age is already here. But Air Commodore Frank Whittle now says that such a radical change will take "from five to ten years" and his opinion can hardly be disregarded since he is the man who invented the jet power plant.

According to Commodore Whittle, the replacement of conventional engines by the gas turbine power plant will be a step by step affair. He does not look for any change in the low-powered, light aircraft field. Heavy planes flying at speeds up to 350 miles an hour, he believes, will be equipped with propellers driven by gas turbines while aircraft in the 350 to 500-mile-an-hour range will be driven by gas turbine-operated ducted fans.

It is only in planes operating above 500 miles an hour that he expects the pure turbo-jet engines to be used.

To a layman this seems like a sound and moderate appraisal of the prospects. Even aviation, despite its dramatically rapid progress, has a time lag. A new motor, which revolutionizes the art of flying, cannot be installed in all planes overnight. Jet propulsion, despite all its advantages, is not necessarily feasible for planes where economy is more important than speed.

A new age is unquestionably dawning. But it will take years, rather than months, to find out where it is going to lead and in that time other revolutionary developments may be forthcoming.

We will invite agression and encourage war if we do not determine now to make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to hold our full share of military responsibility for world security.—Herschel V. Johnson, Acting U. S. Delegate to UN Security Council.

Atonement Awaits For Ten Million Murders

For the slaughter of 900 American prisoners of war and helpless Belgian civilians caught in the Battle of the Bulge, 42 Nazi elite guardsmen have been sentenced to death by an American military court at Dachau. A grim and terrible story of German mercilessness was unfolded at their trial. Thirty other defendants received lesser sentences.

But these are only the trigger murderers. The men who were ultimately responsible for the German reversion to utter savagery still are being given their "due process of law" at Nuernberg. The testimony, at last, is nearing its end, but it will be September, at the earliest, before the 22 defendants know their fate. Then, after the trial of the Nazi leaders closes, the organizations they created are to go on trial. If the organizations are found guilty of war crimes, then their members may also be tried. One million Germans have a stake in the outcome of the organizational trials.

But justice as yet has only stepped across the threshold of that dark and bloody arena which was Nazi Germany. Only 900 were murdered in cold blood at the Bulge. For the 10,000,000 whom the Nuernberg evidence shows were murdered elsewhere, atonement still awaits.

Give them a chance, says a writer, and the foreign countries will get on their feet. Or ours!

Two Sides of Line In Pricing Situation

That a geographical line can be far more than an imaginary boundary is evident in the pricing situation in British Columbia contrasted with that of the northwestern part of the United States.

According to a news report, first-class restaurant meals in Vancouver, B. C., cost only one-half as much as in the United States. Bread is eight cents a pound, butter 41 cents per pound, milk 12 cents a quart, haircuts 50 cents, etc.

What is responsible for this wide divergence in prices? On one side of the line there is a government debt of 270 billion dollars created by a series of budgetary deficits ranging back to 1930. On the other side of the line government debt is relatively lower and budgets are customarily balanced.

On one side of the line minority groups have been given the power to boost wages to the highest figure on record. It is aided and abetted in every way by the government. On the other side of the line there is a government that does not succumb to minority pressures. When CIO agitators went in to encourage Canadian unions to strike for a 30 per cent increase in wages, the Dominion government requested Washington to keep them out.

Canada has avoided wartime inflation of the degree that is punishing Americans because it has retained fiscal sanity and has not encouraged one group of the population to gouge other groups. The results are apparent in price levels on two sides of the U. S.-Canadian boundary.

Wild Ginger Used Now as Medicine

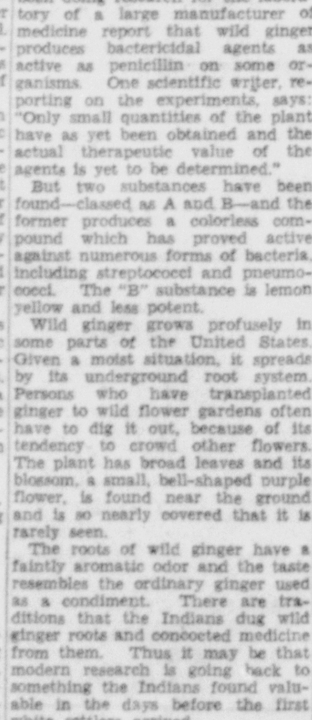
TWO PHYSICIANS who have been doing research for the laboratory of a large manufacturer of medicine report that wild ginger produces bactericidal agents as active as penicillin on some organisms. One scientific writer, reporting on the experiments, says: "Only small quantities of the plant have as yet been obtained and the actual therapeutic value of the agents is yet to be determined."

But two substances have been found—classed as A and B—and the former produces a colorless compound which has proved active against numerous forms of bacteria, including streptococci and pneumococci. The "B" substance is lemon yellow and less potent.

Wild ginger grows profusely in some parts of the United States. Given a moist situation, it spreads by its underground root system. Persons who have transplanted ginger to wild flower gardens often have to dig it out, because of its tendency to crowd other flowers. The plant has broad leaves and its blossom, a small, bell-shaped purple flower, is found near the ground and is so nearly covered that it is rarely seen.

The roots of wild ginger have a faintly aromatic odor and the taste resembles the ordinary ginger used as a condiment. There are traditions that the Indians dug wild ginger roots and concocted medicine from them. Thus it may be that modern research is going back to something the Indians found valuable in the days before the first white settlers arrived.

'TARGET' OF TRUMAN



RENOMINATION of Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (above), Democrat, of Missouri is strongly opposed by President Truman. The congressman told reporters in Kansas City, Mo., that he accepted the challenge. The President said that his opposition to Slaughter was based on his record as a member of the House Rules Committee, on which Slaughter opposed every measure which the Chief Executive has favored.

Talmadge Victory In Georgia Has Hitlerian Earmarks; Big Business Which Backed "Cracker Dictator" Seems To Be Worried Now.

By DREW PEARSON

ATLANTA—The most Hitleresque governor since Huey Long is back in power in Georgia.

Old Gene Talmadge, for three terms virtual dictator of Georgia, is now in the saddle again, looking a little thinner, a little older, but still snapping his red galluses, still able to grandstand his way into the hearts of the rural voters.

He has come back to power with all the earmarks of a Hitlerian victory. In fact, the Georgia election, carefully examined, looks like the most alarming political development in the nation.

In the first place, Talmadge, like Hitler, was elected by a minority of the voters. His opponent, James Carmichael, rolled up a clear majority, but under Georgia's peculiar unit rule, Talmadge won.

Like Hitler also, Talmadge has a great radio technique. Carmichael had none. A total of 125 Georgia newspapers were against Talmadge, while only seven were for him. But his radio appeal won out in the end.

Big Business Backed Talmadge

And just as big business in Germany put up the money to finance Hitler, so the Georgia Power Company and big business generally backed Talmadge. Worried over the CIO drive to organize the South, they knew Talmadge would be anti-labor, keep down taxes, play ball with big business. As governor before, he had put textile strikers behind a barbed-wire concentration camp and if necessary they expect him to do it again.

Now that they have elected their "Cracker dictator" however, some businessmen are already worried for fear they have a bear by the tail. Perhaps they remember how the Thyssens and the Von Schroeders and other German industrialists were kicked out by Hitler shortly after they had financed his way to power.

Finally—and also like Hitler—Talmadge won on the race issue with the help of the revived Ku Klux Klan.

It was the Klan's biggest political victory.

Court Gave Talmadge Break

Talmadge's biggest break came when the Supreme Court handed down its ruling against the Jim Crow law in interstate bus traffic. This played right into the hands of the rootin'-tootin' gentleman from Sugar Creek. From that point on he ran his campaign on the theme of white supremacy.

"A Nigger's place is to come in the back door, hold his hat in his hand, and say 'gee' and 'haw' to a horse," proclaimed red-gallused Gene.

He flayed the negroes as Hitler flayed the Jews. And it was the race issue that really elected him.

Talmadge Merry-Go-Round

Talmadge boasts of having read "Mein Kampf" seven times.

He makes no secret of being a student of Hitlerian methods. During his previous "reigns" as governor, Talmadge called out the militia 17 different times. For a while no one could get into the highway department without a military pass. Talmadge's chief use of the militia was to oust elected officials. It made no difference that the state treasurer had been duly elected by the people of Georgia, Talmadge called out the military and forcibly evicted him from office. When the treasurer locked the vault where state money was kept, Talmadge blew the door off the vault . . . for a while Talmadge spent the state's funds on a cash basis, with no record of expenditures. He employed an ex-racketeer to inspect the books of the universities and if he didn't like them, they were burned. . . Talmadge has promised to run Georgia just the way he did before. Those who know him say he is ruthless enough to do it.

Georgia Fascism

Greatest Hitlerian threat to Georgia's future political system is Talmadge's new plan for abolishing state primaries. Most people haven't examined this scheme carefully. On the surface, many are inclined to welcome it as a move to take the vote away from the negro.

The governor-elect's plan is to get around the Supreme Court edict that negroes have a right to vote in Democratic primaries. To do this he proposes abolishing the state primary. Instead of a primary vote supervised and policed by the state, Talmadge plans to run a private primary policed by his own political organization.

In other words, the Democratic party would become a private club—in this case, the Talmadge club. He would name his own state Democratic executive committee. It would make all the rules governing elections, would specify who was qualified to vote, could abolish all criminal laws governing elections, do away with all rules against fraud.

There would be no control over the ballot boxes, over the counting of the votes, or anything else—except the control laid down by Gene Talmadge. Under such a plan the new governor of Georgia plans to have "free" elections.

In other words, like Hitler, once Talmadge gets into power no opposition party could ever stop him. No better pattern for Fascism ever was devised in the USA.

Already Harman Talmadge, the governor's son, is preparing to run either for the United States Senate or to succeed his father.

And yet Talmadge is elected to office, by a minority vote!

"Child-Expert" McKellar

75-year old bachelor Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee is a versatile man. In addition to presiding over the Senate, he is an expert on babies.

When Senator Clyde Hoey of North Carolina asked for $344,000 to continue child-care nurseries for working mothers in the District of Columbia, it was defeated inside the Senate Appropriations committee, with Chairman McKellar leading the battle against it.

Later Senator Hoey had the temerity to bring his nursery fight to the Senate floor; whereupon McKellar—almost singlehanded—challenged this threat to the supremacy of his Appropriations committee. This would be "government rearing" of children, he argued. Government aid, proclaimed the senator from Tennessee, "is an injury to the mother and an injury to the child."

This was too much for Florida's alert Senator Claude Pepper.

"Mr. President," he interrupted, all my life I have heard that if you want to find out just exactly how to raise children, ask an old bachelor how to do it."

McKellar then asked the married but childless Pepper regarding his experience in raising children. Pepper replied that he had raised no more than has the bachelor senator from Tennessee.

"So the senator from Florida and I are on an equality," McKeller came back. "I feel very proud of the fact that in one matter at least I am on a basis of equality with the senator from Florida."

"However, I am 30 years under 75," replied Pepper, who entered the Senate as one of the youngest members in history.

"When the senator from Florida grows older he will come to the conclusion, I think, that the national government is not a good mother to rear children," said McKellar.

"It is better than a bachelor," shot back Pepper.

It does not often happen that the Appropriations committee is over ridden by the full Senate, but in this case, government nurseries triumphed over bachelor opposition by the overwhelming vote of 47 to 15.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Little do I know of botany—hardly a scattering knowledge since my early school days—but all flowers have for me an abiding fascination, especially the wild ones that bloom "and blush unseen" by so many of us. So it is a distinct thrill to come across a new variety, and if I do not know its name I give it one!

Wild roses adorn this little island of mine like a beautiful pink collar, and I glory in their length of stay, and the lovely white daisies dot my rough yard, and when the gentle wind moves their heads about they resemble a happy dancing community. Yellow buttercups abound. The lilacs are gone, but their foliage remains, green and inviting, just outside the window where I read and write.

The only domestic breed are my pansies, in a rock-bed before my Lodge, and they are in a glorious riot of colors—yellow, deep blues and purples, white, and greyish purple. To me, these familiar flowers have more personality than any other. My faithful house-lady sees that a fresh cutting is placed in a small, round vase each day, and they smile at me but a few inches from my typewriter.

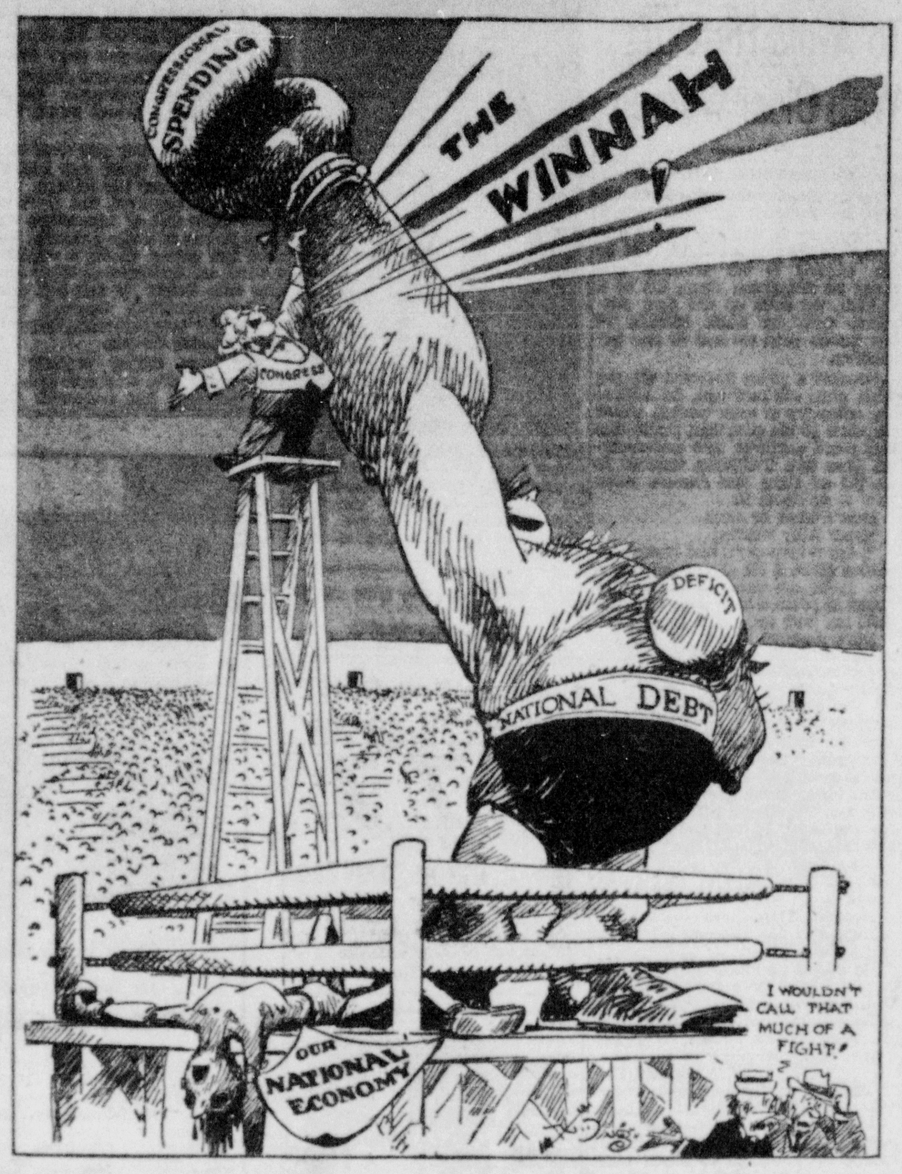
A most elusive and rare little flower grows along the shore, which I believe is called the maiden's braid, for it winds about its stem and is capped by one of the most delicate and fragrant white flowers I have discovered hereabout. Tiny and exquisite flowers that are like wax creations.

The island is strewn with wintergreen, and the small red and white berries mark each mosey path with beauty. I often chew the tasty leaves, polished a shiny green by God's artist. There are any number of other varieties that bud, bloom, and give forth their silent life, during these summer months. All have a silent voice, and I adore them.

Nature's garden is expansive. One Supreme Gardener looks after it all. The garden's voices are all for peace and contentment! Silent and significant is the message of each. Why should this beautiful garden ever be despoiled by the greed and brutality of man?

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Quiet—Beauty—Movement"

THE UNDEFEATED CHAMPION



Special Senate And House Committee Praised For Its Pearl Harbor Report

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 23 — The American people are indebted to the Special Senate and House committee which investigated the Pearl Harbor disaster. Despite the impressions which the concluding part of the report seeks to establish, the headings of the document fix responsibility as plainly as if names had been called.

The report is ingeniously developed. It states factually what occurred and subdivides each important section with a heading. Future historians cannot fail to read those tell-tale headings, for each one states an impersonal conclusion out of which only one inference can be made — namely, that the persons who had the responsibility for each task and did not perform it efficiently are being blamed.

Headings Are Pertinent

Thus there is language in the conclusion of the report itself, signed by the majority, which absolves certain individuals but there is no such evasiveness in the headings. Here, for instance, are some of the committee's own headings which subdivide the conclusions and recommendations of the report:

"1. Operational and intelligance work requires centralization of authority and clear-cut allocation of responsibility.

"2. Supervisory officials cannot safely take anything for granted in the alerting of subordinates.

"3. Any doubt as to whether outposts should be given information should always be resolved in favor of supplying the information.

"4. The delegation of authority or the issuance of orders entails the duty of inspection to determine that the official mandate is properly exercised.

"5. The implementation of official orders must be followed with closest supervision.

"6. The maintenance of alertness to responsibility must be insured through repetition.

"7. Complacency and procrastination are out of place where sudden and decisive action are of the essence.

"8. The co-ordination and proper evaluation of intelligence in times of stress must be insured by continuity of service and centralization of responsibility in competent officials.

"9. The unapproachable or superior attitude of officials is fatal; there should never be any hesitancy in asking for clarification of instructions or in seeking advice on matters that are in doubt.

"10. There is no substitute for imagination and resourcefulness on the part of supervisory and intelligence officials.

"11. Communications must be characterized by clarity, forthrightness, and appropriateness."

Significant Facts Stated

There are in all 25 of these headings. Particularly significant are Nos. 17, 23, 24 and 25. Here they are:

"17. An official who neglects to familiarize himself in detail with his organization should forfeit his responsibility.

"23. Superiors must at all times keep their subordinates adequately informed and, conversely, subordinates should keep their superiors informed.

"24. The administrative organization of any establishment must be designed to locate failures and to assess responsibility.

"25. In a well-balanced organization there is close correlation of responsibility and authority."

All that the historian of tomorrow needs to do is find out who, on Dec. 7, 1941, was chief of the army, chief of naval operations, and in command of subordinate positions in the War and Navy departments and who was commander-in-chief of the army and navy and then read the main headings of the report on Pearl Harbor. He will find that Republicans and Democrats were unanimous about the headings but politeness, courtesy and deference caused the omission of the names of the personalities involved, in the case of the majority who signed the report, whereas the minority just named those responsible. It's really a unanimous report on what happened.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

Now that I'm back in Hollywood, I've started work on my new picture. In this one I play the part of a hard-boiled private detective. . . Sort of an Alan Ladd with eggs. They wanted Dick Powell for the part, but my head was harder.

It's a real rough and tough part. In fact, I had to fight the producer to get it! My make-up man worked on me for hours trying to make me look tough but he finally gave up. . . The silly boy was trying to flatten my nose!

The name of the picture is "My Favorite Brunette". . . And I don't mean my butcher. I play opposite Dorothy Lamour but with her in the picture I don't find much time to follow the criminals. I did some very torrid love scenes with Dotty until she found out I tampered with the script.

I really take a beating in the first scene. I don't mind getting slugged and kicked when the role calls for it. . . But when the director pitches in and helps. . . That's too much.

Naturally, I catch the murderer and it's very exciting when I chase him down a dark alley. It was confusing, though. . . When I had cornered him in the alley, he pulled out a pair of nylons.

You'll see a new Bob Hope in this picture. I play hard to get. It's new to me, but it's easy. . . Lamour doesn't wear a sarong in this one.

Do Recent Defeats Of Senators Mean End Of A Cycle?

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Burton K. Wheeler and Henrik Shipstead both entered the Senate on the same day—March 4, 1923. Only McKellar of Tennessee, Capper of Kansas, and George of Georgia are their seniors in service. Campaigning for a fifth term, both Wheeler and Shipstead have now been defeated for renomination. Do their defeats mark the end of a cycle? Offsetting them, Butler of Nebraska and Langer of North Dakota, equally "isolationist," were renominated.

The word "isolationist" was a misnomer. The true distinction is nationalism or internationalism. The great nationalists, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, were never isolationists in the sense that Japan was a hermit nation for centuries. Both favored commerce with all nations. Washington drew the distinction sharply. "The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible."

Washington's Farewell Address

It has been the practice of the House of Representatives on each February 22nd to read Washington's Farewell Address. How soon this practice will be abandoned as "subversive" or unpatriotic, I do not know, but I venture to quote further:

"Permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular Nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded. . . . The Nation, which indulges towards another an habitual hatred, or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest. . . . The peace often, sometimes perhaps the Liberty, of Nations has been the victim. . . . A passionate attachment of one Nation for another . . . gives to ambitious, corrupted or deluded citizens (who devote themselves to the favourite Nation) facility to betray, or sacrifice the interests of their own country, without odium, sometimes even with popularity.

"Real Patriots, who may resist the intrigues of the favourite, are liable to become suspected and odious; while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests . . .

"Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European Ambition, Rivalship, Interest, Humour or Caprice? . . .

"We may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies."

Although Washington never dreamed of the atomic bomb, these words may be read against the current news of American troops killing and being killed by Yugo-Slavs, supported by Russia, in Trieste; the British proposal to send American troops to Palestine; intervention in Spain; participation in Argentine politics; civil war in China, etc.

Political Wheel Turns

The high point in Senator Wheeler's career, perhaps, was his vindication in Montana in 1940, when having led the fight against the Supreme Court packing bill, he got his largest majority, running far ahead of President Roosevelt.

Now James Roosevelt campaigns against Wheeler, whereas President Truman, faithful to a friend, supported him. Roosevelt and Truman in 1944. Truman versus Roosevelt in 1946. Thus the wheel turns.

Teapot Dome, the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign in 1924, when the two got the largest third party vote in American politics, the Supreme Court fight, and Wheeler's statement that our policies would "plow up every third American boy on the fields of Europe,"—heatedly denied at the time,—are the highlights of the public career of a Senator with high courage. As we have a small quantity of this quality, Wheeler's defeat will be regretted by many with whom he disagreed.

Here's Why Meat Shortage May Last Throughout The Summer

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON.—Housewives should not be deceived into believing that they will have no more summer meat shopping worries.

It is possible that for several weeks supplies of meats in retail stores will be relatively large, so that steaks, roasts, pork chops and hams will often be obtainable.

But such a condition cannot last long.

Summer months are normally the three months when the least meat is bought and the last livestock is slaughtered.

But the termination of price controls June 30 brought an abnormal surge of hogs and cattle to market.

Debate Cut Marketing

Most of this represented the movement of livestock which normally would have been sold in June, but which was withheld in anticipation of higher prices.

During debate on extension of the OPA in May and June, many congressmen repeatedly proposed removal of price controls from livestock, dairy and poultry products. This led farmers to withhold thousands of head of livestock from slaughter markets.

But when President Truman vetoed the OPA extension bill and price control automatically ended farmers rushed to market not only their withheld livestock but also much that normally would have been kept on pasture and feed longer. They anticipated a possible re-establishment of price ceilings bringing a reduction in livestock prices.

Eating Future Supply

As a consequence, consumers probably are eating now not only a part of the May and June supply of meat, but also a part of the August supply. The result may be a return of shortages in August and September.

Livestock marketings normally pick up sharply by October, when cattle from depleted pastures and summer-fattened hogs start rolling to market. Marketings usually reach their peak in December or January, and increased livestock marketings, of course, bring increased supplies of meats.

But even in the peak marketing months, meat shortages are expected. We are not likely to produce enough meat to share it with hungry peoples abroad and at the same time have all that we would buy if we could.

Germans Find Forgotten Relatives In United States

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN—A continuous stream of Germans who have suddenly remembered that they have a relative in America is flowing through the recently re-established American consulate here, and thousands of times the information desk must explain the prerequisites for one of the coveted 25,957 visas available under the German quota.

It will be a long, long time before the ordinary run-of-the-mine German can even present his application for consideration. For, the rules prescribe that the parents, children, and marital partners of American citizens come first, followed by men and women who were persecuted under Nazism. After these categories have been taken care of, there will probably be little or nothing of the quota left.

But even in the case of close American relatives the initiative cannot come from this side—it must come from America. There was the case the other day, for instance, of a woman who insisted she had the right to join her husband in the United States. Questioning developed that the man had left in 1932. The consular officials asked the woman whether she was sure her husband wanted her after fourteen years of separation. She could not answer that one. Nor could she explain why she had no urge to join him so long as Hitler was in power.

Then there was the young man whose uncle had sent for him in 1939. The war was going nicely for Hitler, and the young man ignored the invitation, although the American consulate still functioned until late in 1941. Nor did he bother later, after America's entry into the war, to contact the Swedish legation, which was looking after American interests. Now, however, he has become an ardent admirer of the United States, with an irresistible urge to become an American citizen. His uncle's affidavit now seven years old, looks awfully good to him. But he does not look so good to the consular officials.

Cases of this kind can be multiplied. The consulate is taking its time to look such applicants over carefully.

BETTER TRY A LARGER SIZE

AND SIZE IS MOST IMPORTANT IN A WATER HEATER TOO

You buy a water heater to fit your hot water needs just as you buy a hat to fit your head, for water heating requirements vary as much as head sizes. The size of your family, age of your children, doing your laundry at home or sending it out, etc., all influence your needs.

Even a SAFE, CLEAN, AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC WATER HEATER can't heat more water than the tank will hold. So be sure you get a heater that's big enough. And when you make the wise decision to buy an electric water heater also be sure it is wired and constructed so as to entitle you to the special low water heating rate.

Here's Why Meat Shortage May Last Throughout The Summer

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON.—Housewives should not be deceived into believing that they will have no more summer meat shopping worries.

It is possible that for several weeks supplies of meats in retail stores will be relatively large, so that steaks, roasts, pork chops and hams will often be obtainable.

But such a condition cannot last long.

Summer months are normally the three months when the least meat is bought and the last livestock is slaughtered.

But the termination of price controls June 30 brought an abnormal surge of hogs and cattle to market.

Debate Cut Marketing

Most of this represented the movement of livestock which normally would have been sold in June, but which was withheld in anticipation of higher prices.

During debate on extension of the OPA in May and June, many congressmen repeatedly proposed removal of price controls from livestock, dairy and poultry products. This led farmers to withhold thousands of head of livestock from slaughter markets.

But when President Truman vetoed the OPA extension bill and price control automatically ended farmers rushed to market not only their withheld livestock but also much that normally would have been kept on pasture and feed longer. They anticipated a possible re-establishment of price ceilings bringing a reduction in livestock prices.

Eating Future Supply

As a consequence, consumers probably are eating now not only a part of the May and June supply of meat, but also a part of the August supply. The result may be a return of shortages in August and September.

Livestock marketings normally pick up sharply by October, when cattle from depleted pastures and summer-fattened hogs start rolling to market. Marketings usually reach their peak in December or January, and increased livestock marketings, of course, bring increased supplies of meats.

But even in the peak marketing months, meat shortages are expected. We are not likely to produce enough meat to share it with hungry peoples abroad and at the same time have all that we would buy if we could.

Germans Find Forgotten Relatives In United States

AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN—A continuous stream of Germans who have suddenly remembered that they have a relative in America is flowing through the recently re-established American consulate here, and thousands of times the information desk must explain the prerequisites for one of the coveted 25,957 visas available under the German quota.

It will be a long, long time before the ordinary run-of-the-mine German can even present his application for consideration. For, the rules prescribe that the parents, children, and marital partners of American citizens come first, followed by men and women who were persecuted under Nazism. After these categories have been taken care of, there will probably be little or nothing of the quota left.

But even in the case of close American relatives the initiative cannot come from this side—it must come from America. There was the case the other day, for instance, of a woman who insisted she had the right to join her husband in the United States. Questioning developed that the man had left in 1932. The consular officials asked the woman whether she was sure her husband wanted her after fourteen years of separation. She could not answer that one. Nor could she explain why she had no urge to join him so long as Hitler was in power.

Then there was the young man whose uncle had sent for him in 1939. The war was going nicely for Hitler, and the young man ignored the invitation, although the American consulate still functioned until late in 1941. Nor did he bother later, after America's entry into the war, to contact the Swedish legation, which was looking after American interests. Now, however, he has become an ardent admirer of the United States, with an irresistible urge to become an American citizen. His uncle's affidavit, now seven years old, looks awfully good to him. But he does not look so good to the consular officials.

Cases of this kind can be multiplied. The consulate is taking its time to look such applicants over carefully.

BETTER TRY A LARGER SIZE

AND SIZE IS MOST IMPORTANT IN A WATER HEATER TOO

You buy a water heater to fit your hot water needs just as you buy a hat to fit your head, for water heating requirements vary as much as head sizes. The size of your family, age of your children, doing your laundry at home or sending it out, etc., all influence your needs.
Even a SAFE, CLEAN, AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC WATER HEATER can't heat more water than the tank will hold. So be sure you get a heater that's big enough. And when you make the wise decision to buy an electric water heater also be sure it is wired and constructed so as to entitle you to the special low water heating rate.

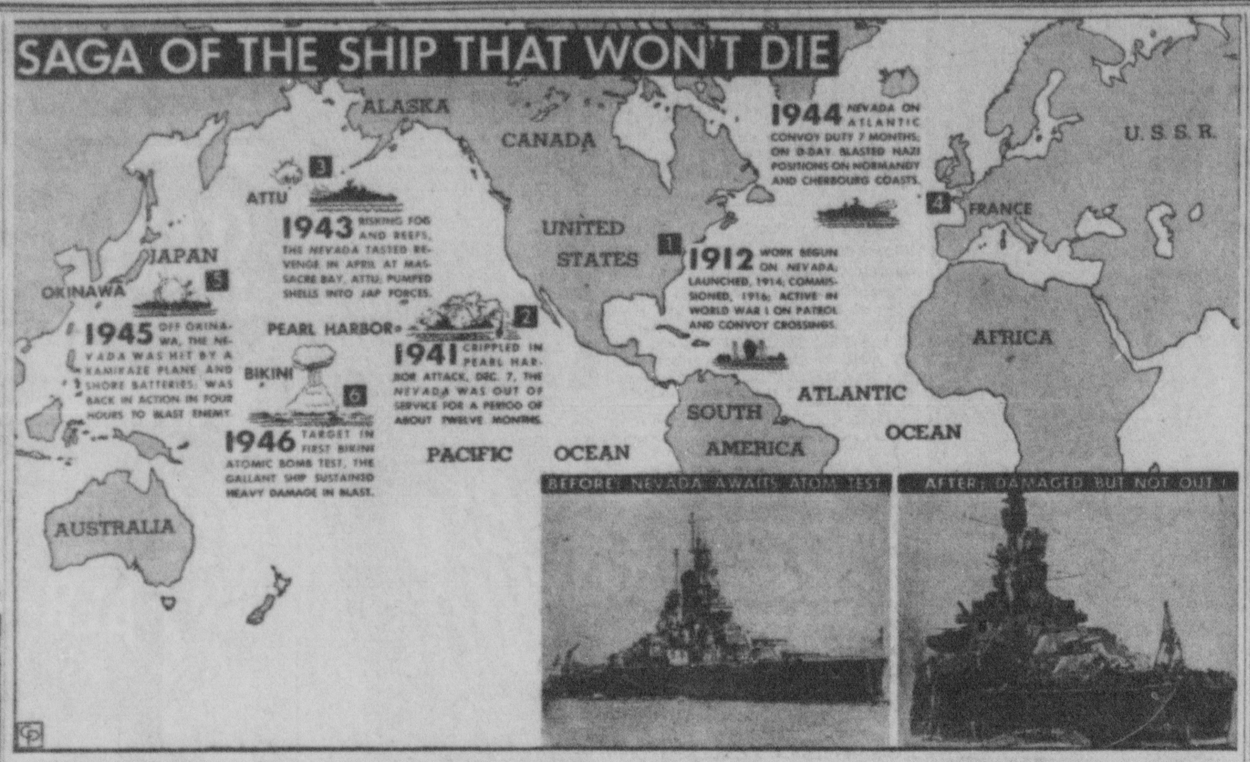
SAGA OF THE SHIP THAT WON'T DIE



OUR NAVAL ANNALS are filled with sagas of gallant, battered fighting ships that refused to go down. To this honored list historians have added the venerable battleship Nevada, target in the first atomic bomb test at Bikini. The thirty-year-old, war-wounded craft suffered heavy damage in the blast, but still remains afloat. Ordered in 1912, the Nevada was launched in 1914 and commissioned in 1916. With other fleet units she served on convoy and patrol duty during the first World War. Seconds after World War II began for the U. S. the old battlewagon was ripped by Jap bombs at Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, and beached by her crew. She was repaired and back in service in late 1942. Her first taste of revenge came in April 1943 when, for four days, she risked fogs and reefs in Massacre Bay to pound the Japs on Attu. She navigated, according to her commander, "by the grace of God and good fortune." Transferred to the Atlantic, the warship did convoy duty from Sept. 1943 to April 1944. On D-Day, June 6, 1944, she began blasting holes in Nazi coast defenses in Normandy. Her crew remained at battle stations for eighty hours; more than 2,200 fourteen-inch shells and 5,000 five-inch shells smashed enemy concentrations in the first four invasion hours. The 32,000-ton dreadnaught moved to Cherbourg Peninsula to support land forces and then to the Mediterranean to aid in the southern invasion of Europe. Although she took part in every major amphibious operation on the continent, not one man aboard was lost. She came home for overhauling and then steamed to the Pacific. A Kamikaze plane struck her March 27, 1945 while she was shelling Jap installations on Okinawa, but she returned to action after four hours. The next week, Jap shore guns scored five hits on the Nevada but her damage was repaired overnight and she went back into battle. When the war ended, she wore service ribbons on her bridge which included the Purple Heart, World War I Victory Medal, Pre-Pearl Harbor, Pacific Theatre, American Theatre, and the European-African-Middle East Theatre. Selected as the target among the array of ships in Bikini Lagoon, the "old fighting lady" was damaged above the water line but refused to sink in the first atomic test. She will go down in history as one of the toughest and most gallant U. S. warships ever to roam the seas. (International)

Naval Reserves To Take Enlistment Oath Here

To encourage the enrollment of ex-service men in the Navy V-6 inactive reserve, a commissioned naval officer will come here periodically to administer the oath of allegiance to qualified applicants, so the men will not lose time by going to Baltimore to take the oath.

Chief Boatswains' Mate Bradford Smith, local Navy recruiter said yesterday Lieut. (JG) C. M. Baumann will come here next Monday to give the oath to the first group of volunteers. The oath will be administered to one group at 1 p. m. and another at 4 p. m. so as not to interfere with their work schedules.

They include Albert L. Marple, 10 Pulaski street; James M. Langley, of Lonaconing; George V. Tucker, LaVale; Robert L. Weber, 200 Gleason street; Harry E. McFarland, 640 Shriver avenue; Paul E. Cruthers, of Ridgeley; Herman G. Hamilton, of Frostburg; John W. Cameron, of RFD 3, city; Charles Cathcart, of Frostburg, and Robert B. Sinceli, of Oakland.

Chief Smith said he expects additional men to apply for the V-6 inactive reserve prior to Monday and these men will also be sworn in at the ceremony.

Fahey Is Honored For Work In Army

Erlangen, Germany, July 23—First Sergeant John B. Fahey, son of Mrs. Tillie Fahey, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Cumberland, Md., was recently awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon at Ninth Air Force Service Command ceremonies here.

The citation accompanying the award states that Fahey, while serving as first sergeant of Headquarters and Base Service Squadron of the Ninth Air Force at Oberfaffenhofen, Germany, distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious service, not in connection with sustained military operations against an enemy during the period of May 15, 1945 to December 31, 1945.

"His performance of duty and determination to accomplish his task during the reorganizations, reassignments and redeployment period reflect great skill on himself and the Army of the United States," the citation adds.

The medal was presented to Sgt. Fahey by Col. Frank M. Paul, commanding officer of the squadron.

Sgt. Fahey was inducted in the Army at Baltimore in January, 1943 and has never had a furlough home, being sent overseas in October, 1943. He received his basic training at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and left for the European theatre from Hamilton Field, Calif.

He was employed by the Thomas F. Conlon Insurance Agency before leaving for military service. His sister, Miss Angela Fahey, resides at 227 Saratoga street, in Cumberland.

Lack Of Vitamins May Cause Many Odd Conditions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Yesterday, I discussed the symptoms which may occur in mild deficiencies of vitamin A and C, and pointed out that diagnosis of such deficiences might be difficult to make. Similarly, it is not always easy to tell about deficiencies of various parts of the vitamin B-complex, such as B1 or thiamin, B2 or riboflavin, and niacin which has to do with pellagra.

Severe deficiency of thiamin will cause enlargement of the right side of the heart. Inflammation of the nerves of the legs, particularly, with difficulty in walking and some swelling of the tissues, due to a collection of fluid in them, also occurs. Such severe deficiencies are seen infrequently.

Thiamin Lack Common

Mild deficiencies of thiamin are much more common. In such cases the symptoms include weakness, painful calf muscles, and numbness and tingling of the feet or hands. When such symptoms develop and the cause for them cannot be found it is worthwhile trying treatment with large doses of thiamin, according to Dr. William H. Sebrell of Bethesda, Maryland.

A lack of riboflavin or vitamin B2 will cause inflammation of the lips or cheilosis, cracking in the angles of the mouth, and mild inflammation of the skin, with scaling around the nose and at the outer corners of the eyes.

In many instances, there also may be some disturbance of the eyes with watering, and a gritty feeling in the eyes. Such symptoms may be due to other disturbances of the eyes such as conjunctivitis or inflammation of the lining membrane of the eyeball.

If the disturbance is due to the deficiency of riboflavin, prompt relief occurs when riboflavin is given in adequate amounts. The disturbance of the lips and corners of the mouth may require two or three weeks for a cure.

Mouth Inflammation

A mild deficiency of niacin will cause some inflammation of the mouth and tongue. Of course, such inflammation may also be produced by infections. However, treatment with niacin should be attempted in such mouth inflammations and when they are due to a deficiency. A cure quickly results.

Mild vitamin deficiencies almost never threaten life, but they can take all the joy out of it by preventing robust, vigorous health. If they occur when other disorders are present, they may delay recovery and make it more difficult.

Because the means to correct them is so readily available, it is foolish to struggle along in the state of half-aliveness which these mild deficiencies induce.

Tips To Cooks

A word to the wise bride. The all-important principle in meat cookery is the use of low temperature. For roasting the oven temperature should be 300 to 350 degrees never higher. For broiling, meat should be placed two to three inches from the heat. When cooking with liquid the liquid should simmer, not boil.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U S Patent Office)

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'm not afraid to die.

When you've lived over 60 jam-packed years, seeing the best and the worst of life, including your own shame and cussedness, death can't hold many surprises.

So I'm not afraid to die. But I am afraid—and it's the only fear I know—of not living enough.

I've seen such splended people in my time—blazing, lusty people who rode life as if it were a bucking broncho, that I guess I've become a glutton for living too.

It's great to look back over the time when the west and I were young together. My folks were pioneers and it took something more than a pair of trick pants to be a pioneer then. Back beyond Sacramento they were gouging out huts of the Sierra with their big hydraulics. Down the Bay naked Kanakas (still cannibals) were shoveling those first shiploads of incredible wheat, fresh from the virgin soil around the San Joaquin. Nightly there were killings—soldiers fresh in from Indian fighting . . . booted miners . . . crooked gamblers . . . trappers . . . Chinese with backs still aching from building the Union Pacific. Hunters by the score and many a scalp, both red and white, still drying on the desert wikiups.

Recalls Great Times

Great times. I think of them often in these strange, fumbling days of our confusion and discontent. Now and then some little whippersnapper tells me what hell-bent speedburners they are now. And I snicker. Yet I pity them, too. What a lot they've missed!

Speedburners? I was a gold miner—just a common mucker wheeling ore at 32. And even so I was only middlin' fair as westerners go. You should have seen the women who built the first frontier homes. Women like cougars, stout hearted, wild as hawks.

I remember one who'd been a petted belle back in Philadelphia society before she eloped with her Indian fighter husband. A slight, laughing thing then. When I knew her she was like a resting mountain. Ten children—born, without a doctor, somewhere along the trail. Saw four of them die in one week after a raid—watched, dry eyed, while the wagon wheels rolled their little graves flat.

Women like that. My mother was one of them. They had something different, something special in their makeup that they aren't dishing out in these 1946 models.

Remember Edgar Lee Master's amazing book, "Spoon River Anthology," that rocked America back in that were supposed to have been 1915? Terrific, living lines, lines epitaphs on Spoon River's graves.

A Complaining Generation

There's that piece about old Lucinda Matlock who died at 96, fulfilled and content. Twelve children she'd borne her Davis—eight of them dead before she was 60. Yet, for all the tears, she'd enjoyed it all. Spun and wove, sung and laughed, cooked and planted, nursed the sick, brewed the herbs. Come life come death, Lucinda was there to welcome them both, holding the candle, staunching the blood. Then flinging back these words at the end—triumphant, challenging—

"What is this I hear of sorrow and weariness,

"Anger, discontent and drooping hopes?

"Degenerate sons and daughters,

"Life is too strong for you—

"It takes life to love life."

And now it's 1946. With every labor saving convenience that the devil could devise. And we're forming in lines to get nylons. Whimpering because bread's going up and there isn't enough meat for fillet mignon all around!

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'm not afraid to die.

When you've lived over 60 jam-packed years, seeing the best and the worst of life, including your own shame and cussedness, death can't hold many surprises.

So I'm not afraid to die. But I am afraid—and it's the only fear I know—of not living enough.

I've seen such splended people in my time—blazing, lusty people who rode life as if it were a bucking broncho, that I guess I've become a glutton for living too.

It's great to look back over the time when the west and I were young together. My folks were pioneers and it took something more than a pair of trick pants to be a pioneer then. Back beyond Sacramento they were gouging out huns of the Sierra with their big hydraulics. Down the Bay naked Kanakas (still cannibals) were shoveling those first shiploads of incredible wheat, fresh from the virgin soil around the San Joaquin. Nightly there were killings—soldiers fresh in from Indian fighting . . . booted miners . . . crooked gamblers . . . trappers . . . Chinese with backs still aching from building the Union Pacific. Hunters by the score and many a scalp, both red and white, still drying on the desert wikiups.

Recalls Great Times

Great times. I think of them often in these strange, fumbling days of our confusion and discontent. Now and then some little whippersnapper tells me what hell-bent speed-burners they are now. And I snicker. Yet I pity them, too. What a lot they've missed!

Speedburners? I was a gold miner—just a common mucker wheeling ore at 38. And even so I was only middlin' fair as westerners go. You should have seen the women who built the first frontier homes. Women like cougars, stout hearted, wild as hawks.

I remember one who'd been a petted belle back in Philadelphia society before she eloped with her Indian fighter husband. A slight, laughing thing then. When I knew her she was like a resting mountain. Ten children—born, without a doctor, somewhere along the trail. Saw four of them die in one week after a raid—watched, dry eyed, while the wagon wheels rolled their little graves flat.

Women like that. My mother was one of them. They had something different, something special in their makeup that they aren't dishing out in these 1946 models.

Remember Edgar Lee Master's amazing book, "Spoon River Anthology," that rocked America back in that were supposed to have been 1915? Terrific, living lines, lines epitaphs on Spoon River's graves.

Ordinance Passed For City Licenses In Westernport

Measure Will Take Effect August 1; Affected Businesses Listed

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, July 23—Beginning August 1, all business places not licensed by the state will be licensed by the Town of Westernport, according to an ordinance passed last night by Mayor J. Milton McIntyre and the commissioners. It was originally drawn up to become effective January 1, but was changed to August.

Among the businesses to be licensed under the measure are shoe repair shops, hotels, banks, shooting gallaries, dance halls and taxis.

John W. Fisher, principal of Bruce high school, and Lewis E. Harris, appeared at the meeting relative to a donation from the town for the proposed YMCA being organized in the Tri-Towns. City officials said they did not think they had the right to donate taxpayers' money for such projects without authority.

Wilson Rites Held

Services for Raymond Wilson, 41, who died at his home on Westernport hill Saturday evening, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Boal funeral home by the Rev. Raymond L. Moore, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, Piedmont, assisted by the Rev. Ernest Bruce Caplinger, pastor of the United Brethren church. Interment was in Philos cemetery.

Pallbearers were Guy McKenzie, Garland and Marcus Grove, Walter Martin, Harmon Broadwater and Fay Plaugher.

Services To Close

The Rev. W. M. Wooten, Pittsburgh, Pa., will conclude the evangelistic services Sunday which are being conducted at the Erin Street Baptist church, Piedmont, W. Va. An all-day meeting will be held Sunday. The Rev. L. F. Johnson and the Rev. H. D. Long, both of Johnstown, Pa., will arrange for a bus from there and one from Cumberland for those desiring to attend the Sunday afternoon meeting at 3 o'clock. The Rev. William R. Berry is pastor of the church.

Brief Items

An orchestra recently organized by Harry Edward Kight will play for the dance of the Tri-Towns Rec club at the Moose home at Piedmont, W. Va., Wednesday evening.

The Devore mixed quartet will sing at the Bloomington Methodist church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The offering will be used for the church. The public is invited to attend.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dayton Ours, Westernport, and Mr. and Mrs. Delos Ours and daughter, Elizabeth, Piedmont, returned from a week's camping trip at Bobo's cottage near Great Cacapon, W. Va.

Miss Hilda Fazenbaker underwent an operation recently in Memorial hospital, Cumberland.

Committee Named To Plan Supper

By MRS. H. V. BENDER

FLINTSTONE, July 23—Mrs. H. V. Bender was hostess to the Thompson Bible class at her home recently. Cheney, Mrs. Charles Shriver and Mrs. Bender to make plans for a supper to be held jointly by members of the Womens Society of Christian Service and the Thompson Bible class.

A suggestion was made that each member and also interested persons donate some sugar to be added to the amount already on hand. Mrs. Ethel Stonestreet reported securing stamps for nine pounds from the rationing board for the church.

The Rev. Mr. Hartman reminded the group that August 18 is the date of the second circuit day, to be held at Prosperity church on Beans Cove road. September 15 is the date that the new Flintstone Methodist church will be dedicated.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Humberson.

Alpha Bender assisted her mother in serving refreshments.

Commission Rules Against Kennedy

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission found today that Ambrose J. Kennedy, former associate member of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board, violated a federal law prohibiting political activities by federal employes.

The commission charged that Kennedy while on the board violated the Hatch Political Activities act by serving as a delegate to the Democratic national convention at Chicago in July, 1944, and by serving as an officer in a partisan political organization—the Gov. O'Conor Democratic Club of Baltimore City's Tenth Ward. It was charged also that he made a political speech at a Democratic party rally in Baltimore, October 24, 1944.

Kennedy, who resigned September 18, 1945, denied that he was subject to the act, that his principal employment had been with a federally financed activity and that the activities attributed to him were violations of the act.

The commission's order has this result:

If Kennedy should be re-employed within a period of 18 months there would be a deduction from federal loans or grants to the state or his agency equal to twice his salary, which was $5,000 annually.

Kentucky Plane Crash Takes Lives Of Two Men

HARLAN, Ky., July 23 (AP)—Pete Guthrie, 30, manager of the Harlan Fuel Company at nearby Yancey, and Connie Gaines, 35, operator of a wood preserving company near here, were killed this afternoon when the small plane in which they were riding crashed into a cornfield about six miles from Harlan.

Murph Howard, about 16, said he saw the plane spin twice from a height of about 500 feet and crash. Both occupants were dead when neighbors arrived.

Guthrie, a licensed pilot, was at the controls when the plane left the airport officials at the airport said. Although he owned a plane, the two men were in a plane rented at the airport.

Their destination was not learned but attaches at the airport said they understood the men were on a pleasure flight. The cause of the crash was undetermined.

Baltimore Downpour Expected To Taper Off

[By The Associated Press]

The downpour which gave Baltimore and other parts of Maryland almost a month's normal rainfall in less than 24 hours was expected by weather bureau observers to taper off into intermittent showers today.

While farmers in rural districts began appraising the effect of the heavy rain on their crops, Baltimore quickly recovered from the deluge, which overflowed storm drains, flooded streets and highways, stopped traffic and caused a flurry of traffic accidents.

Baltimore was the place hardest hit by the rain, with a fall of 3.5 inches between 2 p. m. Monday and 11 a. m. Tuesday. Average rainfall for July is 6.64 inches.

Union Official Faces Riot Inciting Charge

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 23 (AP) —Magistrate Martin V. B. Bostetter today ordered Bert W. Bothe, 27, international representative of the UAW-CIO, held in $2,500 bond for a hearing July 30 on charges of inciting a riot on the picket line at the Pangborn Corporation plant.

Approximately 450 production workers are on the second day of a strike at the plant, where sandblasting machinery is manufactured. Joseph E. Craig, president of UAW-CIO Local 842, said the strike would continue until the company meets demands for a new contract including wage boosts, a change in grievance procedure, and seniority rights.

Bothe was arrested today by Police Chief Max W. Rickard, who said he warned the union official against permitting pickets to block the plant driveway.

Coffee first was brought to America by the New Amsterdam Dutch in 1668.

Police Of Two States Seek Woman's Slayer

ATHENS, O., July 23 (AP)—A 33-year-old mother was shot and killed today as her 10-year-old son stood by at a farm near Glouster, Athens County Sheriff George Bateman reported.

Southeastern Ohio and West Virginia authorities still sought the man Sheriff Bateman said the boy, Richard Bailey, implicated in the shootng of his mother, Mrs. Pauline Bailey.

Bateman quoted the son as saying the man came to the farm at noon, said a few words which the son did not hear, and pulled a nickel-plated pistol from his pocket as Mrs. Bailey began to cry.

The boy told Sheriff Bateman his mother ran around the house as the man shot at her. She fell in a garden at the rear, shot in the head and twice in the arm.

The woman's assailant then disappeared down the road, the boy said.

The dead woman's husband, Frank Bailey, is working in Detroit, Bateman said.

Guthrie, a licensed pilot, was at the controls when the plane left the airport officials at the airport said. Although he owned a plane, the two men were in a plane rented at the airport.

Their destination was not learned but attaches at the airport said they understood the men were on a pleasure flight. The cause of the crash was undetermined.

Baltimore Downpour Expected To Taper Off

[By The Associated Press]

The downpour which gave Baltimore and other parts of Maryland almost a month's normal rainfall in less than 24 hours was expected by weather bureau observers to taper off into intermittent showers today.

While farmers in rural districts began appraising the effect of the heavy rain on their crops, Baltimore quickly recovered from the deluge, which overflowed storm drains, flooded streets and highways, stopped traffic and caused a flurry of traffic accidents.

Baltimore was the place hardest hit by the rain, with a fall of 3.5 inches between 2 p. m. Monday and 11 a. m. Tuesday. Average rainfall for July is 6.64 inches.

Union Official Faces Riot Inciting Charge

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 23 (AP)—Magistrate Martin V. B. Bostetter today ordered Bert W. Bothe, 27, international representative of the UAW-CIO, held in $2,500 bond for a hearing July 30 on charges of inciting a riot on the picket line at the Pangborn Corporation plant.

Approximately 450 production workers are on the second day of a strike at the plant, where sandblasting machinery is manufactured. Joseph E. Craig, president of UAW-CIO Local 842, said the strike would continue until the company meets demands for a new contract including wage boosts, a change in grievance procedure, and seniority rights.

Bothe was arrested today by Police Chief Max W. Rickard, who said he warned the union official against permitting pickets to block the plant driveway.

Coffee first was brought to America by the New Amsterdam Dutch in 1668.

Police Of Two States Seek Woman's Slayer

ATHENS, O., July 23 (AP)—A 33-year-old mother was shot and killed today as her 10-year-old son stood by at a farm near Glouster, Athens County Sheriff George Bateman reported.

Southeastern Ohio and West Virginia authorities still sought the man Sheriff Bateman said the boy, Richard Bailey, implicated in the shooting of his mother, Mrs. Pauline Bailey.

Bateman quoted the son as saying the man came to the farm at noon, said a few words which the son did not hear, and pulled a nickel-plated pistol from his pocket as Mrs. Bailey began to cry.

The boy told Sheriff Bateman his mother ran around the house as the man shot at her. She fell in a garden at the rear, shot in the head and twice in the arm.

The woman's assailant then disappeared down the road, the boy said.

The dead woman's husband, Frank Bailey, is working in Detroit, Bateman said.

Stocks Tumble As One Of Worst Reactions Of Year Hits Market

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP) — One of the worst reactions of the year hit the stock market today and, on relatively heavy selling, leaders dropped one to six points or so, a number to 1946 lows, before a little support stemmed the slide.

Brokers could find nothing outstanding in the news to blame for the slump. They attributed it to various factors including bearishness over price control prospects, buyers' strikes, firming money rates, lagging production and the idea that the list, for the past two months, has been acting rather logey. The fact that the averages recently had established a triple bottom served to discourage trend technicians. A batch of fairly good dividends and earnings were, on the whole, ignored.

Transfers of 1,690,000 shares compared with 690,000 Monday and were the largest since May 29.

Kaufmann Department Stores common was one of the few gainers. It added three points at $46 in the wake of a proposal to merge with May Department Stores. The letter, strong in the past week, conceded 1½ at $59.25.

Prominent casualties included Johns-Manville, off 6¾ at $134.87, du Pont six at $205.50, Bethlehem 5½ at $103.50, Hiram Walker 5½ at $134, Santa Fe 5¾ at $110.50, Chesapeake and Ohio 3¾ at $59, and Chrysler 3½ at $117.50, low for the year.

Aluminum Ltd. wielded eight points at $191 in the Curb. Lesser recessions were attached to Aluminum of America, Cities Service, Solar Aircraft, Textron, United Light and Electric Bond and Share. Turnover here was 560,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

Rail obligations dropped fractions to around three points to new lows for the year in the bond market today.

Turnover speeded as the decline gained momentum and total volume expanded to $4,670,000 from $2,850,000 Monday.

Issues of railroads in reorganization were hardest hit.

Weakness spread to United States governments in the over-the-counter market where quotations were market down as much as 5-32 of a point for Victory loan 2½s of December at 103 6-32 bid. Slack demand was blamed for the losses.

Corporates lower included Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at 67, Boston and Maine 4½s at 61⅛, Central of Georgia first 5s at 105, Central of N. J., 5s at 38½, St. Paul convertibles at 74½, Rock Island refunding 4s at 56½, Colorado and Southern 4½s at 62, Denver and Rio Grande Western assented 5s at 14½, New York Central "A" 4½s at 91¾, and Frisco 4½s at 40½.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP) — Grain futures, except the July contract in oats, were weak during today's trading. Government estimates of a record corn production caused a heavy tone at the outset and nothing happened during the day to develop strength. The prospects for an outstanding crop also led to depressed prices for new corn on deferred shipments from the country. Closing grain quotations:

CORN—January 1.45½, March 1.48.

OATS—July 76½-75¾, August 70⅜-⅛, September 70¼-½, November 70¼-⅛, December 71-71¼, March 72⅜-⅞.

BARLEY — November 1.35¼, December 1.35½, March 1.35½.

"Fraternity in Action"

"And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper"—Gen. 4-9.*

Hundreds of thousands of Woodmen answer "yes" to Cain's question. They are providing safe, sound fraternal life insurance protection to shield themselves and their families from want.

Woodmen also practice the precepts of Brotherly Love, taught by Woodcraft's ritual, as they bring aid and comfort to fellow members and their families in distress.

Woodcraft's fraternal service extends into the community. Assisted by the society's National Service Endowment Fund, local Woodmen camps sponsor and help to support many civic and charitable enterprises.

Ask your local Woodmen representative for facts about Woodmen insurance protection and fraternal benefits.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.—David Lewis is so anxious to get Ronald Colman for Barbara Stanwyck's co-star in "The Other Love" he's willing to postpone the starting date—and that's all right by Barbara. Colman has the script now and likes the Erich Remarque story very much. He also like the idea of doing a picture with Stanwyck with whom he has never worked—but who doesn't want to work with that girl, a trouper's trouper?

There are two strong male roles in this story about a beautiful woman dying of tuberculosis in a Swiss sanitarium. She leaves the sanitarium and the doctor who loves and cares for her to run off with a wild racing driver (which is not the Colman role.) Picture starts in September with this cast line-up if Ronnie can sandwich it in between commitments already signed.

Sidney Buchman has ambitious plans for his independent company now that he's broken with Columbia after 12 years. His first will be Howard Fast's "The Last Frontier", a sympathetic yarn of the American Indian and his plight, for which Buchman would like to have both Jimmy Stewart and Henry Fonda. Second movie on the schedule is "Beethoven" which will have Toscanini, Jasha Heifetz, Jose Iturbi and other top music makers. Buchman has been hankering for another musical back-ground picture ever since he produced "Song To Remember."

Well, there's a bright side to every cloud, so they say. Louis Russell, who started his 20th contract in the romantic-leading-man weight division, has put on 70 pounds in 18 months and says he's making more money than he ever did. In other words, comedy character roles are paying off better than screen romances, because the studio just took up his contract. Louis gained the weight on his own cooking which he claims is superlative and is now working on his cookbook, "I'm hungry." He once played romantic leads in England and was with Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green". It was also, fattening—apparently.

When Cary Grant was East he ran into Joan Castle (divorced from William Post and once under contract to 20th-Century). Joan and Cary had taken dramatic lessons together years ago when he was Archie Leach. So he ups and makes a deal with her to come to Hollywood for his first independent production with options for further pictures. First Cary has to do a Korda picture and "Bachelor and Bobby Sox" with Shirley Temple, so the date insn't definite. Before making the jump to Hollywood, Joan may do either the London or California road company lead of "Born Yesterday."

There's a British character in New York, Vic Perry, billed professionally as "The World's Greatest Pickpocket" beginning to attract movie as well as a stage attention. He's 26 years old, six-foot-one, weighs 250 pounds and bears a remarkable resemblance to the late Laird Cregar. Marvin Schenk of MGM caught his act and told "Pickpocket" to come to Hollywood. He also sent word to the coast to line up some typical Cregar roles and when they are found, Perry will be brought on to test for them.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Not a chance of Nancy Guild (pronounced like Wild and Dick Bare (pronounced like Dick Bare) patching up their broken engagement. She's dating Charles Russell; the Andy Russells denying rumors that they're on the stork's list; that bright glow 3000 miles away is the torch John Conte's toting for Marilyn Maxwell; Bobbe Fidler, with John Sutton, at the Mocambo, dancing dream to dream. She had on the cutest dress seen hereabouts in some time—a blue number with an overskirt of black net like an apron. Jennifer Jones looking very smart—same place, same night, in all-black—and Mark Hellinger looking all-fired happy following the sneak preview of "The Killers"; Les Brown opens at the Palladium tonight; Vic McLaglen and his wife, an arresting looking couple, in town from their ranch, dining at the Brown Derby. She's six-feet-two, he's six-feet-three; Donald O'Connor's health broke down from the strenuous routine of personals at the Roxy. He's heading back to the coast to recuperate before reporting to Universal August 1; what's this about no love lost between Desi Arnaz and Peter Lind Hayes, both headlining the show at the Copacabana? Personal to Lop: Mike Todd wants to fete you with a "Louella Parsons Day" sometime during the meet at the Del Mar racetrack and you know how you've always liked to go to the races solely beause it keeps you out in "the fresh air!"; That's all today. See you tomorrow.

49,000 See Bosox Lose To Chicago At Comiskey Park

Rigney Twirls 5-Hitter And Stops Williams In 7 to 1 Triumph

CHICAGO, Ill., July 23 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, piling up five runs in the first inning, upset the Boston Red Sox 7 to 1 tonight before an estimated crowd of 49,000 in Comiskey Park.

The White Sox barrage knocked Bill Zuber out in the opening inning to settle the issue long before John Rigney could complete a five-hit performance in his first start since June 6. Rigney had been out with a sore arm.

Home-run king and league-leading batter Ted Williams went hitless. He was purposely passed—his 100th walk of the campaign—in the fourth, and lined out in the sixth and in the eighth innings.

The White Sox added two more runs in the seventh off Clem Dreisewerd. The Red Sox gained their only run of Rigney in the seventh on singles by York and Russell and Hal Wagner's long fly. Box:

The Tribe right-hander hurled hitless ball for the first four innings, Pete Suder getting the first blow when he beat out a roller to deep short in the fifth.

The A's couldn't touch Reynolds again until the eighth when Pinch-Hitter Tuck Stainback lined a single. Sam Chapman singled in the ninth for the A's third hit.

The Indians collected their first run in the fourth on a double by Hank Edwards and a single by Heinz Becker. Reynolds drove in the other tally in the seventh after Ken Keltner singled and was sacrificed to second. Score:

Potomac Edison's seventh place team registered a stunning upset in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by defeating the Texcel Club by the score of 10-8 on the Fort Hill diamond. In two previous meetings Texcel won over P. E. by scores of 12-3 and 10-4.

A three-run rally in the seventh inning decided the game after the teams had been deadlocked at 7-7.

Homer Decides Game

"Rusty" Harrison's circuit smash following Frank Kohlhoff's single was the winning wallop. "Buck" Grimes' triple and Joe Buday's single gave P. E. an additional run.

"Buck" Grimes went the route for the winners and was aided by a fast double play in the fourth inning after Texcel had scored two runs and second and third base were occupied. Whitmore, third sacker, Kohlhoff, first baseman, and Catcher Allen engineered the dual killing.

Buday with a double and two singles in four trips and Grimes with a triple single led the P. E. batsmen while G. Miller hit a double and three-bagger for Texcel.

Caseys and Elks Win

The Knights of Columbus retained their two-game edge over the B. P. O. Elks by defeating the Woodmen of the World on the Rolling Mill field, 11 to 5.

"Bud" Scaletta notched win No. 9 against two losses, yielding nine hits, two of which were credited to "Benchie" Often. "Chick" Snider and Scaletta had two hits each for the Caseys. Dunlap, of the Woodmen, obtained the only extra base hit of the game — a double.

Staging a three-run rally in the fourth frame, the Elks remained right on the Caseys' heels by downing the Cumberland Outdoor Club at Taylor field, 6-2. In notching his tenth win of the season against four setbacks, Jimmie Wilkinson limited the Outdoor clubbers to four hits. Clifton Van Roby with two doubles and Pete Lear with two singles were the Elks' leading stickers.

Legion Beats Moose

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, took the Loyal Order of Moose into camp on Allegany high school field by the score of 6-2. The Legionnaires broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth and added three more tallies in the seventh featured by Bill Spangler's two-base wallop with two aboard. The scores:

APPELLATE COURT HOLDS DOPING RULE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 23 (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals today affirmed a Baltimore City Superior Court decision holding a Maryland Racing Commission rule on administering drugs to horses unconstitutional.

In its decision the court refused an appeal by the commission from a decree of Judge Edwin T. Dickerson, who ordered a trainer's license restored to J. Dallet Byers for privileges of race tracks under the commission's jurisdiction.

Byers' license was suspended after a hearing before the commission at which evidence was presented to show benzedrene was found in the saliva of the horse Cosey Nov. 14, 1945 at Pimlico.

New York To Stage Three Title Bouts In September

Zale To Meet Graziano Sept. 26; Louis Will Face Mauriello And Servo Tests Robinson

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP) —Middleweight Champion Tony Zale came up with a $300,000 ache in his ribs today that was so painful he had to postpone his title tussle with Rocky Graziano from this Thursday until September 26 in Yankee Stadium.

The ailment was variously described as inter-costal neuritis and inter-costal myositis, all of which translates to a severe ache in the muscles somewhere between the sixth and tenth ribs on the left side. With $200,000 already in the cash register and $300,000 or more expected by post time, it also was regarded by Promoter Mike Jacobs and the two principals as a pronounced pain in the pocketbook.

Three Bouts In 28 Days

The new date for the fancy fireworks that have been generally forecast for this middleweight thumping makes September just about the busiest month of nose-mashing the cauliflower ear industry has ever seen, with three title fights in the space of 28 days.

Reading from left to right, these are the welterweight walloping between Marty Servo and Ray Robinson Sept. 6, the heavyweight hammering in which Joe Louis will explain some of the simpler things of fistic life to Tami Mauriello Sept 18, and now the 160-pound punch-party. If a postponement is necessary in the welterweight tussle, it will be set back to September 27 the very night after Zale and Graziano go to work.

Zale first noticed the pain last Saturday at his training camp in Pompton Lakes, but after applying heat pads he went to bed and slept it off, Sunday, while doing his bending exercises, it came back again, more sharply. His manager partnership, Sam Pian and Art Winch, called in their old friend, Dr. John O'Connell of Chicago, who was in New York, and he diagnosed it as inter-costal neuritis.

Party Is Called Off

Since it's the kind of an ailment that might go away in 48 hours, or hang around for six weeks, Pian and Winch, after notifying Jacobs, decided to wait until this morning to make up their minds officially about calling Thursday's party off. When Tony was no better at daybreak the fight was scratched. Tony will head home to Gary, Ind., and probably spend a few days in a hospital.

HIS RIBS ACHE — Tony Zale, middleweight champion of the world, yesterday was forced to postpone his match with Rocky Graziano, scheduled tomorrow in New York, because of a severe ache in the muscles somewhere between the sixth and tenth ribs on his left side. The ailment is described as inter-costal neuritis and inter-costal myositis. The match has been rescheduled for September 26 in Yankee Stadium.

RELIEF PITCHER WINS WITHOUT PITCHING BALL

OAKLAND, Neb., July 23 (AP)—A relief pitcher won a baseball game without pitching a ball in a recent Oakland-Bancroft contest here.

The rare baseball occurrence happened this way: Howard Denton took the mound for Oakland in the eighth inning with two out, the bases loaded, and the score tied. As he wound up, the Bancroft third-base coach attempted a bluff by running down the base line.

The umpire called a third out on Bancroft because the coach, in his maneuver, left the coaching box. That retired the side. Oakland scored its winning run in the last half of the eighth and another hurler held Bancroft scoreless in the ninth.

Because Denton went into the box with the score tied and left it the last half of the inning with a one-run lead, he was listed as the winning pitcher—without throwing a ball.

Phils Sign Bob Hill

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP) — Signing of Bob Hill, 22, U. S. Naval Academy first baseman who resigned from the academy July 12, and the return from service of Shortstop Don Hansenmayer was announced today by General Manager Herb Pennock of the Philadelphia Phils.

Pennock said Hill, sought by several major league clubs, is a six-foot, 200-pound lefthander who was the Navy's heavyweight boxing titlist and considered a good end prospect for the football team. A native of Washington, D. C., Hill batted .360 on the Navy nine. Terms were not announced.

North End Trims East Siders, 10-7

Four-Run Rally in Sixth Wins Game; Four Tilts Listed Today

Bill Cumiskey's triple with two runners of the paths in the fifth inning featured a four-run uprising that enabled the North End Social and Athletic Club to defeat East Side in a City Softball League game yesterday at East Side field by the score of 10-7.

It was North End's second win over the East Siders in as many days as well as the second victory for Jack Wilhelm who relieved Allan Sheetz in the third after East Side had taken a 6-5 lead and yielded a single run in the last four frames.

The victory enabled North End to up its lead to one full game over Williams Street in the second half championship race.

George Rice with three bingles in four times at bat and Cumiskey with three for three headed the winners' 11-hit attack on "Chuck" Aman. Johnson and Aman accounted for half of East Side's eight hits.

North End will play the Legion today at Campobello, East Side will face Williams Street on the Rolling Mill diamond, the Maccabees will play hosts to Lacy's Delicatets at Community Park and the V.F.W. will tangle with Keegan's Jupers at East Side. Yesterday's score by innings:

ELMER "VIOLENT" RAY STOPS LARRY LANE IN FIRST ROUND

Babe Didrikson Sets Record Qualifying For All-American

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Mildred Didrikson Zaharias of Denver, Colo., outclassed a field of 57 contestants today and posted a course record shattering 6-under-par 70 in qualifying for the All-American golf tournament Thursday.

Texas-born "Babe" toured Tam O'Shanter's picturesque tournament course two strokes under the record set by Patty Berg, Minneapolis, in 1943. Her pair of 35's for the 6,395-yard distance for women was nine strokes better than runner-up Ann Casey of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Mason City, Ia.

Followed over the last three holes by the largest gallery of the day, Mrs. Zaharias passed up a $500 bonus for her record performance in order to retain her amateur standing.

Seven birdies for women's standards and three for the men's figures were posted on the Zaharias card.

Florida Heavy Records 44th Consecutive Win At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (AP) — Elmer (Violent) Ray chalked up his 41st kayo tonight, knocking out Larry Lane of Newark, N. J. in 2:35 of the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Zivic Arena. Lane weighed 199 and Ray 188.

Ray whose home is in Miami, Florida, but who is billed out of Minneapolis, recorded 44th consecutive win in downing Lane, one of three opponents who had stayed the limit with him in the past three years.

The Newark heavy managed to weather the first round with Ray giving a sample of what was to come with a straight left and a wild left hook that jarred Lane badly.

Lane took two counts of nine before finally going down from a right on the chin in the second stanza. A near-capacity crowd of 4,465 turned out for the bouts, postponed from last night.

In another fight, Ted Delorita, 151, East Liverpool, O., decisioned Pete Spotti, 152, Cecil, Pa. (6).

49,000 See Bosox Lose To Chicago At Comiskey Park

Rigney Twirls 5-Hitter And Stops Williams In 7 to 1 Triumph

CHICAGO, Ill., July 23 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, piling up five runs in the first inning, upset the Boston Red Sox 7 to 1 tonight before an estimated crowd of 49,000 in Comiskey Park.

The White Sox barrage knocked Bill Zuber out in the opening inning to settle the issue long before John Rigney could complete a five-hit performance in his first start since June 6. Rigney had been out with a sore arm.

Home-run king and league-leading batter Ted Williams went hitless. He was purposely passed—his 100th walk of the campaign—in the fourth, and lined out in the sixth and in the eighth innings.

The White Sox added two more runs in the seventh off Clem Dreisewerd. The Red Sox gained their only run of Rigney in the seventh on singles by York and Russell and Hal Wagner's long fly. Box:

REYNOLDS BLANKS A's

CLEVELAND, July 23 (AP)—Allie Reynolds notched his fourth straight victory tonight, allowing only three hits as the Cleveland Indians shut out the Philadelphia Athletics 2 to 0.

The Tribe right-hander hurled hitless ball for the first four innings, Pete Suder getting the first blow when he beat out a roller to deep short in the fifth.

The A's couldn't touch Reynolds again until the eighth when Pinch-Hitter Tuck Stainback lined a single. Sam Chapman singled in the ninth for the A's third hit.

The Indians collected their first run in the fourth on a double by Hank Edwards and a single by Heinz Becker. Reynolds drove in the other tally in the seventh after Ken Keltner singled and was sacrificed to second. Score:

Potomac Edison's seventh place team registered a stunning upset in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by defeating the Texcel Club by the score of 10-8 on the Fort Hill diamond. In two previous meetings Texcel won over P. E. by scores of 12-3 and 10-4.

A three-run rally in the seventh inning decided the game after the teams had been deadlocked at 7-7.

Homer Decides Game

"Rusty" Harrison's circuit smash following Frank Kohlhoff's single was the winning wallop. "Buck" Grimes' triple and Joe Buday's single gave P. E. an additional run.

"Buck" Grimes went the route for the winners and was aided by a fast double play in the fourth inning after Texcel had scored two runs and second and third base were occupied. Whitmore, third sacker, Kohlhoff, first baseman, and Catcher Allen engineered the dual killing.

Buday with a double and two singles in four trips and Grimes with a triple single led the P. E. batsmen while G. Miller hit a double and three-bagger for Texcel.

Caseys and Elks Win

The Knights of Columbus retained their two-game edge over the B. P. O. Elks by defeating the Woodmen of the World on the Rolling Mill field, 11 to 5.

"Bud" Scaletta notched win No. 9 against two losses, yielding nine hits, two of which were credited to "Benchie" Often. "Chick" Snider and Scaletta had two hits each for the Caseys. Dunlap, of the Woodmen, obtained the only extra base hit of the game — a double.

Staging a three-run rally in the fourth frame, the Elks remained right on the Caseys' heels by downing the Cumberland Outdoor Club at Taylor field, 6-2. In notching his tenth win of the season against four setbacks, Jimmie Wilkinson limited the Outdoor clubbers to four hits. Clifton Van Roby with two doubles and Pete Lear with two singles were the Elks' leading stickers.

Legion Beats Moose

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, took the Loyal Order of Moose into camp on Allegany high school field by the score of 6-2. The Legionnaires broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth and added three more tallies in the seventh featured by Bill Spangler's two-base wallop with two aboard. The scores:

APPELLATE COURT HOLDS DOPING RULE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 23 (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals today affirmed a Baltimore City Superior Court decision holding a Maryland Racing Commission rule on administering drugs to horses unconstitutional.

In its decision the court refused an appeal by the commission from a decree of Judge Edwin T. Dickerson, who ordered a trainer's license restored to J. Dallet Byers for privileges of race tracks under the commission's jurisdiction.

Byers' license was suspended after a hearing before the commission at which evidence was presented to show benzedrene was found in the saliva of the horse Cosey Nov. 14, 1945 at Pimlico.

New York To Stage Three Title Bouts In September

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP) —Middleweight Champion Tony Zale came up with a $300,000 ache in his ribs today that was so painful he had to postpone his title tussle with Rocky Graziano from this Thursday until September 26 in Yankee Stadium.

The ailment was variously described as inter-costal neuritis and inter-costal myositis, all of which translates to a severe ache in the muscles somewhere between the sixth and tenth ribs on the left side. With $200,000 already in the cash register and $300,000 or more expected by post time, it also was regarded by Promoter Mike Jacobs and the two principals as a pronounced pain in the pocketbook.

Three Bouts In 28 Days

The new date for the fancy fireworks that have been generally forecast for this middleweight thumping makes September just about the busiest month of nose-mashing the cauliflower ear industry has ever seen, with three title fights in the space of 28 days.

Reading from left to right, these are the welterweight walloping between Marty Servo and Ray Robinson Sept. 6, the heavyweight hammering in which Joe Louis will explain some of the simpler things of fistic life to Tami Mauriello Sept 18, and now the 160-pound punch-party. If a postponement is necessary in the welterweight tussle, it will be set back to September 27 the very night after Zale and Grizigano go to work.

Zale first noticed the pain last Saturday at his training camp in Pompton Lakes, but after applying heat pads he went to bed and slept it off, Sunday, while doing his bending exercises, it came back again, more sharply. His manager partnership, Sam Pian and Art Winch, called in their old friend, Dr. John O'Connell of Chicago, who was in New York, and he diagnosed it as inter-costal neuritis.

Party Is Called Off

Since it's the kind of an ailment that might go away in 48 hours, or hang around for six weeks, Pian and Winch, after notifying Jacobs, decided to wait until this morning to make up their minds officially about calling Thursday's party off. When Tony was no better at daybreak the fight was scratched. Tony will head home to Gary, Ind., and probably spend a few days in a hospital.

HIS RIBS ACHE — Tony Zale, middleweight champion of the world, yesterday was forced to postpone his match with Rocky Graziano, scheduled tomorrow in New York, because of a severe ache in the muscles somewhere between the sixth and tenth ribs on his left side. The ailment is described as inter-costal neuritis and inter-costal myositis. The match has been rescheduled for September 26 in Yankee Stadium.

RELIEF PITCHER WINS WITHOUT PITCHING BALL

OAKLAND, Neb., July 23 (AP)—A relief pitcher won a baseball game without pitching a ball in a recent Oakland-Bancroft contest here.

The rare baseball occurrence happened this way: Howard Denton took the mound for Oakland in the eighth inning with two out, the bases loaded, and the score tied. As he wound up, the Bancroft third-base coach attempted a bluff by running down the base line.

The umpire called a third out on Bancroft because the coach, in his maneuver, left the coaching box. That retired the side. Oakland scored its winning run in the last half of the eighth and another hurler held Bancroft scoreless in the ninth.

Because Denton went into the box with the score tied and left it the last half of the inning with a one-run lead, he was listed as the winning pitcher—without throwing a ball.

Phils Sign Bob Hill

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP) — Signing of Bob Hill, 22, U. S. Naval Academy first baseman who resigned from the academy July 12, and the return from service of Shortstop Don Hansenmayer was announced today by General Manager Herb Pennock of the Philadelphia Phils.

Pennock said Hill, sought by several major league clubs, is a six-foot, 200-pound lefthander who was the Navy's heavyweight boxing titlist and considered a good end prospect for the football team. A native of Washington, D. C., Hill batted .360 on the Navy nine. Terms were not announced.

North End Trims East Siders, 10-7

Four-Run Rally in Sixth Wins Game; Four Tilts Listed Today

Bill Cumiskey's triple with two runners of the paths in the fifth inning featured a four-run uprising that enabled the North End Social and Athletic Club to defeat East Side in a City Softball League game yesterday at East Side field by the score of 10-7.

It was North End's second win over the East Siders in as many days as well as the second victory for Jack Wilhelm who relieved Allan Sheetz in the third after East Side had taken a 6-5 lead and yielded a single run in the last four frames.

The victory enabled North End to up its lead to one full game over Williams Street in the second half championship race.

George Rice with three bingles in four times at bat and Cumiskey with three for three headed the winners' 11-hit attack on "Chuck" Aman. Johnson and Aman accounted for half of East Side's eight hits.

North End will play the Legion today at Campobello, East Side will face Williams Street on the Rolling Mill diamond, the Maccabees will play hosts to Lacy's Delicatets at Community Park and the V.F.W. will tangle with Keegan's Jupers at East Side. Yesterday's score by innings:

Babe Didrikson Sets Record Qualifying For All-American

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Mildred Didrikson Zaharias of Denver, Colo., outclassed a field of 57 contestants today and posted a course record shattering 6-under-par 70 in qualifying for the All-American golf tournament Thursday.

Texas-born "Babe" toured Tam O'Shanter's picturesque tournament course two strokes under the record set by Patty Berg, Minneapolis, in 1943. Her pair of 35's for the 6,395-yard distance for women was nine strokes better than runner-up Ann Casey of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Mason City, Ia.

Seven birdies for women's standards and three for the men's figures were posted on the Zaharias card.

Florida Heavy Records 44th Consecutive Win At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (AP) — Elmer (Violent) Ray chalked up his 41st kayo tonight, knocking out Larry Lane of Newark, N. J. in 2:35 of the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Civic Arena. Lane weighed 199 and Ray 188.

Ray whose home is in Miami, Florida, but who is billed out of Minneapolis, recorded 44th consecutive win in downing Lane, one of three opponents who had stayed the limit with him in the past three years.

The Newark heavy managed to weather the first round with Ray giving a sample of what was to come with a straight left and a wild left hook that jarred Lane badly.

Lane took two counts of nine before finally going down from a right on the chin in the second stanza. A near-capacity crowd of 4,465 turned out for the bouts, postponed from last night.

In another fight, Ted Delorita, 151, East Liverpool, O., decisioned Pete Spotti, 152, Cecil, Pa. (6).

Three Kitzmiller Men Are Indicted By Mineral Jury

Craver, Paugh, Shaffer Arrested After Theft At Blaine VFW Club

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., July 23—Woodrow Craver, Clarence Paugh and Ward Shaffer, Kitzmiller, Md., men arrested in connection with the theft of $1,000 from the Veterans of Foreign Wars club at Blaine last month, were indicted on felony charges today by the Mineral county grand jury.

State police reported that Craver, who denies implication in the theft case, led them to a spot on a hillside near Blaine where some $400 in checks, identified as those stolen from the club, were found secreted in a metal box.

Craver said that he and his companions had hidden both the cash and the checks there following their discovery of the loot in a car after the theft occurred, according to state police.

A felony indictment was returned by the grand jury against James Wilkinson, about 65, charged with the shooting of a 15-year-old boy, Howard Bosley, in May. The Bosley boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bosley, Limestone road, suffered a gunshot wound in the right hip.

Other Indictments Returned

The Mineral county circuit court convened at 10 a. m. today, with Judge Ernest A. See presiding. The grand jurors were sworn and went into session after receiving instructions from the court. Seventeen witnesses were examined by Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney. Other indictments returned by the grand jury were:

Virgil R. Evans, felony on forgery charge; Jesse Andrew George, felony, on charge of theft of $37 from Mrs. Marvin Cannon; Charles King, felony, charged with illegal handling of whiskey; Richard Lee Owen, three felony counts and six misdemeanor counts on theft charge; Jesse George, Harry George and Louise Parish, misdemeanor, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor; Bernice Hildreth, misdemeanor, charged with interfering with an officer while in line of duty; L. W. Hamilton, misdemeanor, resisting an officer; Ray Whitacre, misdemeanor, non-support charge; Foster Warnick, two felony counts, charged with theft of typewriter and other items from Piedmont high school.

Admitted To Practice

On motion of his father, H. G. Shores, Howard Shores, was formally admitted to practice before the Mineral county circuit court. Shores is associated with his father in the practice of law.

He received his legal training at West Virginia university, graduating in 1942. Following his graduation he enlisted in the navy and served until May 31, 1946. He attained the rank of lieutenant. Through 1942 and half of 1943 he served in the Atlantic area and then for a year and a half he served in the Pacific area. After returning to the states late in 1945 he was stationed in Washington until his discharge May 31.

In the case of May Walker vs. Clyde Walker in which Clyde Walker was cited for contempt of court in not obeying a former court order, Judge See, who acted as attorney in the case before his ascendancy to the bench, was disqualified to hear the complaint. Harry R. Taylor was elected as special judge to hear and determine the issue. His decision has not been made.

A meeting of the Mineral County Bar Association was called for 10 a. m. Wednesday, at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Following the election, the docket for the present term of court will be set.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — A Baltimore professional and two from Washington qualified today for the National P.G.A. golf championship at Portland, Ore.

In the Mid-Atlantic P.G.A. qualifier, reduced from 36 to 18 holes because of a morning rain, Andy Gibson of the Baltimore Country Club of Maryland paced a field of 16 with a sub-par 34-33—67 on the Prince Georges Country Club Course.

Two strokes behind the medalist was Cliff Spencer of Washington East Potomac with 34-35—69.

George Diffbaugh of the Washington Kenwood Club won the third qualifying position in a three-way sudden death playoff with Al Jamison of Quantico, Va., and Walter Romans of the Baltimore Country Club.

All three finished the 18 holes tied at 72. They all birdied the first playoff hole, but Romans dropped out on the fourth when both Diffbaugh and Jamison shot birdies. Diffbaugh won the match on the sixth hole with his third birdie.

Three pros from the Mid-Atlantic area had qualified automatically for the National P.G.A. because of their scores in the National Open. They are Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lew Worsham of Washington.

kindness and that it puts its dollars before humanity."

"One of the first places to start selling our economic leadership in a fundamental way," Smith told his audience, "is to clear up this misconception of profits."

Must Build Good Will

Smith said, "unless we can develop and build up good will, we can hope for nothing but bureaucratic control," as he urged the membership "to exercise and utilize every device within our power to convince the public that we have an honest and human interest in conducting business in the interest of the common man."

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Smith explained, is stressing need for greater interest in education. Teachers' salaries are too low and "we pay too little attention to what is being taught in our schools."

Public health is of vital importance to the nation, Smith said, and the chamber has been prone to complain about public institutions, the inefficiences and shortcomings of governmental units and but "few of us give any time, to politics or public affairs."

"Our community needs many improvements," the secretary continued, "and these improvements cost money and we can't do more than our financial position will permit. There are however, many things that can be done by the citizens themselves that will make Cumberland more attractive to business and industry."

"In order to see what the membership is thinking about in the way of civic improvements and our chamber progress," Smith explained that questionnaires were sent to all members. "Returns were disappointing," he continued, "only 10 per cent replied. However, returns did represent fairly well what the membership thinks the community needs. He listed the following in the order of their choice and importance as submitted.

Results Of Questionnaires

1—Improvement in the handling and direction of city traffic.

2—Flood control.

3—Increased efforts to bring more industries to Cumberland.

4—A program of city beautification.

5—Construction of the proposed overhead bridge.

6—Encourage and develop plans for more adequate housing.

7—Reorganize the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

8—Make every effort to develop interest in the city manager form of government.

9—Control smoke nuisances.

10—Promote the completion of the Savage River Dam.

Will Study Information

This information Smith said will be given careful consideration by the board of directors in their plans for the new year.

Summing up his remarks the secretary set forth the following objectives for the organization:

1 "We must make every effort to acquaint the public with the Chamber of Commerce and its objectives and program."

2 "We must unite in developing a feeling of confidence in our industrial and commercial leadership, and the type of economy under which we are now living".

3 "Our program should embrace subjects in which our own membership is interested".

4 "Whatever we undertake to accomplish, should always be with a view to its value to the community as a whole and not any particular segment of it".

Roy W. Eves, president of the chamber, presided at the meeting and complimented Smith on his message to the chamber membership and the annual report of activities which was distributed in printed form.

Frank H. Ankeny, treasurer submitted the annual financial report, showing the chamber in good financial standing.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

By JACK WELCH

Bass Are Non-Conformists

ALL FISH are more or less temperamental, but the large-mouth bass may safely be numbered among the top ten of the species of game fish that are likely to ignore rules and regulations and do just what you don't expect them to do. My dad used to insist that you couldn't catch bass unless "just a nice riffle" was stirring the water, and he would no more go out after large-mouths with an east or northeast wind blowing than he'd expect to pick wild strawberries in February.

Jack Welch

However, if you're persistent you may hook a bass under northeast wind conditions, when the weather is rather cold and generally disagreeable, and as many bass fishermen, particularly fly fishermen, know, the Huro Salmoides will sometimes strike when the surface of the water is placid as plate glass.

A few years ago I related an experience I had with large-mouths about noontime of a summer day, when there was no hint of breeze and the sun broiled down with the searing heat of an electric furnace. A few days ago, on a different lake but under similar conditions, I repeated my previous performance of taking some nice bass from surface waters right out in the middle of the lake, where no bass had any business being.

None of them were whoppers, I'll admit, but taking any bass at all in such a setting is newsworthy.

The explanation of this extraordinary bass behavior, I believe, is that after a period of comparative lassitude in the cool depths during a stretch of hot weather the fish rise in search of surface minnows. If they're successful in their quest they feed voraciously, gobbling up as many little fish as they can until their appetites are satiated, then back to the depths again. That's only one man's opinion, of course, though I believe some such theory was advanced by Robert Page Lincoln a couple of years ago.

Anyway, if conditions are just right and you notice a constant swirling and other activity out on the lake, try shooting a plug or fly into the center of the commotion and likely as not you'll get a bass strike. You have to keep in motion, since the school progresses as it feeds and as it drives the minnows before it. Croppies stage similar exhibitions at times, but their demonstrations usually occur late in the afternoon or during the evening. Peculiar feature of the bass phenomenon is that large-mouths aren't primarily school fish, while croppies are.

Aussie Tennis Stars Asked Not To Make Statements To Press

SYDNEY, July 23 (AP)—The New South Wales Lawn Tennis Association has decided to ask tennis players Dinny Pails and Geoff Brown not to make any further statements to the press while abroad.

The decision followed brief comment on a criticism made by Pails of the umpiring at Wimbledon. It also was decided to ask the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia to investigate the possibility of Australia being admitted to competition for the Wightman cup, a U. S. Englishmen's event, and also to consider the question of inviting an American women's team to Australia as soon as practicable.

Tennis Playing Mackens Remain In Running

OTTAWA, July 23 (AP) — The Montreal trio of tennis-playing Mackens—Brendan, Jimmy and sister Pat—are still in the running after three rounds of singles play in the Canadian tennis championships.

Brendan, a Canadian Davis cupper and fourth-seeded domestic player here, Jimmy, sixth-seeded, and Pat, rated fourth among the women, all play for William and Mary college of Williamsburg, Va., in United States intercollegiate competition.

In opening rounds yesterday, all had first-round byes and went on to dispose in relatively easy fashion of two opponents apiece. Rain-drenched courts kept them out of further singles play today but the two brothers may get into double action together later in the afternoon.

Hubert Remains Silent

LEXINGTON, Va., July 23 (AP)—Head Coach Allison (Poley) Hubert of Virginia Military Institute said today he had no comment to make regarding a statement made at an NCAA meeting in Chicago yesterday by Colonel William Couper, of VMI, that the transfer of five Keydet football prospects to the naval academy was all "cut and dried."

"I guess Colonel Couper is making all the comments," said Hubert, VMI head coach for the last decade.

Couper said in Chicago that he saw "no reason for bringing the matter up" before the NCAA meeting.

Athletic Commercialism Attacked By Conferences

Representatives of 200 Colleges Agree That Athlete - Shopping Is Near Dangerous Stage.

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Twenty of the nation's college conferences today threw a haymaker at campus athletic commercialism, recommending sharp restrictions on financial aid and recruiting of athletes, but it remained to be seen whether it would hit the mark.

Representatives of more than 200 universities and colleges, unanimously agreeing that athlete-shopping was reaching a dangerous stage, proposed to the national collegiate athletic association council:

1. That "athletes should not be paid by direct or indirect means because of athletic abilities."

2. That athletic officials should not beat the bushes for prospective college stars.

The joker in the apparent "love-feast" was that the recommendations had to be approved by the individual membership of the N. C. A. A.

If individual conferences, some of which frankly dole financial aid to athletes because they are good halfbacks or basketball centers, fail to see eye-to-eye with the new principles the collegiate realm may be divided into two camps.

Karl Leib, Iowa's Western Conference faculty representative and chairman of the meeting, predicted that such a "cleavage" would produce sanctions by "amateur-minded" schools, principally through playing schedule boycotts.

Asa S. Bushnell, commissioner of the Ivy League and a "press" spokesman for the group, said all conferences represented appeared "receptive" to the proposals, including the Southeastern which in the past formally has made some financial allowances to athletes.

"There was an entirely new attitude on the part of all the delegates towards these growing problems," Bushnell declared.

"The colleges and the NCAA recognize the fact that a vital decision has to be made—whether college athletics will be strictly amateur, or not strictly amateur."

The NCAA, Leib explained, will sound out its membership for any "reservations, additions or alterations" to the recommendations for study at its next convention in New York, Jan. 2-8, when the possibility of sanctions will be discussed.

Three Kitzmiller Men Are Indicted By Mineral Jury

Craver, Paugh, Shaffer Arrested After Theft At Blaine VFW Club

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., July 23—Woodrow Craver, Clarence Paugh and Ward Shaffer, Kitzmiller, Md., men arrested in connection with the theft of $1,000 from the Veterans of Foreign Wars club at Blaine last month, were indicted on felony charges today by the Mineral county grand jury.

State police reported that Craver, who denies implication in the theft case, led them to a spot on a hillside near Blaine where some $400 in checks, identified as those stolen from the club, were found secreted in a metal box.

Craver said that he and his companions had hidden both the cash and the checks there following their discovery of the loot in a car after the theft occurred, according to state police.

A felony indictment was returned by the grand jury against James Wilkinson, about 65, charged with the shooting of a 15-year-old boy, Howard Bosley, in May. The Bosley boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bosley, Limestone road, suffered a gunshot wound in the right hip.

Other Indictments Returned

The Mineral county circuit court convened at 10 a. m. today, with Judge Ernest A. See presiding. The grand jurors were sworn and went into session after receiving instructions from the court. Seventeen witnesses were examined by Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney. Other indictments returned by the grand jury were:

Virgil R. Evans, felony on forgery charge; Jesse Andrew George, felony, on charge of theft of $37 from Mrs. Marvin Cannon; Charles King, felony, charged with illegal handling of whiskey; Richard Lee Owen, three felony counts and six misdemeanor counts on theft charge; Jesse George, Harry George and Louise Parish, misdemeanor, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor; Bernice Hildreth, misdemeanor, charged with interfering with an officer while in line of duty; L. W. Hamilton, misdemeanor, resisting an officer; Ray Whitacre, misdemeanor, non-support charge; Foster Warnick, two felony counts, charged with theft of typewriter and other items from Piedmont high school.

Admitted To Practice

On motion of his father, H. G. Shores, Howard Shores, was formally admitted to practice before the Mineral county circuit court. Shores is associated with his father in the practice of law.

He received his legal training at West Virginia university, graduating in 1942. Following his graduation he enlisted in the navy and served until May 31, 1946. He attained the rank of lieutenant. Through 1942 and half of 1943 he served in the Atlantic area and then for a year and a half he served in the Pacific area. After returning to the states late in 1945 he was stationed in Washington until his discharge May 31.

In the case of May Walker vs. Clyde Walker in which Clyde Walker was cited for contempt of court in not obeying a former court order, Judge See, who acted as attorney in the case before his ascendancy to the bench, was disqualified to hear the complaint. Harry R. Taylor was elected as special judge to hear and determine the issue. His decision has not been made.

A meeting of the Mineral County Bar Association was called for 10 a. m. Wednesday, at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Following the election, the docket for the present term of court will be set.

Gibson Qualifies For PGA Tourney With Sub-Par 67

Two Washington Golfers Earn Right To Play At Portland, Ore.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — A Baltimore professional and two from Washington qualified today for the National P.G.A. golf championship at Portland, Ore.

In the Mid-Atlantic P.G.A. qualifier, reduced from 36 to 18 holes because of a morning rain, Andy Gibson of the Baltimore Country Club of Maryland paced a field of 16 with a sub-par 34-33—67 on the Prince Georges Country Club Course.

Two strokes behind the medalist was Cliff Spencer of Washington East Potomac with 34-35—69.

George Diffbaugh of the Washington Kenwood Club won the third qualifying position in a three-way sudden death playoff with Al Jamison of Quantico, Va., and Walter Romans of the Baltimore Country Club.

All three finished the 18 holes tied at 72. They all birdied the first playoff hole, but Romans dropped out on the fourth when both Diffbaugh and Jamison shot birdies. Diffbaugh won the match on the sixth hole with his third birdie.

Three pros from the Mid-Atlantic area had qualified automatically for the National P.G.A. because of their scores in the National Open. They are Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lew Worsham of Washington.

The scores in today's 18-hold qualifier:

Andy Gibson, Baltimore 34-33—67

kindness and that it puts its dollars before humanity."

Must Build Good Will

Smith said, "unless we can develop and build up good will, we can hope for nothing but bureaucratic control," as he urged the membership "to exercise and utilize every device within our power to convince the public that we have an honest and human interest in conducting business in the interest of the common man."

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Smith explained, is stressing need for greater interest in education. Teachers' salaries are too low and "we pay too little attention to what is being taught in our schools."

Public health is of vital importance to the nation, Smith said, and the chamber has been prone to complain about public institutions, the inefficiences and shortcomings of governmental units and but "few of us give any time, to politics or public affairs."

"Our community needs many improvements," the secretary continued, "and these improvements cost money and we can't do more than our financial position will permit. There are however, many things that can be done by the citizens themselves that will make Cumberland more attractive to business and industry."

"In order to see what the membership is thinking about in the way of civic improvements and our chamber progress," Smith explained that questionnaires were sent to all members. "Returns were disappointing," he continued, "only 10 per cent replied. However, returns did represent fairly well what the membership thinks the community needs. He listed the following in the order of their choice and importance as submitted.

Results Of Questionnaires

1—Improvement in the handling and direction of city traffic.

2—Flood control.

3—Increased efforts to bring more industries to Cumberland.

4—A program of city beautification.

5—Construction of the proposed overhead bridge.

6—Encourage and develop plans for more adequate housing.

7—Reorganize the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

8—Make every effort to develop interest in the city manager form of government.

9—Control smoke nuisances.

10—Promote the completion of the Savage River Dam.

Will Study Information

This information Smith said will be given careful consideration by the board of directors in their plans for the new year.

Summing up his remarks the secretary set forth the following objectives for the organization:

1 "We must make every effort to acquaint the public with the Chamber of Commerce and its objectives and program."

2 "We must unite in developing a feeling of confidence in our industrial and commercial leadership, and the type of economy under which we are now living".

3 "Our program should embrace subjects in which our own membership is interested".

4 "Whatever we undertake to accomplish, should always be with a view to its value to the community as a whole and not any particular segment of it".

Roy W. Eves, president of the chamber, presided at the meeting and complimented Smith on his message to the chamber membership and the annual report of activities which was distributed in printed form.

Frank H. Ankeny, treasurer submitted the annual financial report, showing the chamber in good financial standing.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

Bass Are Non-Conformists

ALL FISH are more or less temperamental, but the large-mouth bass may safely be numbered among the top ten of the species of game fish that are likely to ignore rules and regulations and do just what you don't expect them to do. My dad used to insist that you couldn't catch bass unless "just a nice riffle" was stirring the water, and he would no more go out after large-mouths with an east or northeast wind blowing than he'd expect to pick wild strawberries in February.

Jack Welch

However, if you're persistent you may hook a bass under northeast wind conditions, when the weather is rather cold and generally disagreeable, and as many bass fishermen, particularly fly fishermen, know, the Huro Salmoides will sometimes strike when the surface of the water is placid as plate glass.

A few years ago I related an experience I had with large-mouths about noontime of a summer day, when there was no hint of breeze and the sun broiled down with the searing heat of an electric furnace. A few days ago, on a different lake but under similar conditions, I repeated my previous performance of taking some nice bass from surface waters right out in the middle of the lake, where no bass had any business being.

None of them were whoppers, I'll admit, but taking any bass at all in such a setting is newsworthy.

The explanation of this extraordinary bass behavior, I believe, is that after a period of comparative lassitude in the cool depths during a stretch of hot weather the fish rise in search of surface minnows. If they're successful in their quest they feed voraciously, gobbling up as many little fish as they can until their appetites are satiated, then back to the depths again. That's only one man's opinion, of course, though I believe some such theory was advanced by Robert Page Lincoln a couple of years ago.

Anyway, if conditions are just right and you notice a constant swirling and other activity out on the lake, try shooting a plug or fly into the center of the commotion and likely as not you'll get a bass strike. You have to keep in motion, since the school progresses as it feeds and as it drives the minnows before it. Croppies stage similar exhibitions at times, but their demonstrations usually occur late in the afternoon or during the evening. Peculiar feature of the bass phenomenon is that large-mouths aren't primarily school fish, while croppies are.

Aussie Tennis Stars Asked Not To Make Statements To Press

SYDNEY, July 23 (AP)—The New South Wales Lawn Tennis Association has decided to ask tennis players Dinny Pails and Geoff Brown not to make any further statements to the press while abroad.

The decision followed brief comment on a criticism made by Pails on the umpiring at Wimbledon. It also was decided to ask the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia to investigate the possibility of Australia being admitted to competition for the Wightman cup, a U. S. Englishmen's event, and also to consider the question of inviting an American women's team to Australia as soon as practicable.

Tennis Playing Mackens Remain In Running

OTTAWA, July 23 (AP) — The Montreal trio of tennis-playing Mackens—Brendan, Jimmy and sister Pat—are still in the running after three rounds of singles play in the Canadian tennis championships.

Brendan, a Canadian Davis cupper and fourth-seeded domestic player here, Jimmy, sixth-seeded, and Pat, rated fourth among the women, all play for William and Mary college of Williamsburg, Va., in United States intercollegiate competition.

In opening rounds yesterday, all had first-round byes and went on to dispose in relatively easy fashion of two opponents apiece. Raindrenched courts kept them out of further singles play today but the two brothers may get into double action together later in the afternoon.

Hubert Remains Silent

LEXINGTON, Va., July 23 (AP)—Head Coach Allison (Poley) Hubert of Virginia Military Institute said today he had no comment to make regarding a statement made at an NCAA meeting in Chicago yesterday by Colonel William Couper, of VMI, that the transfer of five Keydet football prospects to the naval academy was all "cut and dried."

"I guess Colonel Couper is making all the comments," said Hubert, VMI head coach for the last decade.

Couper said in Chicago that he saw "no reason for bringing the matter up" before the NCAA meeting.

Athletic Commercialism Attacked By Conferences

Representatives of 200 Colleges Agree That Athlete - Shopping Is Near Dangerous Stage.

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Twenty of the nation's college conferences today threw a haymaker at campus athletic commercialism, recommending sharp restrictions on financial aid and recruiting of athletes, but it remained to be seen whether it would hit the mark.

Representatives of more than 200 universities and colleges, unanimously agreeing that athlete-shopping was reaching a dangerous stage, proposed to the national collegiate athletic association council:

1. That "athletes should not be paid by direct or indirect means because of athletic abilities."

2. That athletic officials should not beat the bushes for prospective college stars.

The joker in the apparent "love-feast" was that the recommendations had to be approved by the individual membership of the N. C. A. A.

If individual conferences, some of which frankly dole financial aid to athletes because they are good halfbacks or basketball centers, fail to see eye-to-eye with the new principles the collegiate realm may be divided into two camps.

Karl Leib, Iowa's Western Conference faculty representative and chairman of the meeting, predicted that such a "cleavage" would produce sanctions by "amateur-minded" schools, principally through playing schedule boycotts.

Asa S. Bushnell, commissioner of the Ivy League and a "press" spokesman for the group, said all conferences represented appeared "receptive" to the proposals, including the Southeastern which in the past formally has made some financial allowances to athletes.

"There was an entirely new attitude on the part of all the delegates towards these growing problems," Bushnell declared.

"The colleges and the NCAA recognize the fact that a vital decision has to be made—whether college athletics will be strictly amateur, or not strictly amateur."

The NCAA, Leib explained, will sound out its membership for any "reservations, additions or alterations" to the recommendations for study at its next convention in New York, Jan. 2-8, when the possibility of sanctions will be discussed.

Heavy Rains Flood New Racing Plant

Shoes, Stockings Removed By Fans; Lanlast Cops Feature Event

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 23 (AP)—Lanlast, a New Jersey-bred son of Catlan and Last Light, belonging to W. W. Vaughan of Red Bank, N. J., earned a hard decision over Blue Stone Stable's Machina in the $4,000 Peacock Purse, which attracted seven high class platers to the six furlongs starting point today at Atlantic City Race Track.

The new $3,500,000 racing plant received a rain test on the second day of the inaugural meeting. Heavy downpours began around noon and there was rain at intervals throughout the afternoon. Shoes and stockings were removed by many for the walk from parking lots to the stands. There was about three feet of water in the walking ring, adjacent to the paddock. The infield lakes were about to overflow and water was up to the lower numbers on the approximate odds board.

The races went on time, however, and there were approximately 9,500 fans present.

Lanlast splashed over the muddy race track in 1:14 2-5 to win the Peacock Purse. His victory was popular and he paid $5.80.

"Red" Howell was atop Lanlast.

Baird was suspended to Aug. 1 for rough riding in the seventh race at Monmouth Park last Saturday and for the same offense on the same date in the sixth race Jockey Jimmy Stout was fined $100. The jockey's agent to be reinstated was George Belzer, of Miami, Fla.

Heavy Rains Flood New Racing Plant

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 23 (AP)—Lanlast, a New Jersey-bred son of Catlan and Last Light, belonging to W. W. Vaughan of Red Bank, N. J., earned a hard decision over Blue Stone Stable's Machina in the $4,000 Peacock Purse, which attracted seven high class platers to the six furlongs starting point today at Atlantic City Race Track.

The new $3,500,000 racing plant received a rain test on the second day of the inaugural meeting. Heavy downpours began around noon and there was rain at intervals throughout the afternoon. Shoes and stockings were removed by many for the walk from parking lots to the stands. There was about three feet of water in the walking ring, adjacent to the paddock. The infield lakes were about to overflow and water was up to the lower numbers on the approximate odds board.

The races went on time, however, and there were approximately 9,500 fans present.

Lanlast splashed over the muddy race track in 1:14 2-5 to win the Peacock Purse. His victory was popular and he paid $5.80.

"Red" Howell was atop Lanlast.

Race Solons Revoke License of Trainer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24 (AP) — The New Jersey Racing Commission Tuesday took action against an owner-trainer, suspended a jockey and fined one and reinstated a jockey agent. The owner-trainer to have his license revoked was J. Tilton of Trenton, N. J., for violation of Rues 326 and 577. Apprentice R. L. Baird was suspended to Aug. 1 for rough riding in the seventh race at Monmouth Park last Saturday and for the same offense on the same date in the sixth race Jockey Jimmy Stout was fined $100. The jockey's agent to be reinstated was George Belzer, of Miami, Fla.

Second Atom Test Will Be Radioed From Bikini

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 23—Coming up is the second broadcast from Bikini of an atom bomb test, this one 18 feet below the surface of the sea. Pending developments it is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, but subject to change due to weather or other conditions.

This test is not to have so much time on the air as the first one, according to arrangements. There is to be one pool broadcast of around 15 minutes, that probably to come about 4:30 p. m. Any other broadcasts will be up to the individual networks, to be fitted into the schedule as they see fit. Thus some announced programs may be subject to change.

Just about the last of the summer replacements makes its appearance on the Wednesday network schedule. It takes over on CBS from Bob Crosby, and is to be an adventure drama series at 8:30 under the title of "Intrigue." The started is "Rogue Male," story of a manhunt in Hitler's days.

Kay Kyser, getting ready for a vacation from his NBC music-quiz hour at 9, is to introduce Art Linkletter of People Are Funny as the substitute "prof."

Hildegarde is departing from her NBC series at 7:30, her sponsor dropping out. No announcement yet as to her future radio plans.

According to the ABC schedule, the F. H. LaGuardia commentary at 7:15 is to come from Rome . . . Henry J. Taylor as an author of the book "Men and Power" is to go into Author Meets the Critics on MBS at 9:30.

Nylons Outrank Persian Lamb Coat

Recovery of a stolen Persian lamb coat, a $25 pair of shoes and several suits and dresses failed to appease Louise Kingsley, 25, of New York, whose apartment had been robbed while she was in Florida.

"I don't care about those other things," she exclaimed to the police. "I want those four pairs of nylon stockings back and I intend to get them!"

Small Airplane Crashes Into Deep Creek Lake

Volunteers Will Drag Lake Today For Pilot's Body; Craft Recovered

Single-Engine Ship, En-Route To Dayton, Ohio, Sinks Immediately After Hitting Wire

OAKLAND, July 23 — A single-engine Ercoupe plane, one of three being ferried from Riverdale, Md., to Dayton, O., hit a high-tension wire near here tonight and sank in Deep Creek lake, Neil C. Fraley, state's attorney of Garrett county, reported.

Cpl. Charles A. Disney of the state police reported that the plane was raised and towed to shore at about 11 p. m., but that the pilot's body has not yet been recovered. He said that plans are being made to drag the lake tomorrow (Wednesday) morning.

The pilot of the plane was identified by his companions as Ray L. Ruffi, Dayton, O. The other two pilots, B. S. Carnes and Herschel Reed, Riverdale, circled the scene of the crash, near Beckman's peninsula above the Glendale bridge, for several minutes but failed to find any trace of Ruffi's plane, which eyewitnesses said sank immediately.

On Routine Delivery Flight

Carnes and Reed landed at the Morgantown, W Va., Municipal airport, where they organized a searching party and returned to Oakland by automobile with Lee Renick, airport manager.

James R. Myers, assistant regional manager of the American Flyaway Service in the Washington office, said the planes were sent out by the firm on routine delivery flights about 5 p. m.

Oakland residents reported that lights went out in the city at about 7 p. m. when the plane struck the line of the Western Maryland Power Company, Fraley said. He added that the power line was suspended at an approximate height of 75 feet above the lake.

Approximately two hours after the crash, summer residents in motorboats and other craft, using grappling hooks and rope, located the plane in about 30 feet of water. An army amphibious "duck" kept at Cabin lodge for exhibition and passenger purposes, was taken to the scene of the crash, and efforts were made to attach the steel cable at the rear of the machine to the plane to haul it out of the water.

Frederick "Buck" Dreyer left Cumberland shortly before 11 p. m. to aid in efforts to raise the plane.

Plane Reported Flying Low

Robert Keener, Uniontown, Pa., whose father owns a summer cottage at the lake, was out in his motorboat with Marshall Harvey at the time of the crash, and reported that the three planes "buzzed" their boat.

When he saw Ruffi's plane go down into the lake, Keener reported the accident to Edwin Fry, proprietor of Cabin lodge, who called the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and supplied stretchers and inhalators, as well as other rescue equipment furnished by Dreyer.

State troopers who went to the scene of the crash were Lt. Charles W. Magaha, Cpls. Disney and Thomas Currie, and Troopers Harry Holsinger and Blair Buckle.

War II Memorial To Be Dedicated Here In August

Ceremony Will Be Conducted During American Legion Convention

Already placed on its base, a 155 mm. howitzer gun, will be officially dedicated as a war memorial sometime during the American Legion convention in Cumberland next month, Russell C. Paupe, adjutant of Fort Cumberland Post advised the board of county commissioners yesterday.

Aug. 15 Tentative Date

Paupe said the dedication ceremony will probably be held August 15, but the date awaits the approval of the program committee. The huge weapon, a relic of World War 1, was obtained through the efforts of Rep. J. Glenn Beall, from the army ordinance depot, Anniston, Ala., after the suggestion was offered by Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson. It will replace the relic donated to the scrap heap drive during World War II.

Commissioner Wilkinson said yesterday that members of the VFW, AMVETS, and other service organizations will be invited to participate in the ceremony.

The offer of William L. Sherman to purchase 18 lots at $5,000 from the county commissioners was deferred. The commissioners explained that Walter A. Johnston, county auditor, has been in the hospital and was unable to check the value of the lots.

An investigation is being made by the engineering department to determine if the Reynolds station bridge near Barton needs strengthening, Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the state roads commission advised.

Seeks Road Repair

F. J. Flesher asked for repairs to the road at Oaklawn and Fourth street in LaVale, and County Engineer John H. Carscaden was instructed to investigate. Pipe is needed for drainage, Flesher said, and the road should be scraped for a distance of 200 feet.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state health officer, advised the board that Miss Marion Weber supervising county nurse, has retired effective July 22, and her name should be removed from the payroll. He praised her for efficient service.

R. L. Robyler, manager of the Art Glass Company, Cresap Park submitted a bid of $50 to repair three windows on the south side of the court house and a bid of $150 to repair 12 windows and three transoms in the building. No action was taken on the bids.

WIFE WHOM MATE WOUNDED ASKS HIS RELEASE FROM JAIL

The wife of Samuel J. Branson, 40, whom he allegedly shot July 3 on a South End street, joined him yesterday in filing a writ of habeas corpus in circuit court charging that he is being "illegally detained" in the county jail.

The petition, filed by Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Branson and his wife, is indicated to be a request for a reduction of the $5,000 bond on which the defendant is being held.

Branson, charged with assault with intent to kill, was arrested July 3 a short time after he reportedly wounded his wife in the abdomen with a .38 caliber revolver. He is now being held in the county jail for action of the October grand jury.

The couple, former residents of Cumberland, had been employed in Baltimore, and police said Branson followed his wife to this city because he believed she came here to see her first husband, Frank McBee.

Mrs. Branson was discharged from Memorial hospital July 17 after recovering from the abdominal wound. Chief Judge William A. Huster said a hearing will be held July 29 in circuit court.

White Asks Divorce; Says Wife Hit Him

Charging that his wife has struck him on numerous occasions and treated him with great cruelty, Hansford B. White, this city, filed suit yesterday in circuit court for an absolute divorce from Feretta C. White, said to reside in West Virginia.

In the bill of complaint, White stated they were married September 24, 1933, and lived together until May 1945. Four children were born to the marriage.

White charged that in addition to striking him, his wife swore at him, and caused him to fear for his life. Edward J. Ryan is counsel for the plaintiff.

Pauline Owings, 25, 114 Frederick street, was granted an absolute divorce from George E. Owings in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster. She is also awarded the custody of two minor children.

Edward J. Ryan, counsel for the complainant said they were married October 31, 1940 in Frederick and lived together until January 1944. Mrs. Owings said her husband drank excessively and failed to contribute to the support of the children.

Robert MacD. Bruce was attorney for the defendant.

Mrs. Hilda V. Rennie docketed suit for a divorce from David E. Rennie, but no bill of complaint was filed. F. Brooke Whiting is counsel for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Martha Maphis filed for a divorce from Roy P. Maphis. Ryan, her attorney, didn't disclose the grounds for complaint.

Suicide Verdict Given In Death Of Richard Dent

Purgittsville Man Found In Woods With Neck Partially Shot Away

PURGITTSVILLE, W. Va., July 23.—The body of Richard Edgel Dent, 20, a discharged sailor, was found this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock a quarter of a mile from his Purgittsville home by an uncle who was gathering berries, with the neck partially blown away by the discharge of a single barrel 12 gauge shotgun.

A. L. Russell, acting Hampshire county medical examiner, fixed the time of death as early Thursday morning of last week and gave a verdict of suicide.

According to Russell, Dent who resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dent, was last seen Wednesday night, when he took his brother, Robert's, car to Westernport.

While returning from Westernport, Dent reportedly hit a culvert on the McCoole road and damaged the car beyond repair, Russell said, but escaped injury himself.

Following the accident Dent returned to Purgittsville in a taxi, and must have entered the house while the family was sleeping, and got the shotgun which was kept under a pair of steps leading to the up stairs, Russell explained.

Body Found By Uncle

The uncle, Irvin Shoemaker, told Russell that he was picking berries this afternoon when he was attracted by an odor and went into a clumb of trees to investigate.

Russell said the body was badly decomposed, and stated that the man must have placed the shotgun stock against a tree and stood in front of the gun. Russell said a stick found near the body apparently was used to press the trigger.

Identification was made possible by Dent's pocketbook and a letter from "a woman in Westernport," Russell stated.

Russell said that a paragraph of the letter pleaded with Dent "not to do the thing that he had talked about."

A will written by Dent was also found on the body, leaving all of his "possessions," to his brother Robert, whose car he wrecked, Russell stated.

About two-thirds of a pint bottle of whisky was found on a stump near the body, the corner said.

Dent was discharged from the navy in March, 1946, but suffered an attack of pneumonia shortly after returning home, the coroner said and he had not been working, other than to do odd jobs about the house.

Besides his parents and brother Robert, four other brothers and three sisters survive. They are:

Alvin Dent and Loren Dent, at home; Coleman Dent, West Newton, Pa.; Stanley Dent, Perryville, W. Va.; Mrs. Leonar Dirk, Romney, W. Va.; Mrs. Dorcas Gianamore, West Newton, Pa., and Delia Campion, West Newton, Pa.

Funeral rites will be conducted tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon in the Old Pine church, Keyser, W. Va. Services will be conducted by the Keyser Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, of which Dent was a member.

Garment Workers Will Lay Plans To End Stoppage

Jaffe Demands That AFL Official Withdraw Picket-Application

In a statement issued late last night Irwin J. Jaffee, assistant regional director of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union stated that he had been informed by Police Chief Eyerman that the request for the picketing permits had been filed by C. E. Stutzman, an officer of the Allegany Trades Council.

"Stutzman has violated every rule and principle of the American Federation of Labor granting autonomy to all affiliated International unions and was not authorized by any position he now holds to take such unprecedented action in interfering in the affairs of another affiliate of the American Federation of Labor," Jaffee stated.

"In view of Stutzman's unwarranted meddling, Jaffee continued, "I have no other recourse than to demand that Stutzman immediately withdraw his application for the permits as the membership of local 434 has voted to condemn the strike and previous to this Stutzman was certainly aware that the International Ladies Garment Workers Union frowned upon any stoppage at this time as needless and unnecessary.

"Unless Stutzman withdraws from this entire controversy, Jaffee concluded, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union will take the matter up with the national offices of both the Teamsters Union and the American Federation of Labor."

Meeting Is Planned

A time for the resumption of work at the Cumberland Undergarment Company will be set at a meeting of Local 434, International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, to be held this morning at 11 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council hall, Frederick street, union officials reported yesterday.

Members of the union, who declared the strike which began at the Gay street plant last Thursday "unsanctioned", yesterday passed a resolution which provided that members who fail to report for work at the time set will be charged with maintaining and prolonging an illegal strike. Workers found guilty of the charge face expulsion from the union and loss of their jobs, union officials declared.

Garment Union Officials Here Demand Increase

Four officials of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, in a statement last night asserted they believed few employes of the Cumberland Undergarment Company would report for today's meeting called to set a time for resumption of work at the Gay street plant and declared the girls have adopted the Confucious say motto, "No raisee! No workee! So solly!"

The statement by Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chair lady; Mrs. Viola Lohr, shop steward; Miss Lenore Folk, vice president, and Mrs. Dorothy Fees, secretary, declared 36 members of the local are on the picket line and that more are signing up for duty every day. They also stated that:

"Chief of Police Eyerman called City Attorney Heskett in the presence of union officials, and asked if it would be legal to issue the picketing permits and was assured it was all right.

"Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, president of the local, refused to uphold her position and would not conduct regular meetings of the local. She told us she had resigned but refused to put the resignation into writing.

"There could not have been 30 per cent of the workers at yesterday's meeting because we learned from a reliable source that not more than 10 attended.

"None of the girls have even attempted to cross the picket line and at least 36 picketing permits have been issued. More names come in every day.

"We all feel the same way — more money or no work!

"The regional director has not contacted any of the local's officers so that he might get all sides of the story."

The union officials also declared that when Miss Angela Baumbace spoke at the factory last Wednesday the union official did not give anyone a chance to speak against the two-week waiting period she suggested and declared that several who did say no to the suggestion were ignored.

Chamber of Commerce Activities Not Fully Understood, Smith Says

Emphasizes Need For Broader Program Of Publicity Of Organization and Its Place In Community In Making His Annual Report

Emphasizing the need for a broader program of publicity about itself and its place in the community, Harold W. Smith, secretary, told members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at their annual meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Club, that "too many people have a misconception of the purpose and task of the organization."

Smith declared that a survey conducted by the Opinion Research Corporation has proven that only 10 per cent of the public had any knowledge whatever, concerning the activities of chambers of commerce.

He stated one of the most popular misconceptions seems to be that the organization is interested primarily in keeping wages down so they can sell the community on a basis of cheap labor. "I am sure," he continued, "you know there is no basis for such a line of thinking, yet these are examples of attitudes discovered in a survey."

Public Is Not Informed

"The average worker has an unrealistic, and even fantastic conception of the amount of money companies make. For example, workers think, according to the survey, the dollar going to the worker and owner is divided 75 cents to the owner and 25 cents to the worker. Actually workers get 85 cents to 95 cents on the dollar going to payrolls and dividends.

The public generally, thinks companies make 25 per cent on their investment, Smith added. They say 10 per cent would be fair. Actually, through the years, companies have made from four to five per cent on their investment. You hear comments on the prices of meats and the enormous profit packers make. The fact is that out of every sales dollar for meat, the packers profit is one cent."

"This type of ignorance," Smith exclaimed, "is one of the reasons why people distrust the humanitarian qualities of businessmen. Large numbers of people believe, he declared, that management is greedy, that it lacks the milk of human

Work In Clerk's Office Increases, Jackson Asserts

Local Attorneys Sign Request For Meeting To Study Situation

A number of local attorneys have signed a request to be presented to William C. Gilchrist, president of the Allegany County Bar Association, asking that a special meeting be called to discuss what they consider to be a piling up of unrecorded documents in the clerk of court's office, George Henderson, Cumberland attorney said last night.

Henderson explained that numerous conveyances of deeds, mortgages and conditional sales agreements during the past year have caused recording work at the court house to fall behind.

He said the meeting would be held in an effort to find ways and means to correct the present difficulties, and a recommendation may be presented to court officials.

Robert Jackson, clerk of the circuit court, last night admitted that the recording of deeds and mortgages has fallen behind, because of the great increase in work.

Jackson explained that he has already hired two additional clerks after receiving permission from the comptroller of the state. He explained that one of the clerks has been working for four months and the second has been employed for the past month.

Additional help is being sought, Jackson explained, "but the present setup is so clumsy" that a great deal of time is needed. He said permission to hire additional help must come from the comptroller who also sets the salary scale.

The great influx of servicemen who have been recording their discharge papers and purchasing property is one reason for the backlog of work at this time, Jackson said, adding that a great many persons are releasing their mortgages and renewing after refinancing them at a lower interest rate, this has all added to the amount of work to be done, he explained.

Henderson said last night that no date has been set for the meeting, and explained that other subjects may be discussed when Gilchrist calls the bar members together.

Sensabaugh Says City Officials Are "Discriminatory"

City officials were charged yesterday with "discriminatory action" and "deliberately standing in the way of progress" by French Sensabaugh, of G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., Cumberland contracting company, following a hearing in police court at which the company was found guilty of violating city ordinance No. 1530, sub-section P, regarding the movement of heavy equipment on city streets.

Sensabaugh was charged specifically with having moved a 25-ton stone crusher from the Rolling Mill yard of the B. & O. Railroad out Oldtown Road without police sanction. He was arrested last week on a warrant served by Detective Lt. E. R. Lilya and put up a $50 bond pending a hearing this morning.

Sentence Suspended

Sentence was suspended on the grounds that while Sensabaugh violated the letter of the law he did not violate it in spirit and had been acting in good faith.

Sensabaugh said today that he was refused a police permit to move his equipment last week and was referred to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

"Rizer read the ordinance which states that nothing on steel wheels weighing over one ton can be moved over city streets," Sensabaugh said. "I explained there is less weight per square inch on Crusher Units weighing about 25 tons than on city or other ten ton rollers on steel wheels, but Rizer refused to grant permission, stating to do so would be exceeding his authority."

Sensabaugh said he next contacted the City Council through Mayor Post and explained that the crusher machinery could not be loaded on rubber tired trailers due to the size of the units, that there was a minimum possibility of damage to streets and that the company would pay for any damage.

Sensabaugh said he was next informed that Rizer was to inspect the equipment, that he did and advised the contractor to post insurance evidence.

All Precautions Observed

Sensabaugh said his firm requested George Brown, insurance broker, to supply a letter showing his firm's coverage and Brown supplied Rizer with a certificate of insurance covering personal injuries up to $50,000 and property damage to $25,000.

"We moved the equipment on

Two Children Are Hurt In Vehicle Accidents Here

Nancy Ann Noe, 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charles Whitacre, 725 North Mechanic street, was admitted to Allegany hospital yesterday at 3 p. m. for treatment of possible head injuries suffered, attaches were told, when she was struck by a truck near her home.

Attaches said the child's condition is good, but that X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of any possible head injuries. Police said they had no report of the accident.

Albert Harris, 11, 23 Roberts street, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 4:25 p. m. for bruises about the leg suffered, he told attaches, when the bicycle he was riding sideswiped a car driven by George Diggs, Oldtown road, at the intersection of Grand avenue and Oldtown road.

Police said that Sgt. Raymond R. Johnston investigated the crash and added that another boy riding on the bike was uninjured.

Hendricks Lantz, 61, Route 4, was admitted to Memorial hospital early last night for observation and treatment of possible shoulder and neck injuries.

The Warrior Mountain farmer told attaches he had the lines around his neck as he was plowing and was thrown over the plow when the horses got out of control. Attaches reported his condition as "fair".

Lester Garlick, 27, 160 North Mechanic street, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 4:30 p. m. for burns of the face and arms. Garlick said he was welding at the Gurley Brothers garage when something exploded.

BIG GUN ARRIVES—This 155 mm. howitzer, a relic from World War I, to be used as a war memorial, has arrived here from the army ordnance depot, Anniston, Ala., and has been placed on a base in front of the court house. Work On Economic Survey Here May Start In Fall

Dr. John Cover Explains Value Of Project To C Of C Members

Explaining the value of an economic survey to a community, and something of what it may accomplish, Dr. John C. Cover, recently named to direct business research for the University of Maryland, told members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night that work on a local survey will probably be started this fall.

Dr. Cover, speaking at the annual meeting of the organization, declared he has a personal interest in Cumberland and some of its problems. He said his mother was born here, and his grandfather walked from Cumberland to Johnstown, Pa., many years ago, to see a new steel mill, for which he eventually worked.

Dr. Cover said as a boy he remembers wading around in flooded basements here rescuing jars of fruits and other family possessions when the river and creek overflowed, so he knows something about floods and the local flood problem, he declared.

He explained that the survey for Cumberland was started by Dr. Eugene B. Halaas, whom he succeeded, adding that after he studies the work done to date, he will begin the task of completing the report.

During his talk, Dr. Cover related experiences on other surveys and the effect they had upon economic, social and cultural life of cities and communities who utilized information in them.

He predicted that Cumberland will have a most comprehensive report of its potential industrial activity and its economic future, when the survey is completed.

Eleven directors elected by the membership are W. Donald Smith, Harry Pitzer, Roy W. Eves, Charles L. Kopp, Arthur Weber, James A. Avirett, William Claus, George Schwarzenbach, O. J. Hale, Miles J. Thompson and George Henderson.

All but Henderson, who was elected to fill the uncompleted term of the late William L. Geppert, will serve three years.

Eves said the directors will meet at 4 p. m. Thursday at the chamber offices to organize and elect officers.

Small Airplane Crashes Into Deep Creek Lake

Volunteers Will Drag Lake Today For Pilot's Body; Craft Recovered

Single-Engine Ship, En-Route To Dayton, Ohio, Sinks Immediately After Hitting Wire

OAKLAND, July 23 — A single-engine Ercoupe plane, one of three being ferried from Riverdale, Md., to Dayton, O., hit a high-tension wire near here tonight and sank in Deep Creek lake, Neil C. Fraley, state's attorney of Garrett county, reported.

Cpl. Charles A. Disney of the state police reported that the plane was raised and towed to shore at about 11 p. m., but that the pilot's body has not yet been recovered. He said that plans are being made to drag the lake tomorrow (Wednesday) morning.

The pilot of the plane was identified by his companions as Ray L. Ruffi, Dayton, O. The other two pilots, B. S. Carnes and Herschel Reed, Riverdale, circled the scene of the crash, near Beckman's peninsula above the Glendale bridge, for several minutes but failed to find any trace of Ruffi's plane, which eyewitnesses said sank immediately.

On Routine Delivery Flight

Carnes and Reed landed at the Morgantown, W Va., Municipal airport, where they organized a searching party and returned to Oakland by automobile with Lee Renick, airport manager.

James R. Myers, assistant regional manager of the American Flyaway Service in the Washington office, said the planes were sent out by the firm on routine delivery flights about 5 p. m.

Oakland residents reported that lights went out in the city at about 7 p. m. when the plane struck the line of the Western Maryland Power Company, Fraley said. He added that the power line was suspended at an approximate height of 75 feet above the lake.

Approximately two hours after the crash, summer residents in motorboats and other craft, using grappling hooks and rope, located the plane in about 30 feet of water. An army amphibious "duck" kept at Cabin lodge for exhibition and passenger purposes, was taken to the scene of the crash, and efforts were made to attach the steel cable at the rear of the machine to the plane to haul it out of the water.

Frederick "Buck" Dreyer left Cumberland shortly before 11 p. m. to aid in efforts to raise the plane.

Plane Reported Flying Low

Robert Keener, Uniontown, Pa., whose father owns a summer cottage at the lake, was out in his motorboat with Marshall Harvey at the time of the crash, and reported that the three planes "buzzed" their boat.

When he saw Ruffi's plane go down into the lake, Keener reported the accident to Edwin Fry, proprietor of Cabin lodge, who called the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and supplied stretchers and inhalators, as well as other rescue equipment furnished by Dreyer.

State troopers who went to the scene of the crash were Lt. Charles W. Magaha, Cpls. Disney and Thomas Currie, and Troopers Harry Holsinger and Blair Buckle.

War II Memorial To Be Dedicated Here In August

Ceremony Will Be Conducted During American Legion Convention

Already placed on its base, a 155 mm. howitzer gun, will be officially dedicated as a war memorial sometime during the American Legion convention in Cumberland next month, Russell C. Paupe, adjutant of Fort Cumberland Post advised the board of county commissioners yesterday.

Aug. 15 Tentative Date

Paupe said the dedication ceremony will probably be held August 15, but the date awaits the approval of the program committee. The huge weapon, a relic of World War I, was obtained through the efforts of Rep. J. Glenn Beall, from the army ordinance depot, Anniston, Ala., after the suggestion was offered by Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson. It will replace the relic donated to the scrap heap drive during World War II.

Commissioner Wilkinson said yesterday that members of the VFW, AMVETS, and other service organizations will be invited to participate in the ceremony.

The offer of William L. Sherman to purchase 18 lots at $5,000 from the county commissioners was deferred. The commissioners explained that Walter A. Johnston, county auditor, has been in the hospital and was unable to check the value of the lots.

An investigation is being made by the engineering department to determine if the Reynolds station bridge near Barton needs strengthening, Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the state roads commission advised.

Seeks Road Repair

F. J. Flesher asked for repairs to the road at Oaklawn and Fourth street in LaVale, and County Engineer John H. Carscaden was instructed to investigate. Pipe is needed for drainage, Flesher said, and the road should be scraped for a distance of 200 feet.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, deputy state health officer, advised the board that Miss Marion Weber supervising county nurse, has retired effective July 22, and her name should be removed from the payroll. He praised her for efficient service.

R. L. Robyler, manager of the Art Glass Company, Cresap Park submitted a bid of $50 to repair three windows on the south side of the court house and a bid of $150 to repair 12 windows and three transoms in the building. No action was taken on the bids.

WIFE WHOM MATE WOUNDED ASKS HIS RELEASE FROM JAIL

The wife of Samuel J. Branson, 40, whom he allegedly shot July 3 on a South End street, joined him yesterday in filing a writ of habeas corpus in circuit court charging that he is being "illegally detained" in the county jail.

The petition, filed by Edward J. Ryan, counsel for Branson and his wife, is indicated to be a request for a reduction of the $5,000 bond on which the defendant is being held.

Branson, charged with assault with intent to kill, was arrested July 3 a short time after he reportedly wounded his wife in the abdomen with a .38 caliber revolver. He is now being held in the county jail for action of the October grand jury.

The couple, former residents of Cumberland, had been employed in Baltimore, and police said Branson followed his wife to this city because he believed she came here to see her first husband, Frank McBee.

Mrs. Branson was discharged from Memorial hospital July 17, after recovering from the abdominal wound. Chief Judge William A. Huster said a hearing will be held July 26 in circuit court.

White Asks Divorce; Says Wife Hit Him

Charging that his wife has struck him on numerous occasions and treated him with great cruelty, Hansford B. White, this city, filed suit yesterday in circuit court for an absolute divorce from Feretta C. White, said to reside in West Virginia.

In the bill of complaint, White stated they were married September 24, 1933, and lived together until May 1945. Four children were born to the marriage.

White charged that in addition to striking him, his wife swore at him, and caused him to fear for his life. Edward J. Ryan is counsel for the plaintiff.

Pauline Owings, 26, 114 Frederick street, was granted an absolute divorce from George E. Owings in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster. She is also awarded the custody of two minor children.

Edward J. Ryan, counsel for the complainant said they were married October 31, 1940 in Frederick and lived together until January 1944. Mrs. Owings said her husband drank excessively and failed to contribute to the support of the children.

Robert MacD. Bruce was attorney for the defendant.

Mrs. Hilda V. Rennie docketed suit for a divorce from David E. Rennie, but no bill of complaint was filed. F. Brooke Whiting is counsel for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Martha Maphis filed for a divorce from Roy P. Maphis. Ryan, her attorney, didn't disclose the grounds for complaint.

Purgittsville Man Found In Woods With Neck Partially Shot Away

PURGITTSVILLE, W. Va., July 23.—The body of Richard Edgel Dent, 20, a discharged sailor, was found this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock a quarter of a mile from his Purgittsville home by an uncle who was gathering berries, with the neck partially blown away by the discharge of a single barrel 12 gauge shotgun.

A. L. Russell, acting Hampshire county medical examiner, fixed the time of death as early Thursday morning of last week and gave a verdict of suicide.

According to Russell, Dent who resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dent, was last seen Wednesday night, when he took his brother, Robert's, car to Westernport.

While returning from Westernport, Dent reportedly hit a culvert on the McCoole road and damaged the car beyond repair, Russell said, but escaped injury himself.

Following the accident Dent returned to Purgittsville in a taxi, and must have entered the house while the family was sleeping, and got the shotgun which was kept under a pair of steps leading to the up stairs, Russell explained.

Body Found By Uncle

The uncle, Irvin Shoemaker, told Russell that he was picking berries this afternoon when he was attracted by an odor and went into a clumb of trees to investigate.

Russell said the body was badly decomposed, and stated that the man must have placed the shotgun stock against a tree and stood in front of the gun. Russell said a stick found near the body apparently was used to press the trigger.

Identification was made possible by Dent's pocketbook and a letter from "a woman in Westernport," Russell stated.

Russell said that a paragraph of the letter pleaded with Dent "not to do the thing that he had talked about."

A will written by Dent was also found on the body, leaving all of his "possessions," to his brother Robert, whose car he wrecked, Russell stated.

About two-thirds of a pint bottle of whisky was found on a stump near the body, the corner said.

Dent was discharged from the navy in March, 1946, but suffered an attack of pneumonia shortly after returning home, the coroner said and he had not been working, other than to do odd jobs about the house.

Funeral Rites Today

Besides his parents and brother Robert, four other brothers and three sisters survive. They are:

Alvin Dent and Loren Dent, at home; Coleman Dent, West Newton, Pa.; Stanley Dent, Perryville, W. Va.; Mrs. Leonar Dirk, Romney, W. Va.; Mrs. Dorcas Gianamore, West Newton, Pa., and Delia Campion, West Newton, Pa.

Funeral rites will be conducted tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon in the Old Pine church, Keyser, W. Va. Services will be conducted by the Keyser Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, of which Dent was a member.

Local News In Brief

Samuel T. Weatherholt, 322 Avirett avenue, local insurance man who is the only Democratic party candidate for the office of Allegany County Commissioner, said last night he has named Harold E. Naughton, local attorney, his political agent.

Garment Workers Will Lay Plans To End Stoppage

Jaffe Demands That AFL Official Withdraw Picket-Application

In a statement issued late last night Irwin J. Jaffee, assistant regional director of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union stated that he had been informed by Police Chief Eyerman that the request for the picketing permits had been filed by C. E. Stutzman, an officer of the Allegany Trades Council.

"Stutzman has violated every rule and principle of the American Federation of Labor granting autonomy to all affiliated International unions and was not authorized by any position he now holds to take such unprecedented action in interfering in the affairs of another affiliate of the American Federation of Labor," Jaffee stated.

"In view of Stutzman's unwarranted meddling, Jaffee continued, "I have no other recourse than to demand that Stutzman immediately withdraw his application for the permits as the membership of local 434 has voted to condemn the strike and previous to this Stutzman was certainly aware that the International Ladies Garment Workers Union frowned upon any stoppage at this time as needless and unnecessary.

"Unless Stutzman withdraws from this entire controversy, Jaffee concluded, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union will take the matter up with the national offices of both the Teamsters Union and the American Federation of Labor."

Meeting Is Planned

A time for the resumption of work at the Cumberland Undergarment Company will be set at a meeting of Local 434, International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, to be held this morning at 11 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council hall, Frederick street, union officials reported yesterday.

Members of the union, who declared the strike which began at the Gay street plant last Thursday "unsanctioned", yesterday passed a resolution which provided that members who fail to report for work at the time set will be charged with maintaining and prolonging an illegal strike. Workers found guilty of the charge face expulsion from the union and loss of their jobs, union officials declared.

Garment Union Officials Here Demand Increase

Four officials of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, in a statement last night asserted they believed few employes of the Cumberland Undergarment Company would report for today's meeting called to set a time for resumption of work at the Gay street plant and declared the girls have adopted the Confucious say motto, "No raisee! No workee! So solly!"

The statement by Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chair lady; Mrs. Viola Lohr, shop steward; Miss Lenore Folk, vice president, and Mrs. Dorothy Fees, secretary, declared 36 members of the local are on the picket line and that more are signing up for duty every day. They also stated that:

"Chief of Police Eyerman called City Attorney Heskett in the presence of union officials, and asked if it would be legal to issue the picketing permits and was assured it was all right.

"Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, president of the local, refused to uphold her position and would not conduct regular meetings of the local. She told us she had resigned but refused to put the resignation into writing.

"There could not have been 30 per cent of the workers at yesterday's meeting because we learned from a reliable source that not more than 10 attended.

"None of the girls have even attempted to cross the picket line and at least 36 picketing permits have been issued. More names come in every day.

"We all feel the same way — more money or no work!

"The regional director has not contacted any of the local's officers so that he might get all sides of the story."

The union officials also declared that when Miss Angela Baumbace spoke at the factory last Wednesday the union official did not give anyone a chance to speak against the two-week waiting period she suggested and declared that several who did say no to the suggestion were ignored.

Chamber of Commerce Activities Not Fully Understood, Smith Says

Emphasizes Need For Broader Program Of Publicity Of Organization and Its Place In Community In Making His Annual Report

Emphasizing the need for a broader program of publicity about itself and its place in the community, Harold W. Smith, secretary, told members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at their annual meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Club, that "too many people have a misconception of the purpose and task of the organization."

Smith declared that a survey conducted by the Opinion Research Corporation has proven that only 10 per cent of the public had any knowledge whatever, concerning the activities of chambers of commerce.

He stated one of the most popular misconceptions seems to be that the organization is interested primarily in keeping wages down so they can sell the community on a basis of cheap labor. "I am sure," he continued, "you know there is no basis for such a line of thinking, yet these are examples of attitudes discovered in a survey."

Public Is Not Informed

"The average worker has an unrealistic, and even fantastic conception of the amount of money companies make. For example, workers think, according to the survey, the dollar going to the worker and owner is divided 75 cents to the owner and 25 cents to the worker. Actually workers get 85 cents to 95 cents on the dollar going to payrolls and dividends.

The public generally, thinks companies make 25 per cent on their investment, Smith added. They say 10 per cent would be fair. Actually, through the years, companies have made from four to five per cent on their investment. You hear comments on the prices of meats and the enormous profit packers make. The fact is that out of every sales dollar for meat, the packers profit is one cent."

"This type of ignorance," Smith exclaimed, "is one of the reasons why people distrust the humanitarian qualities of businessmen. Large numbers of people believe, he declared, that management is greedy, that it lacks the milk of human

Local Attorneys Sign Request For Meeting To Study Situation

A number of local attorneys have signed a request to be presented to William C. Gilchrist, president of the Allegany County Bar Association, asking that a special meeting be called to discuss what they consider to be a piling up of unrecorded documents in the clerk of court's office, George Henderson, Cumberland attorney said last night.

Henderson explained that numerous conveyances of deeds, mortgages and conditional sales agreements during the past year have caused recording work at the court house to fall behind.

He said the meeting would be held in an effort to find ways and means to correct the present difficulties, and a recommendation may be presented to court officials.

Robert Jackson, clerk of the circuit court, last night admitted that the recording of deeds and mortgages has fallen behind, because of the great increase in work.

Jackson explained that he has already hired two additional clerks after receiving permission from the comptroller of the state. He explained that one of the clerks has been working for four months and the second has been employed for the past month.

Additional help is being sought, Jackson explained, "but the present setup is so clumsy" that a great deal of time is needed. He said permission to hire additional help must come from the comptroller who also sets the salary scale.

The great influx of servicemen who have been recording their discharge papers and purchasing property is one reason for the backlog of work at this time, Jackson said, adding that a great many persons are releasing their mortgages and renewing after refinancing them at a lower interest rate, this has all added to the amount of work to be done, he explained.

Henderson said last night that no date has been set for the meeting, and explained that other subjects may be discussed when Gilchrist calls the bar members together.

Sensabaugh Says City Officials Are "Discriminatory"

City officials were charged yesterday with "discriminatory action" and "deliberately standing in the way of progress" by French Sensabaugh, of G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., Cumberland contracting company, following a hearing in police court at which the company was found guilty of violating city ordinance No. 1530, sub-section P, regarding the movement of heavy equipment on city streets.

Sensabaugh was charged specifically with having moved a 25-ton stone crusher from the Rolling Mill yard of the B. & O. Railroad out Oldtown Road without police sanction. He was arrested last week on a warrant served by Detective Lt. E. R. Lilya and put up a $50 bond pending a hearing this morning.

Sentence Suspended

Sentence was suspended on the grounds that while Sensabaugh violated the letter of the law he did not violate it in spirit and had been acting in good faith.

Sensabaugh said today that he was refused a police permit to move his equipment last week and was referred to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

"Rizer read the ordinance which states that nothing on steel wheels weighing over one ton can be moved over city streets," Sensabaugh said. "I explained there is less weight per square inch on Crusher Units weighing about 25 tons than on city or other ten ton rollers on steel wheels, but Rizer refused to grant permission, stating to do so would be exceeding his authority."

Sensabaugh said he next contacted the City Council through Mayor Post and explained that the crusher machinery could not be loaded on rubber tired trailers due to the size of the units, that there was a minimum possibility of damage to streets and that the company would pay for any damage.

Sensabaugh said he was next informed that Rizer was to inspect the equipment, that he did and advised the contractor to post insurance evidence.

All Precautions Observed

Sensabaugh said his firm requested George Brown, insurance broker, to supply a letter showing his firm's coverage and Brown supplied Rizer with a certificate of insurance covering personal injuries up to $50,000 and property damage to $25,000.

"We moved the equipment on

Work On Economic Survey Here May Start In Fall

Dr. John Cover Explains Value Of Project To C Of C Members

Explaining the value of an economic survey to a community, and something of what it may accomplish, Dr. John C. Cover, recently named to direct business research for the University of Maryland, told members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night that work on a local survey will probably be started this fall.

Dr. Cover, speaking at the annual meeting of the organization, declared he has a personal interest in Cumberland and some of its problems. He said his mother was born here, and his grandfather walked from Cumberland to Johnstown, Pa., many years ago, to see a new steel mill, for which he eventually worked.

Dr. Cover said as a boy he remembers wading around in flooded basements here rescuing jars of fruits and other family possessions when the river and creek overflowed, so he knows something about floods and the local flood problem, he declared.

He explained that the survey for Cumberland was started by Dr. Eugene B. Halaas, whom he succeeded, adding that after he studies the work done to date, he will begin the task of completing the report.

During his talk, Dr. Cover related experiences on other surveys and the effect they had upon economic, social and cultural life of cities and communities who utilized information in them.

He predicted that Cumberland will have a most comprehensive report of its potential industrial activity and its economic future, when the survey is completed.

Eleven directors elected by the membership are W. Donald Smith, Harry Pitzer, Roy W. Eves, Charles L. Kopp, Arthur Weber, James A. Avirett, William Claus, George Schwarzenbach, O. J. Hale, Miles J. Thompson and George Henderson.

All but Henderson, who was elected to fill the uncompleted term of the late William L. Geppert, will serve three years.

Eves said the directors will meet at 4 p. m. Thursday at the chamber offices to organize and elect officers.
